HELD SECOND ANNUAL BANQUET

Chamber of Commerce Members and Invited Guests Gather at Kasino

Forceful Addresses by Senator David I. Walsh and Herbert Adams Gibbons

In a forceful speech during which he compared the prosperity and economic security of the United States with war stricken European countries, and declaring that the people of this country should kneel down and give thanks to their Maker that America had been spared the suffering and distress that has been visited upon foreign shores, United States Senator David I. Walsh, one of the principal speakers at the second annual banquet of the Lowell chamber of commerce last evening in the Kasino, told nearly 500 members and invited guests that the United States must not enter into any compact with a foreign nation or group of nations which would pledge Americans to go to war at the behest of any other country. He would lend liberal economic aid to stricken Europe in restoring her industrial equilibrium.

The other speaker of the evening, Herbert Adams Gibbons, magazine correspondent and verse in international affairs, spoke at length on the proceedings of the uris conference at Washington, and declared his belief in three great achievements of that conference, as he called them—the

STATE INCOME TAX

Time for Filing Income Tax Expires Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the last day for filing your state income tax return within the law. If you are required to file, or have any question as to your ability, you are advised to communicate with the office of the income tax division without delay. The returns which are received after tomorrow may have, in addition to the regular taxes, penalties imposed at the rate of $5 per day for each day late.

Many persons own bonds or shares of stocks who have never made reports, under the belief that their income is insufficient to require a return. The size of the income does not affect a person's liability to make a report of this kind of income. If you are one of this class and have any doubts as to your interest or obligations being of a taxable nature, you should communicate with the state office immediately.

REORGANIZATION OF LOCAL POLICE LIQUOR SQUAD IN THE AIR

Acting Superintendent MacBrayne and Lieut. Palmer Confer With Mayor Brown—Patrolmen P. B. Clark, O'Sullivan and Sullivan Transferred to Strike Duty—Officer Joseph Clark Changed From Middlesex Street Route to Squad Last Night

It was learned today that the local police liquor squad is in the process of reorganization and that already a number of the men on the squad have requested transfers to route duty. When questioned concerning it, Temporary Superintendent W. C. MacBrayne said that he expected to have some news to give out regarding it within the next 24 hours.

Mr. MacBrayne and Lieut. George Palmer, superior officer in charge of the squad, were in conference with Mayor George H. Brown this forenoon, being closeted together for nearly an hour.

Last night Patrolman Joseph Clark was assigned to duty with the liquor squad, being taken from his beat in lower Middlesex street on the early night shift. His route has been given to Patrolman Michael Wrenn, who has been an unassigned officer.

Patrolmen Patrick B. Clark, Thomas O'Sullivan and Patrick Sullivan, who have been members of the liquor squad for some time, today were sent to the Bay State Cotton Corp. for strike duty there. Whether or not they will return to the squad eventually, could not be learned.

No Disturbance of Any Kind Has Been Reported to the Police

Scores of union pickets lined the streets in the neighborhood of the Bay State Cotton corporation last evening from 5 to 6 o'clock, and extra details of police were sent to the scene.

This morning, at 6.45, more than 125 pickets, eight of them women textile workers anxious to bear their part of the burden of picketing the Bay State mills, were patrolling Marginal street for a distance of nearly half a mile, with the largest numbers pacing up and down on both sidewalks and in the middle of the road in close proximity to the textile company's main entrance.

Not the slightest sign of a disturbance.

Six Men Arrested in Raid of What Los Angeles Police Term a Narcotic Den

Detectives Believe Arrests Will Develop Connection With Taylor Murder

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28.—Six men were arrested here early today in the raid of what police termed a narcotic den. Detectives working on the mysterious slaying Feb. 1 of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, questioned the men, and the police reported belief that the arrests will develop connection with the murder.

BAR ASSOCIATION ACTS ON DEATH OF MEMBER

Today's session of district court was interrupted for a brief period when the members of the Lowell bar association and representatives of the Middlesex bar association took preliminary action on the death of their associate for many years, John J. Hogan, Esq.

Judge Enright called to order and stated that as one of the most reputable members of the bar has passed away, a member for many years of both associations, he understood that the associates present wished to take some action in regard to sending delegates to the funeral. The secretary of the Lowell association had submitted the following list of names of those who would represent the association at the funeral: James E. O'Donnell, Charles H. McIntyre, John M. O'Donnell, Fred N. Wehr, D. J. Donahue, Dennis J. Murphy, John J. Harvey, and Albert S. Howard. The representatives

Temporary Chief of Police Gets Salary—Mayor Says Bond Filed

Pyler A. Stevens, chairman of the budget and audit commission, said today that his committee had been informed by Mayor George H. Brown that Winfred C. MacBrayne, acting superintendent of police, has furnished a bond to the city, covering any question of liability that might later arise. If the court should hold that the temporary chief was not entitled to his salary while filling the position.

It was learned at the office of the city clerk that no bond has been filed there. Also, it was learned today that Mr. MacBrayne has drawn his salary for the month of January, which had been held up by the budget and audit commission and so marked on the salary payroll when presented to them for approval. On the approved payroll, payable tomorrow, Mr. MacBrayne's name appears for the sum of $260, full salary for the month of February.

Second Annual Banquet

temporary limitation of armaments, the limitation by treaty of the use of certain weapons, and the beginning of the process of freeing China.

President Edward Fisher of the chamber of commerce presided at the after-dinner exercises. There was music by an orchestra and chorus singing led by a member. The hall was beautifully decorated for the event. The committee in charge of the banquet included Robert P. Marten, John A. Hannon, and Charles A. D. Grasse. Members of Troop 15, Boy Scouts, acted as ushers.

President Edward Fisher, United States Senator David I. Walsh, Mayor George H. Brown, Herbert Adams Gibbons, Rev. J. E. Kennedy, Percy J.

Japanese representatives. He related an interview he had with Secretary Hughes back in the year 1916 when the latter was preparing a speech on "International Affairs." A story emanating from the south followed to describe the results of the little chat with Mr. Hughes. "Both parties in 1916," said Mr. Gibbons, "straddled on European affairs and preparedness."

"Germany decided later on for us, and then we began to rub our eyes and wonder why we had not come in and prepared before," said the speaker. "If the United States had not gone into the war, it would have been a drawn battle. We had certain responsibilities. Our allies were stone-broke, and will continue to be stone-broke for some time to come, with the exception of England. Wilson tried honestly to put across his ideas, but failed. We straddled the real issue at Paris. The Washington conference was the result of public opinion aroused among all our associates in the recent war—public opinion hammering on these statesmen at Washington."

The speaker believed that three things happened at the recent conference that are high above everything else that transpired there, namely, accepting competition in arms, limiting international aspirations by treaty and beginning the process of freeing China from the clutches of foreign power. He dwelt at length on each of these points representing all as but a beginning.

The speaker believed, he said, that the motive power behind the peace treaty was really fear, and the public opinion. All nations are beginning to fear war as they never did before, he continued. Taxes are steadily increasing. Out of every $1,000 income in England, the government takes $338. During the last war, when the money was in the hands of civilians, he said, the people were up and now they are determined to prevent war in the future—because of fear and only fear. Berlin was paralyzed with fear when the allies began to move toward the German border. That is why the war was ended, said the speaker. That is why England is granting reforms to Ireland, Egypt and India.

The speaker declared that the old-time Anglo-Saxons were disappearing. Our policy, he said in closing, must be to stand unflinchingly for the development of our principles of self-government and stop the exploitation of Asia.

Senator Walsh's Address

Senator Walsh, the last speaker of the evening, received an ovation when he was introduced by President Fisher. The senator declared his sincere pleasure in being one of the guests of the chamber of commerce, acknowledging his growing interest in the welfare and prosperity of the city of Lowell and its inhabitants, and praising the local chamber of commerce for its meritorious work in "keeping ahead of the times."

"If I wanted to know what the actual spirit of a locality was, or the spirit of the people of a locality, I would judge it by its chamber of commerce. It is the only organization that reflects the real spirit of progress and the spirit of commercial success."

"It is a pleasure, I assure you, to come back to my constituents tonight. The sessions of congress just now are long, for there is much important legislation pending. A senator in my position is unfortunate in that he has to be removed from his constituents. The senator paid a high tribute to the late John J. Hogan as a citizen and a public official."

He described the bankrupt condition of all the European nations. England alone is without a debt so far and France with the largest army in the world. In view of such conditions he said:

"Every living American ought to get down on his knees and thank God that he has escaped most of this suffering of the nations of Europe."

He said the leaders at Washington are building up the highest tariff wall in history.

"I am not a free trader. Let us be sincere, and in helping Europe, let us help ourselves." He favored a tariff to cover the difference in the cost of production here and abroad. A high tariff will increase the cost of living while wages are being cut down.

"The best method is to adopt a tariff that will protect American labor and also protect the consuming public. To depart from the old policy, of free raw materials, means extortion and not protection. We must co-operate, we must advise, we must use our influence to help Europe to come back, to help restore prosperity."

Mayor George H. Brown

His Honor Mayor George H. Brown was then introduced to extend the greetings of the city to the members and guests. After doing so, he said he would sign to President Harding for a favorable report on the development of the Merrimack river from Lowell to the sea.

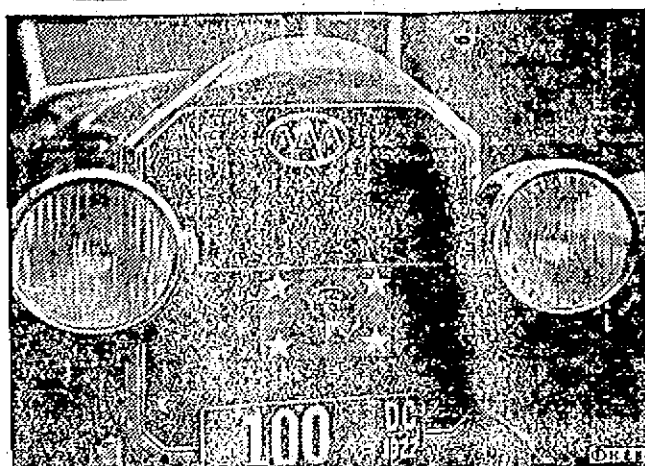

Herbert Adams Gibbons

Mr. Gibbons was then presented and the members arose to greet him.

Mr. Gibbons took for his subject: "The Washington Conference." He gave a lengthy address, covering a wide range of topics closely affiliated with the conference and European affairs, and touched upon many important points brought out by the Washington conference and some that were not prominently outlined in the conference proceedings and final reports.

The speaker showed intimate knowledge of foreign governmental affairs. He told the members and guests during the course of his speech that he had lived in Europe for the past 12 years, and had associated with many notable figures in the columns of the public prints. As a long-time newspaperman and magazine writer, he has met and talked with many noted men of almost every country on the globe, and many of his reminiscences last evening were worth listening to and very illuminating.

His description of some of the important characteristics of the armament conference was both interesting and instructive. He met many of the delegates to that conference, and enjoyed a particularly delightful chat with the

DAIL EIREANN MEETS SEES NO DANGER IN COAL STRIKE

Reassembled in Dublin Today for Session Expected to Last Several Days

DUBLIN, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—The Dail Eireann reassembled today for a session which was expected to continue several days. The main subject to be considered is understood to be that of financing the provisional government for the coming six months.

The session is expected also to see attempts by the republicans to overturn the small majority of the Free State advocates, and preparations have been made for interpellation of the government on various outstanding questions connected with the peace settlement.

A vote against the Collins-Griffith party, however, will not affect their tenure of office, as under the recent agreement in the Sinn Féin national convention they are to remain in power for at least three months. The efforts of the opposition will be exerted mainly for the effect they may have on the coming elections.

The meetings will not be open to the public but newspaper correspondents will be allowed to recount the proceedings.

had no money to give, but they were willing to go. What did they give? Love—patriotism—self-sacrifice—their lives! They taught us that the noblest thing in life is not what we take, but what we give! They died for love of country, love of democracy. They died for love of justice, democracy and human liberty."

"Let us stand as Americans—willing to give, willing to help, willing to sacrifice if need be, willing to do all we can without sacrificing our ideals to help restore the world. And let us be thankful that God blesses our land, but stick to the principles that made this a land of freedom and equality for all."

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—While warning that a coal strike is inevitable, State Fuel Administrator Eugene C. Hittman said yesterday that there was no danger of shortage for the present coal-burning season, and that if the public act intelligently the cost of domestic fuel for next winter should be lower than this season's supply.

The fuel administrator sent a letter to miners and selectmen throughout the state, asking them to keep him informed of local conditions, so that prompt action be taken on any attempt to boost prices.

The letter, in part, follows:

"In discussing and considering coal, the public are often confused and misled because they think of coal as a unit, while entirely dissimilar conditions exist in regard to bituminous and anthracite coal."

"Bituminous or soft coal is indispensable to our industries, public utilities and railroads. The wage scale of the unionized miners expires April 1 and strike rumors have come from both miners and operators. However, the bituminous fields are only partly unionized and there has been much part time work during the past year. Bituminous coal prices have dropped at the mine mouth from $10 in 1920 to $2.80 per ton at the present time."

"This coal from non-unionized fields can be produced in sufficient variety to satisfy all industrial and domestic requirements."

"In contrast to previous strikes, the outcome of a strike under existing economic conditions will not ultimately result in higher prices for bituminous coal."

"Labor in anthracite mines is highly unionized, the mine owners are also strongly organized. The miners have had steady employment at war-time wages for several years. The price has increased at the mine from $4 in 1914 to $8.10 per gross ton at the present time."

"The anthracite producers have informed us that they believe there will be a suspension of production in the anthracite fields due to a strike, vacation or walk-out for an indefinite period after April 1."

"The economic movement for lower prices will compel producers of an-thraco to reduce the present price. At present prices it is a luxury fuel and the difference existing between bituminous selling today in Boston at $2.25 per ton, delivered, and anthracite with lower heat value at $15 must be reduced, or bituminous coal will replace anthracite in this part of the country."

SOCIAL AND DANCE

IN LINCOLN HALL

About 600 young people spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening in Lincoln hall last night at the social and dance conducted by St. Columba's guild, and the event proved one of the most successful of the winter season. Not only was there an excellent dancing program but a splendid entertainment was furnished at intermission by several children: Lorraine Montmarquet, Mary Carney, Helen Hall, Anna Carney and Richard Griffin, under the direction of Miss Cecilia Crowe.

General manager, Miss Etta Blessington; floor director, Timothy Tuohy, and treasurer, John A. Walsh; aids, Misses Helen Blessington, Rosa Blessington, Jennie Thomas, May Thissell, Nellie O'Leary, Irene Mathews, Gertrude Mathews, Claire Molloy, Mary O'Connor, Bertha Riordan, Cecilia Crowe, Mary Sullivan, Margaret Carney, Corinne Shee, Margaret Balla, Anna Place, Sadie Lyons, Alice Mitchell, Grace Hannahan, Margaret Sullivan, Rose O'Brien, Mary O'Brien, Mary McEvoy, Ellen McEvoy, Albertine Byron, Marion McDonald and May Sexton, and Walter Shea, Richard Shaw, Frank Shea, John Sweeney, Eugene Savage.

Vote Taken as Indication That Griffith and Collins Have Majority of Six

DUBLIN, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Shortly after the Dail Eireann reassembled today a division was taken on the ratification of the appointment of Patrick J. Hogan as Dail minister of agriculture. The vote was 56 to 50 in his favor.

This was taken as an indication that the party led by Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins has a working majority of six.

Nothing New in Textile Strike

ance has thus far been reported to any of the policemen stationed on regular and special duty at the Bay State plant.

Sergeant Peter P. McMahon and a squad of five officers, all in uniform, held down the street corners and front entrances to the Bay State plant this morning, but none of the peaceful marchers in the ranks of the strikers had to be spoken to, except when someone passed a jocular remark about the fine weather, the cool breeze and the prospect for spring planting or something of that sort.

The sergeant patrolled back and forth, but most of his men were stationed about 50 feet apart near the main plant that is being operated. No attempt was made to closely cover the plant that is locked tight.

Eight women, some of middle age and two rather young, were among the textile pickets this morning. Last night a valiant band, plainly dressed every one, and never smiling, patrolled the middle of Marginal street while spectators and strikers, pickets and even the eight policemen including a sergeant and a lieutenant and one motorcycle officer, admired the determined members of the feminine sex in their ambition to prove to the mill owners that they mean business.

At this noon's meeting of the strike picket organizers in Loom Pickets' hall, committees were chosen to carry on the work in more uniform shape, morning, noon and night.

At the morning roll call Secretary Hanley of the Loom Pickets selected, with the aid of other union officials, a list of names of active pickets, who in the future will be selected for the picketing of the Bay State mills on Marginal street. Five captains were also chosen this morning, and all reported this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Trades and Labor hall for instructions.

The strikers plan to "leave" the Bay State mills territory more extensively from now on, they say. The union officials are pleased with the big showing this morning, when more than 125 strikers and active pickets and sympathizers, including several well known feminine mill workers, participated.

Universal Suffrage Bill Defeated

TOKIO, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—The universal suffrage bill, introduced in the diet by the opposition, was defeated today by a vote of 243 to 147. The final debate was not attended by the promised demonstration, a snow storm accompanied by a cold wave, interfering.

and Labor hall, Central street, for the striking textile operators, were attended by both men and women. The feminine members of the strikers' ranks are apparently increasing day by day, for yesterday several women employed in the Hamilton mills before the company closed its doors, called upon President John Hanley of the Textile Council and conferred with him about the strike situation, also bringing reports of rumors about the mills opening shortly—reports which, however, the union officials could not verify.

Textile Council representatives announce that considerable work has been destroyed by strike-breakers at the Bay State mills, but this report could not be verified at the mill offices today. The names of 12 strike-breakers have been secured by the picketing committee. Some of them are now boarding at a Middlesex street hotel of small size, according to the pickets. They were followed from the hotel to the Bay State mill this morning.

At tonight's meetings today, reports came in of further defections from the Bay State list of operatives. The weaving department is reported to be badly handicapped still, with looms being repaired by second and third class hands, the union strikers assert.

Mrs. Conboy Coming
Mrs. Sarah A. Conboy, secretary-treasurer of the United Textile Workers of America, and noted for her leadership organization work all through New England in the mill cities, will address a mass meeting of Lowell textile workers now on strike, either next week or the week immediately following.

President John Hanley, of the local textile council, received word this morning from a Rhode Island T. U. A. local organizer, stating Mrs. Conboy's intention to visit Lowell as soon as possible to address several meetings in this vicinity.

The news of the secretary-treasurer's coming was received with great interest at another rally of the Loom Pickets local this morning in the Park hotel building.

If possible, Crescent rink will be engaged again for a rally either on a week day night or a Sunday afternoon. It is believed, however, that the coming mass meeting will be held about the middle of the week, and that will mean an evening meeting.

At this noon's meeting of the strike picket organizers in Loom Pickets' hall, committees were chosen to carry on the work in more uniform shape, morning, noon and night.

At the morning roll call Secretary Hanley of the Loom Pickets selected, with the aid of other union officials, a list of names of active pickets, who in the future will be selected for the picketing of the Bay State mills on Marginal street. HARDING URGES FEDERAL AID

President Presents Plan for Government Aid for Merchant Marine

$32,000,000 Annually by Diversion of 10 Per Cent of Customs Receipts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The administration plan for government aid for the American merchant marine was presented to congress today by President Harding with the declaration that the influence of the United States in world councils is "sure to be measured by that unflinching standard which is found in a nation's merchant marine."

The president detailed to the two houses assembled in joint session, the war time creation of America's great tonnage—an experimental venture as he described it—and then he added: "Having failed at such enormous cost, I bring you the proposal which contemplates the return to private initiative and private enterprise, added to a conservative success, wherein we are safeguarded against the promotion of private greed, and do not discourage the hope of profitable investment, which underlies all successful endeavor."

Sentiment Points of Proposal
The salient points of this proposal embodied in bills introduced in each house immediately after the president's address follow:

Estimated at $32,000,000 annually, to be provided for principally by diversion of 10 per cent of the nation's customs receipts;

Requirements that not more than 50 per cent of the immigrants to the United States be transported in foreign ships;

Sale of the tonnage now held by the Shipping board and use of the funds as a construction loan fund;

Authorization for induction of American merchant men officers and sailors into the naval reserve with the attendant allowance in pay.

The president then detailed a number of indirect aids, mentioning in this connection:

Amendment of the interstate commerce act to permit railway systems to own and operate steamship lines engaged in other coastwise trade;

Making effective this section of the merchant marine act providing for preferential rail and steamship rates on through shipments on American vessels;

Insurance available at no greater cost than is afforded ships under foreign flags.

Mr. Harding emphasized the importance of a national merchant marine in view of suspended naval construction, declaring that without it, "no nation can hope to hold a high place in the world of commerce or be assured of adequate defense."

"The merchant marine is universally recognized as the second line of national defense," he added. "It is indispensable in the time of great national emergency."

Discontinuance so far as practicable of the separate transport services in the army and navy also was recommended by the executive who in this connection said the merchant and passenger ships under the American flag should be made "agents of service in peace as well as war."

Mr. Harding in recommending the plan for government aid said he foresaw the "stiffest possible competition by the fleets of the maritime nations" and asserted that more than the aid of the government would be necessary.

"We need a favoring spirit, an awakened American pride and an aroused American determination that we shall become in the main, the carriers of our own commerce, in spite of all competition and all discouragements," he continued. "There can be no dispute about the end at which we are aiming."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A ship subsidy estimated at approximately $32,000,000 annually, to be provided for principally by the diversion of 10 per cent of the nation's customs receipts, can ships engaged in foreign trade under a bill introduced today in the senate and house. The measure incorporates a subsidy plan proposed by the shipping board and endorsed by President Harding in a message read today to a joint session of the two houses.

Introduced in the senate by chairman Jones of the commerce committee and in the house by Chairman Greene of the merchant marine committee, the bill sets forth that the purpose of the direct subsidy provision is to "aid the development and maintenance of the American merchant marine, to promote the growth of the foreign commerce of the United States and to contribute to the national defense."

Other provisions of the bill would authorize the creation of a "construction loan fund," to be administered by the shipping board and derived from the sale of its vessels in addition to operating revenues; require that not more than 50 per cent of the number of aliens admissible to this country in any one year be transported in foreign bottoms, and authorize the payment of an additional month's pay annually to officers and men of the merchant marine who shall enlist in "the merchant marine naval reserve," which the bill would establish as a component part of any reserve force of the United States navy.

By amendment of section five of the merchant marine act of 1920, the shipping board would be "authorized and directed" to sell its ships as soon as practicable, consistent with good business methods to citizens of the United States.

The basic subsidy rate provided for all vessels either sailing or of 1500 gross tons or more, regardless of speed, is one-half of one per cent per gross ship ton per hundred nautical miles traveled. All power-driven vessels between that tonnage and 5000 tons gross shall receive the rate applying to the latter displacement. For vessels capable of a speed of 13 knots or more additional allowances would be provided, ranging from two-tenths of one cent to two and one-tenth cents for vessels with a speed of 27 knots or more.

The shipping board would be authorized to increase these rates up to double their amount whenever it shall determine that the base rate is insufficient to induce the operation of liners where the establishment and maintenance of service is considered necessary to "promote the nation's welfare." Similarly, it would be permitted to reduce the base rate under

DEPUTY QUOTES THE STATE BOXING LAWS

Edmund A. Mores, deputy boxing commissioner in this state, and also connected with the state-baller inspection department with offices in Lowell, wishes it clearly understood by boxing promoters or fans that under no consideration will contestants under 18 years of age be allowed to take part in bouts nor will children under 16 years of age, whether or not accompanied by parents or guardians, be allowed to witness a boxing bout in this city.

In conversation with a Sun reporter today Mr. Mores said that so far no attempt has been made in this city by boxing promoters to have men under 18 years of age take part in bouts, but on one or two occasions he has seen boys under 16 attending matches. "I believe," he said, "that these boys slipped in without the knowledge of the promoters, and also that parents or guardians who accompanied them were not aware of the law. This has to stop, however, for hereafter I will make it my duty to visit the hall any children under 16 years of age."

The law in this respect, which is contained in Section 39 of the laws, rules and regulations of the state boxing commission, reads as follows: "No contestant under 18 shall be permitted to engage in any boxing or sparring match or exhibition. No person under 16 shall be admitted to or be present at any boxing or sparring match or exhibition."

THE ANNUAL NIGHT BEFORE LENT PARTY

The annual night before lent party by the Young Men's Catholic Institute will be held in Associate hall this evening, and the members have united their efforts to make this year's party one which will stand out prominently as the most elaborate affair of the season.

The committee in charge of this evening's festive festival have been exceedingly fortunate in securing the services of Broderick's famous 10-piece orchestra. On previous occasions when the members of the institute have had the good fortune to secure this celebrated band of musicians all who attended have enjoyed good musical entertainments and excellent dance music, and those who attend this evening's Y.M.C.I. dances will be equally fortunate.

Special circumstances where it was considered desirable.

Trade between the United States and the Philippines and the Virgin Islands is defined for the purpose of the bill as foreign trade. The definition of such trade excludes that on the Great Lakes as well as trade "between ports in the United States and ports in foreign countries where the distance between the vessels' last port of call in the one and the vessel's first port of call in the other is less than 150 miles."

The bill provides that where net operating income, derived by an owner from vessels receiving the subsidy benefit exceeds 10 per cent in any fiscal year, 50 per cent of such excess shall be paid to the shipping board to be placed in the merchant marine fund from which the subsidy would be paid, although it is stipulated that this shall not exceed the total amount of compensation received under the proposed law.

In addition to the 10 per cent diversion of customs receipts to create this fund, the bill provides that it shall be derived from port tonnage taxes, taxes or fees which would be doubled under the bill, and also the amount that would otherwise be payable by the postoffice department for the transportation of mails which any ship contracting for the subsidy would be obligated to do under specified conditions.

NO DELAY ON SOLDIER BONUS

Commander MacNider Talks After Conference With Pres. Harding

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Hearford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, conferred with President Harding on the bonus situation today urging immediate enactment of bonus legislation.

Mr. MacNider and John Thomas Taylor, legislative agent of the legion, who accompanied the commander, declared on leaving the White House that they were "perfectly satisfied" with the results of the conference. There will be no delay in the passage of the soldiers' bonus legislation, the legionary representative declared, adding that the president was "heart and soul with the American legion" and that he understood fully its position.

Mr. Taylor said they did not discuss with the president any plan for raising the bonus over the question of the features which the president has emphasized must be included in any soldiers' bonus legislation.

M. T. I. ENTERTAINS MUSICAL TROUPE

The 1922 M.T.I. musical troupe was entertained in elaborate fashion by the St. Andrew's Temperance Institute in its quarters, last evening, the affair taking the form of a banquet and testimonial. Besides the banquet and no short address which the members and guests enjoyed dancing until a late hour.

At 7.30, the grand march formed and the large gathering assumed places about the four large tables placed in the main hall. Almost immediately everyone present became absorbed in the good things provided for the occasion by Caterer Martin Lydon, and for an hour ample justice was done to the elaborate spread.

Following the dinner, President Arthur M. Flaherty, acting in the capacity of toastmaster, expressed the thanks of the organization to those who had assisted in making the recent musical revue a success and introduced Paul J. Angelo as the person deserving of most credit as director of the production.

Mr. Angelo spoke briefly of the pleasant associations he has enjoyed since becoming accompanist to the St. Andrew's musical troupe and as director and accompanist of the January musical revue. He asserted that he would always be at the service of the troupe, as in the past. He paid tribute to some of the members who have been of particular assistance to him, particularly President Flaherty and Bernard H. Roark.

When the floor had been cleared for dancing, the troupe's ever-changing program, known as Ted Marshall's Music Masters, broke into a fox-trot and all present devoted the remainder of the evening to the topsy-turvy dances. Most novelty dances were run off, affording unlimited amusement.

The committee in charge of the affair was as follows: Thomas J. Tighe, chairman; Walter M. Quinn, secretary; John J. Bowers, George W. Bowers, John J. Callahan, James Campbell, Frank P. Carroll, Thomas Garty, Thomas F. Durkin, Joseph Geary, Thomas F. J. McCarney, P. Frank Kelly, Bernard H. Roark, William T. Ryan, J. Frank Sullivan, John J. Townsend and Bernard A. Tully.

"BUY YOUR FISH AT THE UNION"

In securing a good Fish Dinner much depends on the freshness of the Fish. Also the manner in which it is cleaned and dressed. We make it our business to see that Fish bought here is ready for the pan if the customer so desires.

The committee members handling the sale and looking out for the seating of the children by adding the regular theatre ushers, whose services were given by the theatre management, including a fine organ concert by Louis Parker, a Strand musician, included Mrs. L. E. Seckins, chairman; Miss G. E. Lawrence, Mrs. Lewis B. MacBryne, Miss Missie Bradt, Mrs. Hammond Baine, Miss Estelle Moore, Miss Alice Stuckey, and the Lowell Wellesley club president, Miss Ethel Everett.

The concert started at 9.30 a. m. and during intermission at 11 o'clock, Misses Helen Reed, Eleanor Trull, Pauline Foster, Alice Welbeck and Ethel MacBryne sold candy in the theatre aisles, disposing of large quantities to eager boys and girls.

The screen pictures were novel and some of them delightfully colored. The Prizma pictures, showing green trees changing to natural colors in great baskets turned on little moving platforms of plate glass, were novel and greatly pleased the children and elders who accompanied them in many cases.

There was a fire drill picture at Wellesley college that won applause, as well as the pictures of college athletics and activities in and outside of the college classroom. The comedy scenes were very beautiful, numerous pageants being pictured with much detail and clearness. The home in memorial of Mr. and Mrs. Durant was a beautiful picture for a screen offering in addition to other familiar Wellesley pictures. Interesting views were also shown of Lake Waban.

The Wellesley committee consider the morning's entertainment a success in every respect, the members being overjoyed at the large number of school children who responded to the notices issued for the morning concert and entertainment.

ABOUT BAKED APPLES

Sister Mary Tells How to Make Them for All Meals

Carefully baked and attractively served apple is quite as acceptable as dessert for luncheon or dinner as it is for breakfast.

There is no fruit with greater possibilities than the plain everyday apple, and while the woman who must depend on apples for her fresh fruit sometimes almost despair of cooking them in a new way she finds them as essential as potatoes.

Try these baked apple recipes and see if the family doesn't like 'em and want more:

Whenever I become in a run-down, weak or nervous condition, a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens and builds up my general health as no other medicine ever has."—Mrs. Dora Williams, 222 Lansing Ave.

Pare apples and cut in half. Remove core. Arrange in a shallow pan. Put one-half teaspoon butter in each cavity and one teaspoon sugar. Add lemon juice to prunes and pour over apples. Cover and bake 45 minutes. Remove cover and finish baking.

Luncheon Apples
Four apples, 2-3 cup sugar, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (optional), 3 large seeded raisins, 4 marshmallows.
Pare and core apples. Make a sirup of the sugar and water. Boil three minutes. Add lemon rind. If the apples are tender the lemon rind is an improvement. Pour sirup over apples in a pan. Fill the cavity of each apple with the raisins.

Cover pan and bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes or until the apples are tender. The length of time depends largely on the cooking quality of the fruit.

When the apples are tender, but not broken, remove cover and put a marshmallow on top of each apple. Bake apple and marshmallow with juice in the pan and put under the flame or in a very hot oven. When the marshmallow is fully and beginning to brown remove from pan and cool slightly. Serve without sugar or cream.

Dinner Apples
Four apples, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 slices of lemon ½ inch thick, 3 tablespoons currant jelly, ½ cup finely chopped nuts, ½ cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla.
Pare and core apples. Make a sirup of sugar and water and boil three minutes. Add lemon juice and rind. Put apples in a pan with a close fitting cover and put one teaspoon of currant jelly in the cavity of each apple.

Pour over the sirup, cover closely and bake in a slow oven for half an hour. Baste frequently with the juice in the pan. When apples should be transparent when done. If the juice does not fully remove apples and cook the sirup a few minutes longer.
Try on a cold saucer to see if it feels like a cold saucer to see if it feels like a cold saucer to see if it feels like a cold saucer.

Four sirup over apples and when cool enough to handle coat each apple with the chopped nuts. Let cool. Serve on glass plates topped with the cream whipped and sweetened.
This is a delicious dessert that is both economical and nourishing.

"SUICIDE" TELLS HOW IT FEELS TO BE "DEAD"

(By NRA Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—"I was dead, you see. I thought of death constantly, over and over. Finally the idea obsessed me. Sometimes I thought that I had really passed away. My identity at times was just a blur."
That is the way Mrs. E. S. Cheatham, wealthy New York broker's widow, for whom police of the entire country have been looking since last September, when her discarded clothes were found on a New York bench, tells of her phantom "suicide."

Mrs. Cheatham was recently found "suicided" up in a tiny white-walled room here, with scarcely space enough to turn around. Owner of a fashionable ten-room apartment in New York, she looked decidedly out of place in her chosen hiding spot.
"I felt death for my daughter's sake. Her husband often said their affairs could run smoother if I would get out of the way."
"I wanted them to be happy so I felt death by leaving one outfit of clothes in a bathroom locker and walking away in another outfit."
"At first it was funny to read about my own death. Not even my daughter knew I was alive. Then,

Here you are, girls! Put your money on the "Rolette" and you can't lose. That's what Dame Fashion tells us.
The "Rolette" is the newest thing in summer-time hosiery. It is the result of the "roll your own" habit that girls had last summer.
It does away with your having to worry about the possibility of a hand-rolled stocking rolling all the way down. Where the roll used to be there is now a suggestion of elastic and a bit of fluff-ruffle that reaches to just below the knee—and stays there.
And here is another little tip. Your fancy pencil, or fountain pen, with the side clip will fit snugly into the "Rolette" stocking.

TO LICENSE SALE OF SOFT DRINKS

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—By a rollcall vote of 115 to 65 the Massachusetts house of representatives, after an extended debate yesterday, ordered to a third reading the bill to authorize cities and towns to license the sale of nonintoxicating beverages. Under the measure's provisions the fee is to be fixed by the local authorities, but must not exceed $5. The bill is based on the recommendation of the Boston licensing board.
When the discussion opened Mr. Kelley of Worcester declared the bill to be an infringement of the rights of the people.
Mr. Lape of Boston declared that the bill interferes with the rights of boys to sell lemonade and of farmers to sell cider.

Mr. Maltby of Malden declared there was a demand for the bill, as the illegal sale of intoxicating drinks had increased under the guise of soft drinks. The police cannot at present regulate these places and such power is desirable, he declared.
Mr. Doyle of New Bedford said he had heard no demand in his city for such legislation. He declared its "real purpose is to keep the Boston licensing board in soft jobs."
Mr. Green of Cambridge said the bill is needed and is the only method of meeting the present situation. Its terms, he said, do not apply to innkeepers, common victuallers or druggists, because they are licensed under the present law.
Mr. Richards of Malden, Mr. Brier of Boston and Mr. Tirrell of Weymouth favored the bill.
Mr. Lane moved that it be referred to the next general court. His motion was lost, however, by a rollcall vote of 105 to 25. The bill was ordered to a third reading.

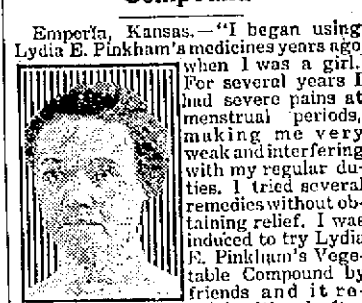

DINNER IN HONOR OF "HARRY" DOHERTY

Friends of Henry P. Doherty, superintendent of streets, gave a dinner in his honor last night at Cole's inn. The dinner was marked by unusually happy incidents and a number of brilliant, frank, and candid speeches by men who have been closely identified with him in public and private life.
The dinner, also, served to mark the informal opening of the new restaurant and throughout the evening everything possible was done for the pleasure of the guests. There was music by the Honey Boy quartet and songs by Francis A. Connor, James P. Kane, John Y. Myers and Walter Andrews.
A roast turkey dinner was served after which Joseph H. Gormley presented Hon. James E. O'Donnell as the toastmaster. He reviewed the public life of Supt. Doherty and introduced Senator Gardner W. Pearson, City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney, Frank P. McElilly, Fred G. Leary and Councilman James J. Gallagher as speakers. Later Mr. Doherty responded to all the complimentary things said about him and expressed the hope that full cooperation would be his in his present work.
The dinner arrangements were made by Joseph H. Gormley, Daniel O'Dea and James P. Kane.

Gen. Adelbert Ames Camp
Deputy Commander of G. B. Williams was the principal speaker at last evening's meeting of the American Legion, 10, U.S.W.V., which was held in Memorial hall. The meeting was presided over by Commander Condit and routine business was transacted. Two recruits were initiated into the organization at the close of the business session. A social hour was held, the affair being brought to a close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Woman Relied Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago when I was a girl. For several years I had severe pains at menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies without obtaining relief. I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion to do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. You may use these facts as a testimonial."—Eva Aldrich, 218 Union St., Emporia, Kansas.

There are many women who first used our Vegetable Compound during their girlhood days. They found it a valuable help during trying periods. In later years they use it whenever they feel those annoying symptoms which women often have.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is prepared carefully from the best quality of medicinal plants and its properties are especially adapted to correct the troubles women have.

HOW HE CURED HIS RUPTURE

His Remedy and Book Sent Free
Captain Collings called the seas for many years; then he sustained a double rupture that soon forced him to not only remain ashore, but kept him bedridden for years. He tried doctor after doctor and trust after trust, but to no avail. Finally he was assured that he must either submit to a dangerous and abortive operation or die. He did neither! He cured himself instead.
Captain Collings made a study of himself, of his condition—and at last he was rewarded by the finding of one method that so quickly made him a well, strong, vigorous and happy man. Anyone can use the same method; it's simple, easy, safe and inexpensive. The world should have the Captain Collings book, telling all about how he cured himself, and how anyone may follow the same treatment in their own case without any trouble. The book and medicine are FREE. They will be sent prepaid to any rupture sufferer who will fill out the below coupon. But send it right away—now—before you put down this paper.

"It is very delightful to be associated with such a fighting and forward-looking force as the democrats of Indiana. I wish this the opportunity to assure them of my confidence that the time is just at hand when the party will have an opportunity to serve the country in more ample measure, and with more lasting benefit than ever before."

RENT COURT APPAREL FOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—London's pawn brokers are competing keenly for the letting of court apparel to poor but proud nobles invited to Princess Mary's wedding.

The personal columns of London newspapers arriving here yesterday were filled with advertisements offering for rent everything from Rhinestone slipper buckles to swords and cocked hats.

One broker advertised: "I know that there are ladies and gentlemen of noble birth who because of financial reverses have long been without court apparel and they can rent from me in confidence. Early solicitation is requested so as to give time for any necessary alterations."

Another advertised a "velvet court suit, hat, sword and stockings; complete in the case. Fit man 6 feet of slight build, perfect condition. My wife will advise any lady in doubt as how to dress for wedding."

LONDON STRING QUARTET COMING

The London String quartet, which is to play in Boston during the week beginning March 13 with the exception of Saturday evening, March 18, has been engaged by the Middlesex Women's club to appear in Colonial hall on the open date, according to an announcement made by the president of the club, Mrs. Otis L. Humphrey, at yesterday afternoon's meeting.

Since the engagement of this quartet for March 18 entails an unusually great expense, it cannot be put on the regular club program, and tickets are to be sold. The members will be given first choice and the remainder will be open to the general public. Whatever surplus may appear will be turned into the club's program fund.

A film given the club by a former member, Mrs. Manrique now of Los Angeles, Cal., showing the country surrounding Los Angeles, was put on exhibition at the Strand theatre this morning as an addition to the program for the Wellesley college endowment fund.

WAGE CUT FOR CARMEN

on Springfield, Worcester and Other Lines

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—The award of the board of arbitration between the Springfield Street Railway, the Worcester Consolidated, the Milford, Attleboro and Woonsocket, the Interstate Consolidated, the Attleboro Branch, and the unions affiliated with the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, members of which work on those roads, made public last night, reduces the wages of the blue uniform men 10 cents per hour beginning March 1.

The Springfield and the Worcester wages will be 55 cents per hour. The Milford, Attleboro and Woonsocket employees are given 53 cents per hour, and the Interstate Consolidated and the Attleboro Branch, both, are given 50 cents per hour. All figures are maximum for two-man cars. Special rates of 3 cents increase are given to one-man car operators.

James J. Storrow was the neutral member of the board, and the findings are his. This is apparent, because though concurred in by Bentley W. Warren, counsel for the companies, both he and James H. Vahey, counsel for the employees, express their dissatisfaction over the award. Both are, of course, dissatisfied from opposite angles of vision.

That there is little likelihood of any serious trouble arising out of the dissatisfaction over the award is apparent from the statement by Mr. Storrow that both counsel have agreed that all disagreements shall be referred to him for settlement.

Too High, Says Warren

The award reviews the increases that the employees received during the past 10 years and publishes a chart showing these figures as compared with the rise in the cost of living. It is of interest that the incomes of the men caught up to the rate of living cost only twice since 1911 and then for only a short time. This chart is issued by the Massachusetts commission on the necessities of life.

The award goes into working conditions in great detail, covering 50 pages of printed matter. It finds that the hours of labor shall not be changed.

Mr. Warren has this to say about the award:

"I have joined in the foregoing award as the submission of this controversy to arbitration makes it requisite that any decision to be effective, must be that of a majority of the board, but I wish, however, to record my disappointment at the high rate of compensation fixed for the blue uniform men. The award, not being made retroactive, has continued for two months the rates which these employees were receiving prior to Jan. 1, 1922.

"Taking this 55 cents an hour for two months and the reduced rate of 55 cents an hour for 10 months, results in an average rate for this present calendar year of 52 2-3 cents. This rate for the year is 4 2-3 cents per hour more than the highest rate awarded during 1921 by any New England arbitration board dealing with street railway wages.

Vahey Regrets Decision

"The reduction in blue uniform wages made in this award represents only about one-half of the reduction in the cost of living during the period since the wages of these employees were last fixed by agreement as of June 1, 1920. This means that the new rates are, under existing conditions, relatively higher than were the rates which have been reduced when put into effect."

After reviewing the wages and conditions of the employees in great detail, Mr. Vahey concludes in his dissenting report:

"I am very sure that I express the views of my clients when I say that we are all indebted to the chairman of this board for undertaking this work."

"I regret more than I can say my utter inability to agree with his reasoning or findings. In the present state of industrial unrest it is difficult to expect a workman and his family to be satisfied with an award which reduces wages in so many ways as this award has done."

"The great trouble about this award is that the patient (who is the employee) has been given so much medicine that he is very likely not to recover at all. The doctor's prescription has not accomplished what I think the doctor really wants to do, and I have

APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not what we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrous.—Ad.

hoped almost against hope that he would finally change his mind.

"What I have said is without any intention of being in any degree disrespectful or too critical of the chairman's attitude, because I have too much admiration and respect for him to do that. I very much fear that arbitration has been dealt a quite serious blow by this award. I have tried to think otherwise, but am not able to."

"I would not record any dissent unless the reasons seemed to me to be imperative."

TOY BALLOON

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Feb. 28.—A toy balloon released Feb. 11 by Ned Yeoman, a Waukegan, Ill., business man, was found at Altoona, Penn., 11 days later by John Holmes Bethe, as it descended into the street, making what is believed a record long-distance flight of 750 miles. Yeoman received the information from Bethe yesterday.

TAKES NERVE TO MARRY, SAYS PASTOR

OMAHA, Feb. 28.—Rev. Edgar Merrill Brown, pastor of the First Methodist church, who is being sued for divorce, told his congregation in his sermon that "it takes a man of nerve and a woman who is brave to face the marriage ceremony today."

"Each time I unite a couple in the holy bonds of matrimony," he said, "I say to myself: 'Sir, you are a sportsman, tried and true.'"

"There is need for these men and women who will take a chance on making a home in the midst of other homes that are crumbling because they are unyoked with the evil influence. The unseen forces of the spirit of the times. Without such men and women, Christianity would fall."

Rev. Mr. Brown, whose wife in a cruelty charge alleged he treated her as a want, asserted there would not be wrecked homes if there was teamwork.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and get the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it?
When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up to pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract.
And has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex

Ulysses S. Grant will be observed throughout the country on April 27.

President Harding has promised to speak at the unveiling of a tablet at the great union general's birthplace, Point Pleasant, Ohio, and on the same day the Grant Memorial which has been so many years in course of construction at the base of our capital in Washington will be dedicated with suitable ceremonies.

The movement for the hundredth birthday anniversary celebration was set in motion at the fifty-fifth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Indianapolis, last September. An executive committee headed by Colonel Thomas S. Hopkins of Washington was appointed by Lewis
S. Picher, commander-in-chief and a national committee of arrangements was created. It is headed by President Harding as honorary chairman. Among the honorary vice chairmen are Vice President Coolidge, Speaker Gillette,
Chief Justice Taft, Secretaries Weeks and Denby, General Pershing, Senators Nelson and Warren, Representatives
Catherine and Yates, Governors
Davis of Ohio and Miller of New York, and the head of women's organizations related to the Grand Army as well as General Miles, commander-in-chief of the Loyal Legion, and General MacNider, national commander of the American Legion.

The nature and scope of the celebration is indicated in the following from the resolution adopted at the Grand Army encampment in Indianapolis, which recommended:

"That the national government be requested to take appropriate action for the observance of the anniversary of the death of the United States take such measures as may be necessary to assure the dedication of the Grant Memorial at Washington on the 27th of April next. This action on the part of congress we deem of first importance.

"That the state legislatures, governors of the several states and municipal officers be urged to take suitable action to bring to the attention of the people, the great lessons taught by General Grant's steadfast adherence to his country's cause in the time of severest trial, and that all institutions of learning throughout the land be invited to celebrate the notable event, so that the deep embodiment of General Grant's life, service and character in the thought and conscience of his contemporaries may be fastened with transforming power upon the minds of the youth of the present generation.

"That special commemorative services be held at Point Pleasant, Ohio, the place of his birth, and at Riverside, New York, the place of his burial.

"That patriotic exercises be held on that day in the schools and churches of the land, that the memorable occasion may not pass without leaving deep and abiding impressions upon the hearts of the young and strengthening the faith of those who believe in the God of our fathers and in the priceless boon of civil and religious liberty. Your committee further recommends that the incoming commander-in-chief be authorized to formulate a program or order of exercises for the use of posts on that occasion, and that all members of the Grand Army of the Republic, insofar as they may be able, shall participate in some simple yet direct way in honoring the memory of Ulysses S.
Grant.

"That all patriotic societies and organizations representing the several wards in which the United States has at any time participated, be requested to unite in the celebration of the anniversary, and that the Women's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, and all orders allied to the Grand Army of the Republic, be invited to join with us in honoring the memory of General Grant."

that he was reduced almost to poverty. Then followed his illness from the dread disease of which so little is known even now.

When Grant began the preparation of his memoirs, he was 61. It became known he was hoping that, when published, the two volumes would yield a competence for his family. His sufferings increased as the work went on, and at last, it became a race between him and death, while mankind watched and waited in anxiety for the result. Grant conquered, for he lived to complete the work. That accomplished, he welcomed the relief from his sufferings that soon came.

This was nearly thirty-seven years ago. Other years have intervened, great national and international problems have arisen and commanded the attention of the people, and thus the name and the fame of Ulysses S.
Grant have not figured so prominently with the people as they did forty or fifty years ago.

But during the more than half a century these veterans who served under him and who loved him, have never wavered in their devotion to his memory. The veterans of the Civil war are fast disappearing. In a few years there will be none left, and the old and feeble though they be, the mention of the name of their leader still stirs their unquenchable spirit and awakens fond memories.

THE IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

The immigration problem is coming up again before congress either in a demand for an extension of the present law for another year or else the passage of a new measure.

As the law stands at present it allows only 3 per cent of the foreign born nationals already here to enter each year and the violation of this provision by the steamship companies, has caused endless trouble at Ellis Island and great cruelty and injustice to the immigrants brought here in violation of the law, as many of them were sent back to the countries whence they came.

If the law is to be extended, provision should be made for preventing the abuses resulting from the eagerness of steamship companies to secure passengers. They should be compelled to keep within the limits allowed by law in the numbers of each nationality brought here and United States inspectors should do the sitting at the port of embarkation instead of at Ellis Island.

In view of the present business depression in this country and the eagerness of millions of people to get away from the misery that prevails in Europe, it would be well to keep up the bars against an influx of immigrants for another year at least. By that time this nation, we expect, will have fully recovered from the business stagnation and will be in a condition to assimilate a considerable number of immigrants and employ them in the various industries. Under present conditions it would be almost criminal to allow immigrants to come here expecting to find employment, unless they have relatives ready to provide for them and see that they do not become public charges after their arrival here.

Inasmuch as the easiest solution of this problem will be found in extending the life of the present law, we presume that congress will readily adopt that course. The republicans have extended the emergency tariff measure and they may also adopt the line of least resistance on the immigration problem.

The present law will lapse on June 30 of the present year. The possible immigration for the current financial year under the law now in force is $55,825, of whom 231,821 are allotted to northwestern Europe and 151,001 to other countries.

The countries included in northwestern Europe in this classification are: Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Great Britain and Ireland.

The Sterling bill introduced in the United States senate last April provides for the establishment of an immigration board with power to control the volume of immigration from any or all countries and to give preference to the immigrants most easily assimilated by English speaking communities. Under this provision the board could discriminate against immigration from other than English speaking nations. It also provides that the total immigration for any one year shall not exceed the three-quarters of one per cent of the total population of the United States, which would be about 825,000. This bill is backed by a so-called national committee of 1500 leading Americans, most of them prominent in official and professional life. It has features that cannot be adopted by the United States without giving serious offense to countries discriminated against in the number of their immigrants to be admitted.

BUCKET SHOPS
"Hutten again" is the wail from New York small investors, who trusted money to the fly-by-night bucket shops that have recently gone to the wall or financial disaster. Recent numerous failures in and about Wall street have started an extensive judicial investigation, followed by indictments and several flights on the part of bucketshop proprietors, who are unwilling to face court music.

A steady stream of failures of alleged brokers in and through the New York financial district during the past month, with resultant heavy loss to "customers" throughout the United States and Canada, recently led the New York district attorney to start an investigation of practices by these "brokers," the most common being the bucketing of orders.

The flat from New York's financial gambling district, which seems to harbor the good and bad about equally, an actual show of 31 firms that have gone into bankruptcy since the first of the year. Twelve of these have been found by grand juries to have operated in a manner to warrant indictment of some of their members. Nineteen persons involved are under indictment, and some of them have disappeared from the city.

More stringent methods must be taken to prevent the constant appearance of these so-called "bucket shops" on the financial maps of large cities and other places. Financial sharks about whom very little is known and who "work on shoestrings" are apt to get money easily from the victims they are constantly playing for. The sorrowful part of the game is that there are so many names of ill-fated and almost helpless people of small funds who are placed on the "bucket list" and appear to be such easy victims of old-time confidence games of this kind.

If New York makes a thorough clean-up of these dishonorable habits of its financial district, the men of finance who are legitimate and "above board," will be better off and the people who invest savings, protected. The latest attempt on the part of the officers of the law to ferret out and dispose of the illicit stock-exchangers and financial sharks of uncertain origin and calling, is one of the best things that has been done in this city for years, and coming at this time, when money is a pretty valuable thing to have, it ought to prove a great source of protection to those who are likely to be swindled out of hard-earned savings by men who are in the game purely and simply to rob and get away with it if they can.

REJECT THE BRIBE
The money offered is now the chief argument advanced in favor of accepting the Sheppard-Towner maternity law recently passed by congress.

Let Massachusetts reject it even if all the other states should accept the bribe in lieu of passing under the bureaucratic yoke. No bribe of this nature can compensate for flitting away state rights and allowing the federal government to increase its interference in our domestic affairs. If money is needed here to help dependent mothers, the people will furnish it. Better attend to this business through state and local agencies than allow the federal agent to come in with their questionable theories as to motherhood and the care of families. This is not Germany.

The rejection of the measure will serve as a well earned rebuff to the spirit of bureaucracy now so rampant at Washington.

Professor Bushnell Hart of Harvard asserts that George Washington was red-headed. Other authorities, probably more reliable, say that Washington was a blonde, while one saying his hair was yellow or golden. From these statements it may be inferred that Washington was light haired, not red, as Professor Hart asserts. Moreover, a strand of his hair still in existence is of light color, although perhaps Prof. Hart might say it was red if there such a thing as color blindness in dealing with historical facts?

MR. MAHONEY'S APPOINTMENT
Those who have known John J. Mahoney, formerly principal of the local Normal school, will be glad to hear that he is to become a professor at Harvard. It is questionable, however, if in his new position, he will exercise a more wholesome educational influence than he has done in his position as director of Americanization work for the state board of education. Mr. Mahoney is a very versatile educator and is in reality the leading exponent of Americanization as applied to elementary schools of the entire country. He is also a specialist in the teaching of English, having written several books upon the subject. Mr. Mahoney has a great many friends in Lowell who are glad to hear of his advancement. If indeed his new position can be regarded as such.

THE LOCAL STRIKE
Thus far, the various parties who have endeavored to bring about a conference between the local textile strike leaders and the managers of the mills concerned, have had no encouragement. They feel that the local movement to cut wages may have some connection with that in Rhode Island or at least that if the proposed reduction is enforced in Rhode Island, it will also be adopted here, if such a thing be possible.

Sunday's meeting presented the strikers' side of the local situation, and as for the other, there has been no general statement. It is a pity that a struggle of this kind is to be drawn out when the issues involved might be settled amicably by a conference of the parties or by submitting the whole matter to a board of arbitration.

THE SOCIALIST PARADISE
If the agitation for the abolition of capital ever had any sensible adherents, it surely must have lost them as a result of the Russian exhibition. The Bolsheviks made this the foremost principle of their control. They confiscated capital or destroyed it and the result is seen today in the starvation prevalent throughout a large portion of the country because there are no capitalists to run the industries, none to keep the transportation lines moving. Even Lenin and Trotsky, the extreme enemies of the capitalists are ready to invite investment in Russian industries and Russian transportation systems. Even Emma Goldman is reported to have had all she wants of socialism as it exists in Russia—the paradise of socialism.

CHANGES IN RUSSIA
Russia is in danger of swinging so far back from collapsed communism as to become the most thoroughly capitalist-controlled nation on earth. This is the observation of Charles Philip Norton, former adviser of the Russian-American chamber of commerce. He is back from a long tour of the Lenin-Trotsky domain.

What he predicts would be a logical reaction. Human nature runs to extremes. No abatement as rapid as an amateur drunkard the morning after. In time, though, he reacts, tries the poison again.

The seizure of cargoes of opium from the British West India may renew the proposition to purchase several of the leading islands from England. Apparently these drug-laden vessels have been caught with the goods. Otherwise the seizure might assume the importance of a canal bell.

Experience has at last taught the most stubborn economic illiterates that excessive balances of trade are undesirable. And yet within 10 years we have more than doubled our stocks of gold.

Anglo-French co-operation may be indispensable at Geneva, but Uncle Sam isn't losing any sleep over it just yet.

SEEN AND HEARD

After all, the first ten commandments are the hardest.
A little more justice for those sleepy time clocks, gentlemen!
Wonder if George W. originated that saying after cutting down his cherry tree. "When a Fellow Needs a Friend!"

The Japs are willing to acknowledge their equality so long as we don't forget their superiority.

Funny how the other fellow's ideas are always propaganda, because you don't think of 'em first.

If half of Chicago's police force are bootleggers, as claimed, perhaps that explains why the other half are so contented with their jobs.

Our idea of a great chamber of horrors would be a bout with some of that new Mexican pulque that is creeping across the Rio Grande and giving the Texas police a lot of trouble.

Just smile, says Brother Schwab, the ship builder, and times will be better. Charles doesn't have to get up and build the fires, and anybody can shoot that stuff with a cottage down at Palm Beach.

A Thought For Today
No man ever sank under the burden of the day. It is when tomorrow's burden is added to the burden of today that the weight is more than a man can bear. Never load yourself so.—George MacDonald.

Ayrl's Philat
Little Mildred had just had her first dip in the "briny."
"How did you like it, dearie?" asked her mother, as she fastened the little 6-year-old's frock. Mildred glared at the sparkling sea with much annoyance.

"I didn't like it at all, mother," she replied coldly. "I sat on a wave and went through!"—Edinburgh Scotsman.

A Word A Day
Today's word is Abominable. It is pronounced a-bah-mi-nayl. With the accent on the second syllable. It means to hate very much, to abhor, to loathe. It comes from Latin, "abominare." Companion words—abominable, abomination. It is used like this—"The honest man abominates the get-rich-quick planner who robs widows and poor men."

Weights and Measures
"Johnny," said the teacher, "can you tell me what are weights and measures?" There was a long silence. Teacher got rather impatient. "Come, come," she said, "Surely you can answer a simple question like that!" "Please," replied Johnny meekly, "weights are people who come howling outside the house Christmas eve, and measures are what dad takes to stop 'em."

Sort of Useless
The man who had just made some money and had endeavored to drive his own automobile phoned the police station that his car had been stolen. "Yes, sir. We just found one!" "Where was it found?" "If they had scraped through a doorway?"

"Is the front axle twisted as if it had tried to climb a telegraph pole?" "Yes!" "Is the tank empty of gasoline?" "Yes!" "Is the radiator smashed as if it had gone through a stone wall?" "Yes!" "Well, that's my car. You can keep it!"—Pellam.

Narrowest Streets
It has been said that Rennes, the sacred city of Hindus, is like a splendid mask over a plectrum face. It lies behind a long line of palaces and temples, the narrowest of the narrowest, wonderful and glorious, but they cannot compensate for the squalor that they are meant to conceal. One feature alone would make the city unbearable to a stranger here. One space and light; the streets are like cracks between two rows of houses. As one passes into the alley occupied by these narrow streets, one is moved, until the breath is so slight that a man might almost step from the windows of one house into those of another without touching the ground.

A speech in a front room on one side of the lane is plainly audible by the neighbors opposite. One enters this lane by a gate of massive wood, and in a stone archway. The first houses run 150 to 200 feet, and then the lane turns, at right angles, and accommodates two other opposing buildings. Then there is another turn, and two more houses, and so the alley runs, until it ends in a distant street.—Washington Star.

The Steal
I revel not a limousine, nor motorcoaster fast.
Nor enter with its chiming bells, nor feeblest acousting past.
Nor plane careering to the stars, I only want a low
And rakish bobbed on a hill well packed with crushed snow.
No velvet cushion does it need, nor silken trestle.
A strip of carpet for a seat is good enough for me.
When racing down the steep incline the frozen road unrolls.
A ribbon of velocity—below, the curving steels.

What joy to hear the runner sing and see the fencers fly.
And feel upon a reddened cheek the wind so blinding by.
And if the final burst of speed is lush, let it be in a pill.
In clouds of pluming diamond dust it sends another thrill.
Then up the icy slope again beneath a moon full crown.
While someone's warmly muffled hand holds the trophy down.
Get out your cap and mackinaw, old man, these winter nights

—My Minna Irving in New York Sun.

MAN ABOUT TOWN
One day last week Captain Arkhison, Lieutenant Mather and Stedman Officer Regis of the police department had a nice trip, which availed them nothing except plenty of exercise in the police station. It is said that a man came to the station that a badly wanted man was known to be in one of the surrounding towns, and the officers were detailed to look in to the matter and bring in the prisoner. If the information turned out to be correct, the investigators were compelled to abandon their machine when, according to their guide, they were quite near their destination, and proceed on foot, breaking out a road which has not been used throughout the winter to approach the alleged hiding place unobserved. The snow on this road was about two feet deep, and it was fortunate that the officers had brought Anti-Bolshevik Leader on Way to U. S.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—General Gregorio Semanoff, anti-Bolshevik leader, is reported to be on the steamship Empress of Russia, bound for the United States. He is said to be traveling incognito.

The American department of state early in January, granted permission to Gen. Semanoff to spend six months in the United States, and the consular officials in China were ordered to vize his passport.

Germany Agrees to Annual Payments

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—A provisional agreement reached between the allied reparations commission and the German government provides for the annual payment by Germany of 720,000,000 gold marks in cash and 1,450,000,000 gold marks in kind, it was announced today.

Should the deliveries in kind not reach the total fixed, the cash payments will not be increased, under this agreement. Thus, it is pointed out, the Germans should have considerable interest in seeing that the stipulated deliveries of products were duly made.

Says Washington's Hair Was Hazel Brown

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 28.—From a volume in the state library entitled "Recollections and Private Memoirs," by George Washington Parke Custis, adopted son of Gen. George Washington, State Librarian George S. Godard learns that Washington's hair was hazel brown and his eyes light grayish blue. The authority appears to have been Major Lawrence Lewis, a favorite nephew of Washington. Mr. Godard was led to examine the "Memoirs" in view of the opinion of Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard that George Washington had red hair.

Prof. Bailey to Sail For Peru

CAMBRIDGE, Feb. 28.—Prof. Solon I. Bailey, of the Harvard college observatory will sail tomorrow from New York for Peru to take charge of the Harvard astronomical station at Arequipa. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Bailey and Miss Annie J. Cannon of the observatory staff.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. JOHNSON'S THEATRE
From beginning to end the bill presented at B. F. Johnson's theatre this week is one of the best offerings of the winter season. In fact there were many comments heard after the performance to the effect that it was the "best ever." Headed by Bert Baker & company, in an act entitled "Dever," which in itself was a dandy act, the rest of the bill had to be made up of the best of the season.

For first honors were the acts offered by Frank Gaby, Furlan & Nash, Dandini & O'Malley, and Homer Romane. Some of Henry Johnson's stuff was also well received. An act by La Dora & Beckman completed the bill.

Bert Baker proved to be one of the long hip-length rubber boots. After traveling about two miles they reached the long-sought-for abode, only to find that no such person as they were seeking was about. It is said that the officers entered the exercise, however, and are ready for another trip.

In attending debates in high school hall under the auspices of the Frederic T. Greenhalge debating society, I have noticed that the attendance is in the neighborhood of 100. Those who attend the high school. The fact that a majority of those who attend are very young students, who, except in extraordinary cases, are more spectators, shows that the young ladies and gentlemen of the upper classes do not attach much importance to the work of this organization, where they have a splendid opportunity to express themselves before their fellow-students; whereas, by taking advantage of this opportunity they would acquire the poise and the ability requisite for public speaking later in life. The results which this society achieves is admirably demonstrated by the able and logical manner in which those who take an active interest present their arguments.

When the audience is a debate, it is a very short notice. New working rules for clerks employed by the read were denounced by the Brotherhood of Railway clerks. Organized clerks on all parts of the system have protested to the officials of the New Haven against the new low schedules. The regulations abolish sick leave with pay, Saturday half-holidays and any holidays on short notice. It is said that 4000 clerks on the New Haven road are affected by the order.

I am informed that some of the new oil-burning engines in use in some of the local mills, are working satisfactorily in every respect and are saving the corporations a good many thousands of dollars yearly. If this is a real saving that affects the book profits, why not install the oil-burners in all the mills? Compared with the price of coal and the outlook for coal prices in the future, the oil supply appears to be the real thing at the present time for saving money.

Manchester, N. H., clergyman are aroused by the textile situation in that city and not a few speak of working conditions from time to time. Rev. John J. Lyons, rector of St. Anne's church, Manchester, is a great friend of the people, and is particularly anxious to help all who figure in the present difficulty in New Hampshire. The rector has made a study of Manchester's conditions, and declares in favor of an eight-hour day and no cut wages at the present time. Further than speak from the pulpit, however, the rector has made no attempt to inject his personal views into the controversy in Manchester.

Manchester Free Courtyard of a Gorbun street chain store, was recently in receipt of a flock of telegrams on his 40th birthday, and had this to say when the Manchester Town dropped in to see a new crate of cranberries just arrived from Cape Cod:

"A man is not old at 40. He's younger than he was when he was 35, and I'll tell you why. The older you grow, the younger you feel, and if you don't let your looks betray you, you'll keep on growing younger until you are a kid again, maybe. Along about 70 or 80 I'll tell you straight, a man is old at 80, but not at 40, for the whole turns the other way after he reaches 80. That's why all the cut-ups perform strange antics after they reach 40. They're growing young again and can't help it." Courtyard is a believer in Lowell first and other places second. He believes that a boy is a youth in reality, with a lot of gray hair of her yet. And so say we all of us.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

Let's Play

Come, let's be frivolous; Fate shall not shrivel us,
We're not afraid of her glare;
Down all our fretfulness deep in forgetfulness,
Let us make faces at Carol

What has it signified when you've been dignified?
It was a bluff that you throw;
You needn't bluff with us, cut out that stuff with us,
Come on, be frivolous, do!

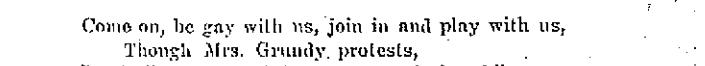

Chuck all the serious problems that weary us,
Give all your troubles the razz,
Laugh unabatedly, dance syncopatedly,
Here's to the spirit of jazz!

It is a beautiful thing to be dithful
But—let's break loose now and then,
Life will be breezier, kinder and easier
When we start working again.

Come on, be gay with us, join in and play with us,
Though Mrs. Grundy protests,
Let bedlam rule while, be just a fool awhile,
Full of nonsensical jests;

Join us in rollicking, singing and frolicking,
Give us no "maybes" or "buts,"
Hearty frivolity's tonic in quality—
Come on, be one of the nuts!

OPPOSES FEDERAL AID TO THE SCHOOLS

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Retrenchment in expenditures for public schools is seriously threatening the educational progress of the United States, John J. Tigert, federal commissioner of education, told delegates to the convention of the National Education Association here yesterday.

"It is obvious," he said, "that the present efficiency of the schools cannot be maintained if teachers' salaries are reduced and it is probable that they will have to be increased still further even in the face of decreases in the cost of living." The average teacher's salary at present, he added, is not over $800 a year.

A difference of opinion developed over the need for a centralized direction of the nation's educational activities in charge of a member of the president's cabinet. The need for such a national department was urged by George D. Strayer of Columbia university.

Alexander Inglis of Harvard university opposed federal support and direction of public schools as "un-American" and "un-American interference in schools administration," he denounced as "vicious."

"The proper function of the federal government in education is that guidance and stimulation through investigation, through the scientific study of educational practice and educational conditions on a nation-wide and comprehensive scale, through the collection and dissemination of information and otherwise, when called upon by states and communities for expert service," he said.

Prof. Inglis was the only speaker to oppose the Sterling-Townsend bill, which would place a secretary of education in the president's cabinet and permit the appropriation of upwards of $100,000,000 annually for educational purposes. "Let us not be deceived," he asserted, "All acts providing for federal subsidies in aid of education carry with them the dynamic of federal participation in the control of education and the determination of educational policies. When that bomb explodes it will be of little service to have their advocates protest that they did not know their measure was loaded. The 'fifty-fifty' policy is one of the most subtle and dangerous inventions of modern politics at least as far as education is concerned."

Augustus O. Thomas, commissioner of education of Maine, said: "If we make the country school as good as the city school, we must have a new type of building, we must have gymnasiums, libraries, agricultural museums, art rooms, music rooms, shops, laboratories and diversified courses of study. In the consolidated schools the welfare of the children must be conserved by adequate facilities for transportation."

34 STUDENTS DROPPED

ORONO, Me., Feb. 28.—Thirty-four students were dropped from the University of Maine at the end of the fall semester because of failure to meet collegiate requirements. It was announced today. Of this number 24 were freshmen, six sophomores and two juniors.

Do You Long for Days of Youth? "Penrod" Will Bring 'Em Back

"YOU BETTER NOT LET THAT TOP GET IN A SCRAP WITH MINE," WESLEY BARRY SAYS TO THE BOY. "MY DOG IS FIERCE AND HE'D BITE HIM UP." THIS, IN PEN-ROD.

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—This country faces a pretty predicament. No sister's beauty will be safe from being forced to pay tribute to young brothers.

Empty lots will be undermined for outlay caves. And church and school entertainments will be turned into riots.

Traffic jams face new dangers. Our entire social system faces upheaval.

Marshall Neilan will be to blame for it all. He has brought to life on the screen all the devilish antics of boys that flesh-Tarkington painted in words in "Penrod."

It used to be that mother could keep such a book from her darling boy and if it did fall into his hands she could tell him that those things only happened in books.

But now it's different. Penrod comes into its own on the screen.

Mother's darling can protest that a regularly guy like Wesley Barry didn't want to act in "Penrod" of the "The Boy" and that he didn't want to go to no dancing school and that he didn't want to be in bed when his dad thought he was reading his lessons.

And in the end everybody—in the picture—had to admit that they knew were all right and that they knew just as much as grown-up folks.

That's just stuff to be presenting to the youth of America. The censors ought to be doing something about it. The first thing you know, grown-up folks won't be able to bluff their children with their assumptions about things of which they know nothing.

Threatening as that state of affairs may seem to our social system, Marshall Neilan should be happy in having created it.

Although "Penrod" on the screen may add years to young shoulders it strips them from old shoulders. One lives again in that dim and misadventured boyhood as he watches the reel unfold.

Any though the reel seems rather long and meandering a bit in its story, one only wishes that it would run on forever with its breath of youth incarnate.

Again, Advertising

A film that promises to be a work of art is often spoiled by a slight flaw. These flaws appear more frequently in subtleties than in any other phase of a film. Some subtleties are not needed, and some are too obvious.

And some are indiscreet. A subtle hint that casts the taint of commercialism upon a feature film is indiscreet. Such a hint is contained in "Penrod," a picture that possesses great sincerity in direction.

This subtle hint reads, "Have you heard Paul Whittemore's latest?" That, as a remark to the leader of an orchestra.

Irving Berlin, Ted Lewis or some other creator of jazz music, probably could have been mentioned. The result would have been the same. Dozens would have said, as they said when they saw the subtitle, "That's a pretty cheap way of advertising." Paul Whittemore was an obscure man when "Penrod" was written.

Both Paul Whittemore and Marshall Neilan were more injured than benefited by that indiscreet subtitle. And if it were used with the knowledge of Tarkington, he, too, suffers.

June Elvidge is to play Thelma Bara's old role in the new version of "A Girl in the New Year." Lewis Stone will have Edward Jose's old part and Irene Rich will also be in the cast.

Charlie Chaplin has completed the filming of his latest comedy. It is now being edited.

optional interest. "Saturday Night," one of Cecil B. de Mille's latest offerings. It proved a big drawing card yesterday afternoon and last night, delighting large audiences and creating intense interest, particularly when the half-raising scene from a railway car and an exciting tenebrous house fire were pictured with wonderful detail and startling reality.

The second big feature for the first three days in the Lewis Stone in "The Northern Trail." The production is one of the most expensive ever taken.

AT TEXTILE SYMPOSIUM NEW TWAIN ANECDOTES BY MARK'S FIRST SWEETHEART

Textile Manufacture and Economics Discussed by Bankers and Manufacturers

PHILADELPHIA, Textile manufacture and economics were discussed today by bankers, manufacturers and engineers at the Textile Symposium called for exchange of views between New England, the middle states and the south.

Sixteen associations, including textile, engineering and scientific bodies were represented at the meeting, which was arranged through the co-operation of the textile professional division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, under the direction of Charles T. Plunkett of Adams, Mass., chairman, and G. S. Perkins of Boston, secretary.

The program included inspection trips to some of the more important plants in Philadelphia, two open sessions devoted chiefly to technical questions and a dinner at which addresses were to be delivered by a number of prominent speakers. At the open sessions the topics were "European Textile Conditions and the World Cotton Conference at Manchester," and "Contrasts in British and American Textile Color Schemes." Practice.

Dexter S. Kimball, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and dean of the Cornell college of engineers, led the discussion at the opening session and William H. Hartsburn, Lawrence, Mass., former president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, delivered the principal address at the other meeting.

COOPER WALL PAPER STORE Tomorrow, everyone is invited to visit the Cooper Wall Paper Store in the Hildreth building, when this company, which is already operating 23 stores throughout the eastern states, will open its new store in the Lowell public. Mr. O. D. Millman, the owner, has spared no expense and has leased a large part of the second floor of the Hildreth building for the store. The exterior of the store is done in orange and blue.

The Misfortunes of a Famous Strong Man

ROY J. McDONALD is one of the handsomest of the strong men in professional life. He is not only a magnificent specimen of physical manhood, with his wonderful muscular development, but he has a fine head and handsome features. He is well known throughout the show world. During the season of 1921 he was with the Ringling Brothers Circus. When the season opened, he was rather worried about his condition. He says:—

"I had been losing strength, and when the season opened I was completely run down. People who saw me perform probably did not appreciate it but I had lost flesh, and was having a hard time to get through the performance. I was in constant fear that I would have to leave the show. My complexion got bad, my stomach was completely out of condition, and when just about ready to give up a friend recommended Sanat and I commenced to take it. Before I was through the first bottle my appetite returned and I had gained seven pounds. After taking a few bottles I was completely restored, and have been perfectly well since then. Sanat is certainly a very great medicine for anyone who feels that he is generally out of condition."

Sanat is a young doctor, whose sole ambition is to be with children and give them his professional care. Through the interest he displays in the hospital of which he is at the head, he is forced to give up the many social engagements prepared by his wife and this leads to a misunderstanding. His wife, who is a very beautiful woman, through overwork the doctor becomes a nervous wreck so he is ordered by his physician to go on a long vacation. While at sea trouble develops and the doctor, who has almost fully recovered from his illness, makes an active part in bringing about the members of the crew, particularly the skipper, the biggest ruffian of them all, to their normal senses by hard knocks.

MRS. LAURA FRAZIER, ORIGINAL "BECKY THATCHER" AND MARK TWAIN'S FIRST SWEETHEART.

BY N. E. A. SERVICE

HANNAH, Mo., Feb. 27.—"Becky Thatcher," whose little schoolgirl in the adventures of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, known to thousands of Mark Twain readers, is a real, living, breathing person.

She's Mrs. Laura Frazier, 86, mistress of the home for the Friendless here. She was Mark Twain's first sweetheart.

Twain made Mrs. Frazier—or Laura Hawkins, as she was known as a girl—one of the best known female characters in fiction.

For "Tom Sawyer" not only has been widely read in America and England but has been translated into almost every European tongue.

Mrs. Frazier knows more about the youth of Mark Twain—when the humorist actually lived the adventures of Tom Sawyer—than any other living person.

"Mark and I started going to school the same year," Mrs. Frazier says. "He was seven and I was six. Our houses were across the street from each other right here in Hannibal."

Lower Golden Girls

"Mark had long, golden curls hanging over his shoulders. He used to carry my books to school every morning and carry them home in the afternoon."

"And he'd treat me to apples and oranges and divide his candy with me. In the winter Mark spent most of his time on the ice. I couldn't skate, but he always arranged for me to go along."

"He used to push me along the ice on a split-bottom chair. He was a fine skater, too—in fact, he was good at anything he undertook."

"The first time I ever saw Mark was on a hot summer day. He came out of his house and started shouting off, turning handspins and cutting corks."

"His heel hit me and I was thrown to the ground and knocked unconscious. I recall hearing the children talking about how scared Mark was."

One of Mrs. Frazier's most treasured possessions is an invitation to Twain's wedding in the humorist's own handwriting.

"The invitation says in part: 'Mrs. — (married name unknown), formerly Miss Laura Hawkins, first sweetheart of the within named party 22 years ago. Pardon the suggestive figure.'"

In October, 1905, Mrs. Frazier visited Mark Twain's home at Stormfield, Conn., and spent a week there as his guest.

NEWSPAPER NOT A PUBLIC SERVICE UNIT

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Holding a newspaper is not a public service unit, a judge here today said in a decision to whom it chooses and may refuse to sell it to others. Federal Judge Ladd yesterday dismissed for want of equity a suit brought by the Chicago Journal of Commerce against the Chicago Tribune.

The plaintiff, charging conspiracy against the Tribune and some of its officials and employees, sought an injunction and $250,000 in damages. The basis of the action was a notice served by the Tribune upon various branches of its distribution and delivery service that they were free to handle the Journal of Commerce if they choose, but that if they did not they could not also handle the Tribune.

Golfers Will Celebrate March 17th With the "Swearin' o' the Green"

BOXING

Newport Johnny Brown who meets Mike Castle in the main bout of the Moody club on next Thursday evening is a veteran of the recent war, serving in the Fifth Coast Artillery unit seeing more than 17 months service in France.

While in the army Johnny learned his first lessons in the boxing game. Fighting came to the Newport lad naturally and before he left France he had cleaned up every boxer in the featherweight class, winning the championship of his division.

Johnny is only 22 years old and looks to have a rocky future ahead of him in the boxing business. He has never been beaten by a man of his own weight. Last year he boxed lightweight and even waterweights to secure matches, but since the veteran Chick Hayes took him in charge he sticks to his own division and is going quite well.

The Newport fighter feels confident that he will repeat again over Castle and he says that he will go after the Lawrence with the purpose of stopping Mike. But Mike will be ready to give him a battle and contends that he knows Brown's style and will have no difficulty in solving it.

Word comes from Lawrence that a large delegation will follow the fighter like a tiger and will enter the ring in prime fettle.

Walter McCredie, Manager of Seattle This Year, Sent Nearly Twoscore Star Players to Big Show

WALTER MCCREDIE

Who is the greatest developer of major league talent in the majors? Out on the Pacific coast they will tell the world that it is Walter McCredie.

For years McCredie has directed the destinies of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league.

It was while in that city that he developed most of the players who have made the grade in the big show.

This season McCredie will manage the Seattle club of the Coast league. He says he will be disappointed unless he sends at least three men to the majors for trial.

About three dozen players have been discovered, developed and sent to the majors by McCredie. It would be impossible to offer more convincing proof that he is the Coast Mack of the minors.

"Get them young. Pick 'em right. You can make a rough diamond shine by proper polishing. You can't make a plummy piece of glass look good no matter how much you fuss with it," says McCredie.

"Ball players are like diamonds. If they have the ability and the nerve you can develop them. If they lack the goods there is no way of getting results."

Pick Them Right

"You must pick 'em right and get 'em young. If you hope to sell them to the majors in the fall."

That is the theory of Walter McCredie. He has proved the wisdom of it over a period of 13 years.

Back in 1904 when McCredie went to Portland the work of turning out stars for the majors started. Jake Siz was his first offering to the majors. Siz was with the Chicago White Sox for several years. Now, as manager of the Port Worth team of the Texas league, he is setting a record for winning high league pennants.

From that time on McCredie has been the head of the very best high league player factory in the country. Only two of the players he sent up have failed to stick a season at least. Chronologically the record reads:

Star Sent to Majors

1904—Catcher Larry McLean and Outfielder Mike Mitchell to Cincinnati; Outfielder Pat Donohue to the Athletics.

1905—Pitcher Bill Essick to Cincinnati; Bill Swenson, infielder, to Chicago; Pete Miller, first baseman, to Detroit.

1906—Outfielders "Buddy" Ryan and Giants and Yankees the pitchers were the big thing.

Jack Graney to Cleveland; Tom Madden, pitcher, to Boston Americans; Pitcher Bobby Groom to Washington; Otis Johnson to Yankees.

1911—Ryan Olson, infielder, to Cleveland.

1912—Roger Peckinpaugh, shortstop, to Cleveland; Chas Chadbourne, sought by majors, jumped to Federal.

1913—Pitcher Bill James to St. Louis Browns; Catcher Red Kuhn to Chicago White Sox.

1916—Dave Bancroft, shortstop, to Philadelphia Nationals; Art Kores, third base, to New York Giants.

1917—Pitcher Stanley Coveleski, Pitcher Allen Sutherland and First Baseman Gurnea to Cleveland.

1918—Eddie Rector, pitcher, to Chicago Cubs; Lew Blue, infielder, to Detroit.

1919—Charles Hollocher, shortstop, to Chicago Cubs.

1920—Suds Sutherland, pitcher, to Detroit; Walter Mills, pitcher, to Cleveland.

Classics of the Diamond

Nick Altrock can do other things besides clowning on the ball field. At that particular stunt he is a star. His act goes big with the fans. In his day Nick was a great pitcher. He never had the stuff of Rubo Waddell, but he had a head and used it.

Likewise Nick had a great half bulk motion that made it suicide for a base runner to take much of a lead off first base. To use the words of Nick, he pitched to first base as well as the batter.

Today Nick is still of much value to the Washington club in coaching the young pitchers. As a coach at third base he has one of the toughest jobs on the ball field.

However, the present-day fans do not take Nick in a serious light. To them he is merely the clown or comedian of the ball field.

Nick has always contended that he was born about 15 or 20 years too soon. When he was a star he received in the neighborhood of $3000. Ordinary ball players get that much today.

Evidently Nick was thinking of the old days, as the idol of the Chicago fans, when he pulled the following bit of repartee, which is a bit of a classic in its way:

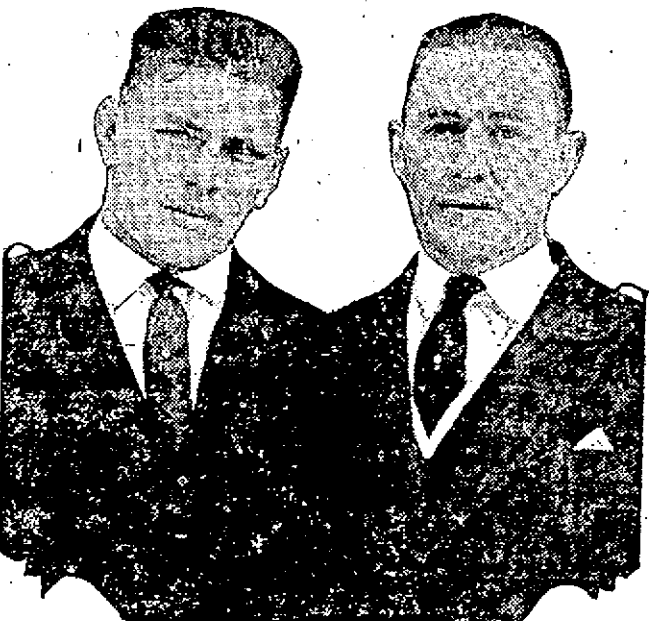

While waiting for the train in the Washington station a couple of gypsy fortune tellers tried to induce some of the athletes to let them dope out their future by reading their palm.

Naturally the players had the gypsy queens concentrate on Nick. One of the bush league players yelled:

"Come on, Nick, loosen up with a quarter, and let the lady tell you your future."

"Young man," replied Nick, "my future is behind me, and with it a lot of loose quarters."

Title Necessary Asset

In order to get big purses it is necessary for a fighter to boast a championship title.

Champion Johnny Wilson without the middleweight title would be working for "chain and egg" purses.

So when Gene Tunney asked Doc Bagley to handle his affairs Bagley conceived the idea of winning a title above an level for a while and then a shot at the heavyweight title.

Now that Tunney has a title Bagley is exploiting it and getting the money. Unquestionably he hopes that in two or three years Tunney will be ready for a shot at the heavyweight title.

The home team will have in its lineup Lew, Tompkins, Sheehan, Russell, Barton and Bishop.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 23.—Training "in the clouds" is the early season workout wrinkle that Dick Rudolph introduced here for eight battery men of the Boston Braves. The coach led McQuillen, Ryan, Marquand, Watson, Phillips, Gentry and Holt over a steep trail to a level plane on the summit of Mt. Sprague, about 1000 feet above sea level, here. The players scrambled down the rocky trail to the hot water baths. Rudolph had the same program mapped out for today.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Signed contracts of Wally Pipp, first baseman, and of Holm, pitcher, the starting outfielder, who along with Babe Ruth, drew a suspension from Commissioner Landis for barnstorming last fall, have been received at Yankee headquarters.

What becomes of the famous stars of the diamond?

In his day Chick Bender was one of the greatest pitchers in the history of the game.

Bender still doubles in baseball, but in a minor league way. He is to manage an International League club this year.

While it isn't generally known, Bender is as tough as the shagreen as he ever was with a baseball.

Bender is a crack shot, and is a great devotee of the trap.

COACH WILGE SAYS RULES ARE RIGHT

By J. W. WILGE.

Football Coach, Ohio State University.

Summer baseball is really the only problem that confronts the "Big Ten" in the week.

Whether it would be wise to permit pay during the summer is a matter to be determined. Football is essentially a college sport. Educational ideals and professional ideals in sport are not the same.

Wholesome non-professional football for as many as possible will continue to be encouraged.

There will always be a commercial temptation for the star college athlete from unscrupulous promoters. Commercialization will prevent absolute perfection of ideal in individual cases from time to time.

External vigilance by coaches, faculty and alumni is the only effective way to see that the best interests of the college are protected.

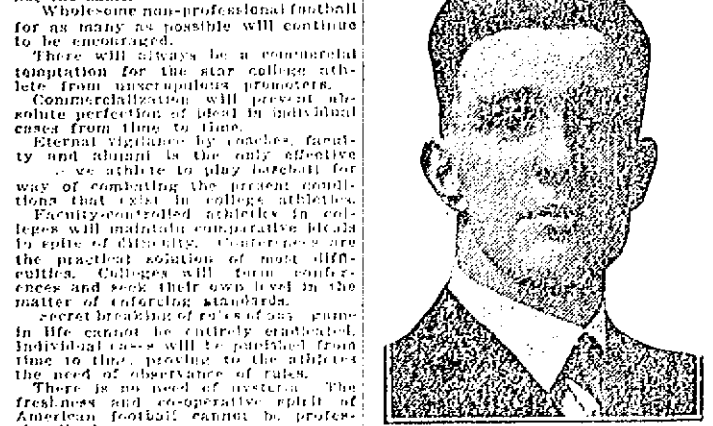

Faculty-controlled athletics in colleges will maintain comparative life and to college life. A major portion of the practical solution of most difficulties. Colleges will form conferences and seek their own level in the matter of enforcing rules.

Everet breaking of rules of college game in life cannot be entirely eradicated. Individual cases will be punished from time to time, proving to the athletes the need of observance of rules.

There is no need of mystery. The freshness and co-operative spirit of American football cannot be professed. The standards at most western colleges are fairly well agreed on. The enforcement of these standards and not continued agitation in the real need.

Kill in its modern form, can be traced back to 1220.

Modern NFL has been first born in England about 1840.

Members of the United States Worst bowling league will long remember the 1921-22 season especially for the fine time they had at their recent banquet which officially marked the season's close. Bowlers of the six teams gathered in Old Fellows hall in Bridge Street and partook of a turn-

BILLY EVANS

Which is the greater asset in baseball, a smashing offensive or a strong defense?

This thought is occasioned by the present plight of the New York team of the American league.

In 1921 the Yankees battered their way to an American league pennant. Unquestionably through the medium of slugging the New York Americans triumphed over Cleveland.

Throughout the greater part of the season the club was handicapped because of a lack of pitching. Until late in the year, when Harper turned in several good games, the club was without a left-hander.

The usually dependable Shawkey was good and bad. He started in the year with a bad arm. It finally rounded into form and he did some great work. Then in the fall he reverted back to his form of the early spring.

Mays and Hoyt were really the only pitchers who worked consistently during the year. The New York Yankees of 1921 was a pennant with a very erratic staff, only two men being dependable. The club really blundered its way to a pennant.

The Yankees will be without much of their punch for the first five weeks of the 1922 campaign. Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, who broke up many a game, will be among those missing at the request of Judge Landis.

However, since the close of last year the Yankees' owners have added some points on the defense side. Two of the best pitchers in the game, Joe Bush and Sam Jones, are now on the Yankees roster.

The question that now arises, will Jones and Bush through their defensive tactics be able to carry the burden which will be imposed upon them through the loss of Ruth and Meusel by their pitching.

In 1906 the Chicago White Sox were known as the "Hitless Wonders." The club was a weak hitting organization if ever there was one. It didn't seem to waste a base hit, however, and on the defense it was air-tight, backed up by superb pitching.

With these first string pitchers, Ed Walsh, Doc White and Nick Altrock, the White Sox in 1906 brooded through to a pennant and a world's championship. It was in that year Connie's team came through with the big up-lift, defeating the supposedly invincible Cubs.

I am inclined to think that Jones and Bush will be able to carry the burden during the absence of the two Yankees sluggers. In the series between the

A staff consisting of Mays, Hoyt, Jones, Shawkey and Bush certainly looks formidable. No staff in the American league is any better. Those five pitchers should keep the Yankees in the running with only ordinary help on the offensive.

All of which brings us up to the fact that the Yankees are going to be a first class team, or at least they continue to shift plus good pitching.

SWIMS CANAL IN CHAINS

Almy Mann, 12-year-old daughter of an American employee in the Canal Zone, has won for herself the title of "Houdini girl" by her unusual swimming stunts. One of her performances is to swim the canal, chained hand and foot. She has done it dozens of times. "Houdini," she says, "swimming always did come natural for me."

ATHLETIC PROGRAM FOR ATLANTIC FLEET

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba, Feb. 23.—A lively program of athletics for the benefit of the crews of the United States Atlantic Fleet, now in Cuban waters on its annual cruise, has been announced by the commander-in-chief, Admiral Hilary P. Jones.

The event will include not only the usual competitions such as rowing races and those between sailing boat crews but also a schedule of baseball games for the fleet championship.

The Guantanamo naval station is especially well equipped with baseball fields and there is ample opportunity for both practice and competition. All the teams already are putting in most of their spare time after working hours at practice and the crew of the Delaware has played up a miniature diamond on the deck of the battleship surrounding it with netting.

For the purpose of the elimination games the fleet has been divided into five sections. Winners in each of these divisions will, if practicable, play a series of two or more games with the remaining four teams and the championship will be decided on percentages.

As the head of staff of the Atlantic fleet, the championship pennant restricts the holding of this trophy to battleships, additional baseball trophies have been provided for the destroyer and mine squadrons and the vessels of the train. These trophies are now held by the destroyer Graham, the cruiser Torpedo and the Shawmut, of the mine force.

In addition to the baseball pennant, the Athletic challenge trophy, the Auckland Cup and the Correspondents Cup will be awarded to the champion battleship teams and the crews.

Championship belts are also offered in boxing and wrestling. New belts will be offered in events where the holders of the championship in their respective classes have either left the fleet or have been discharged from the service.

Medals will be given to winners of swimming races. Crews for the Dunlap Cup now held by the Delaware will take place here.

The preliminary games and contests already are being attended by thousands of spectators but all those officers and men of the Atlantic fleet.

CHAMPIONSHIP BELTS ARE OFFERED IN BOXING AND WRESTLING. NEW BELTS WILL BE OFFERED IN EVENTS WHERE THE HOLDERS OF THE CHAMPIONSHIP IN THEIR RESPECTIVE CLASSES HAVE EITHER LEFT THE FLEET OR HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED FROM THE SERVICE.

Medals will be given to winners of swimming races. Crews for the Dunlap Cup now held by the Delaware will take place here.

The preliminary games and contests already are being attended by thousands of spectators but all those officers and men of the Atlantic fleet.

SUGGS BEATEN BY DANNY EDWARDS

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—Danny Edwards, Los Angeles bantamweight, was awarded the boxing belt for the second round of his fight with "Chick" Suggs, New England featherweight champion, at the end of their 10-round bout here last night.

The New England title does not change hands, Edwards being a non-resident.

Dan (Curry) Flynn of Boston was given a decision over Joe Burke of Detroit in a 10-round bout. The men are heavyweights.

TWO GIRLS SHOT DEAD WHILE ASLEEP

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 28.—Glady's Solomon, aged 15, and Nell Umerson, 13, were shot and instantly killed while sleeping in bed at the Umerson home in the Sunset Community, 15 miles northeast of Lockney, early yesterday.

A short time later, Houston Upton, 12, member of a widely known family in the same community, attempted to commit suicide in a schoolhouse near the Umerson home by shooting.

Vera Wilson, sleeping in the same bed with the Umerson and Solomon girls, was not injured.

According to officers, young Upton and Glady Solomon had been sweethearts, but were said to have quarreled Sunday night.

ROLLER SKATING AT THE KASINO

Roller skating at the Kasino still continues to gain favor daily, a fact which is borne out by the constantly increasing number of skaters enjoying the joy of motion on the smooth even floor at each session. Lowell has always been a great roller skating city under proper conditions, and with the Kasino in operation every evening, the popular exercise is but natural that the sport should attract renewed interest. Every one is learning to skate in an easy task, and once the pleasure seekers feel at home on the rollers a new vista of pleasure opens before them. And beyond the pleasure attending the exercise the beneficial effects should not be overlooked. Every muscle is thoroughly exercised in a manner so gentle that no strain or undue fatigue is felt. In fact the merry-makers are improving their physical condition incidentally. The Kasino is open every evening, five days a week and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, and with courteous attendants and an ample supply of skates constantly kept in first class condition is ready to take care of its patrons in capital style.

DO NOT INTEND TO PURCHASE CHURCH

The so-called liberal wing, which is composed of members of the local Greek community, who a short time ago seceded from the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox church, and who have formed a church of their own, are not endeavoring to purchase St. George's church at the corner of Fletcher and Bowler streets, as has been reported, according to a statement given to The Sun today by Dr. Demosthenes Generalis, chairman of the board of directors of the church.

"The rumor is unfounded," said the doctor, "and is based on the fact that we held services in St. George's church last Sunday. The doctor said that through the kindness of Mr. Appleton Grantham, pastor of St. Anne's church and the local church, the free use of St. Anne's parish house as a church building was offered to the liberal wing. The offer was accepted, and plans had been made to hold last Sunday's services in that building. On Saturday, however, the owners of St. George's church offered the free use of the building for services for a few weeks and owing to the fact that everything was in readiness for services in that church, the offer was accepted. Next Friday and Saturday evening Lenten services will be conducted there by Rev. George Monaxopoulos, who has been assigned to Lowell by Bishop Alexander of New York, and next Sunday regular services will be held also. After that it is not known where the church will assemble, but it may be that they will hold their prayer meetings in St. Anne's parish house."

According to Dr. Generalis the following men have been chosen as directors for the liberal wing for the ensuing year: Dr. Demosthenes Generalis, chairman; John Vlahos, wholesale fruit dealer; George Voulas, pharmacist; Thomas J. Noyes, lawyer and Emmanuel Kalknes, wholesaler. Dr. Generalis has been appointed a committee of one to make negotiations for the purchase of the Worcester Street Baptist or any other building in that would seem desirable and before taking final steps, to report to the board of directors for action. He said the purchase of St. George's church building was contemplated because the existing building is too small to accommodate the large number of men and women who form the liberal wing.

Black Calls Decision a Great Step

Referring to the suggestion that the conclusion of the court would give the Interstate Commerce commission "unfettered control of interstate and intrastate commerce," the court declared that such control was unfettered only to the extent of maintaining efficient regulation of interstate commerce under the paramount power of congress.

The decision of the court "does not involve general regulation of interstate commerce," it added.

Discussing the possible effect of market increases in rates in particular localities where, by discouraging patronage, earnings may be decreased, Chief Justice Taft asserted that, should such results follow, the Interstate Commerce commission would be available for appropriate action.

The court's brief which was filed for review on the question of the constitutionality of the Transportation act, stating that it "had no doubt" in the case.

Solicitor General Beck, commenting on the decisions, said "the government naturally is gratified at this clear vindication of the underlying theory of the Transportation law of 1920."

"This notable decision," the solicitor declared, "is a great step forward in solving the great problem of transportation."

McADOO ACTED
IN GOOD FAITH

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—William C. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, declared in a statement last night that all representations regarding the financial condition of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation made by his attorneys for the corporation "were made by us in good faith."

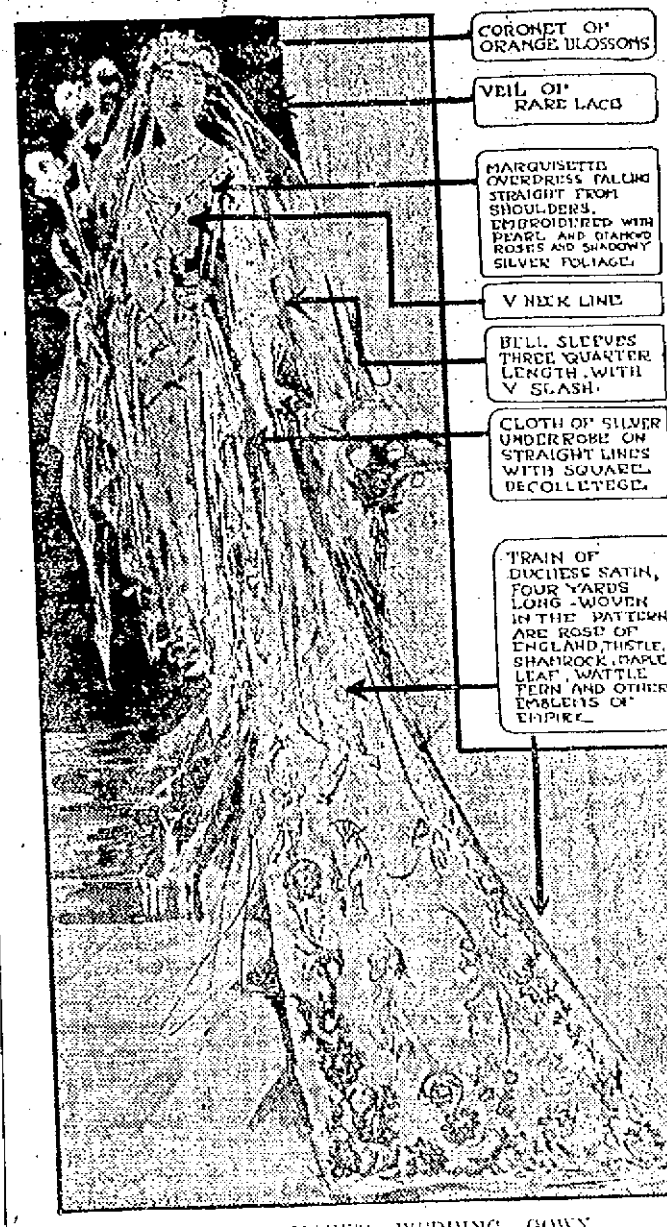

Mr. McAdoo said that he had again examined the brief which was filed with the shipping board by his firm and which he said was based "upon information furnished to us and upon earlier statements of the shipbuilding board." Of these statements he said that "neither at that time nor at any later time has anything been called to my attention which makes me doubt that they were true."

ARRESTED 48 YEARS
AFTER KILLING

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 28.—Forty-eight years after the killing of Peter Nichols, a well-known citizen of Tuscaloosa, was arrested yesterday in connection with the crime.

George W. Womersley, a Birmingham attorney who swore out the warrant for Nichols' arrest, announced that alleged disclosures in proceedings in which Nichols obtained a divorce from his wife led to the request for the arrest.

voys to gain a glimpse of the great state function.

All these, augmented by native Londoners, most of whom took the day off, crowded into every place and space about Whitehall square, down Whitehall and in the precincts of the parliament buildings and the abbey. Many paid high prices for seats in stands or even standing room in windows overlooking the way.

Overflows of Humanity

Hours before the 2,000 guests began to arrive in the abbey, there were overflows of humanity in every street transverse the route. Some, bringing blankets and food with them, made certain of seeing their princesses by keeping all night possession of carefully chosen positions.

At 5.45 o'clock, general vehicular traffic was diverted from the streets between the palace and the abbey by a force of 8,000 blue-coated and white-gloved police who lined the royal way, crowding watchers back to the curbsides. The arrival of the guests, who had to be in their places by 10.30 o'clock, was the first reward for the occupants of the galaxy-lined stands and others who shouldered to either side the colorfully decorated abbey.

Women Gaily Governed

Only motors and carriages bearing ticketholders were permitted to pass the police lines. The conveyances put down at the abbey doors streams of gorgeously dressed women, myriads of diamonds, sapphires and other precious stones flashing from their tiaras, necklaces and bracelets. In service of the velvet breeches, with silk stockings and three-cornered hats of court regalia. It was a procession of beauty and elegance, and the guests, who were shown their seats by the master of ceremonies, outside Buckingham palace and a few moments later, about the abbey, their tiny gowns were meeting for the first time, forming a line in front of the police, their tall fur shawls and scarlet and white uniforms making a brilliant spectacle of the mile and a half of thoroughfare.

Two thousand of the king's life guardsmen and territorialists were paraded for this duty. With them were their four battalions of foot guards, the crowd until, at 12 o'clock, trumpeting from the mounted escort heralded the departure of the two carriages from Marlborough house carrying Queen Mother Alexandra and Princess Victoria, with the queen's suite.

Alexandra was preceded a moment of the applause and cheering which the crowd was meeting for the bride. As the carriage rolled by to the jangle of spurs and clatter of hoofs, the guardmen snapped to attention, giving the royal salute, and the bands played the Queen Mother's anthem.

There was a one-minute interlude, then from Buckingham palace at the head of the procession, the three carriages of Queen Mary, the Duke of York and Princess Henry and George, with their equestrian and attendants.

Defeating Crescendos

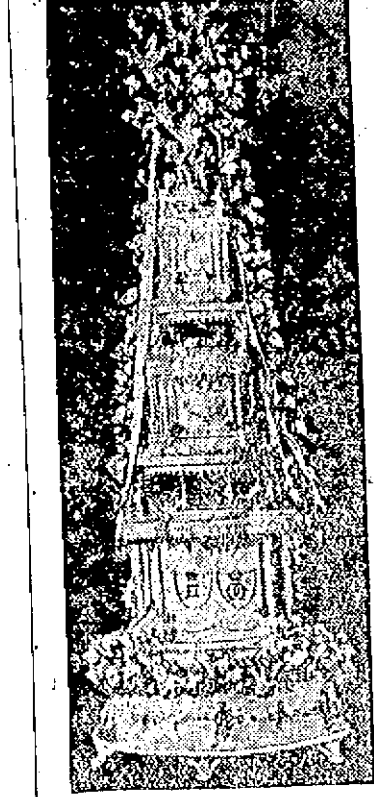

Chorus for these members of the royal family had scarcely faded along the following masses were the crowds when from that portion of the route nearest the palace descended as the gilded glass coach bearing Princess Mary and her father rumbled through the bronze gates.

Before the coach and the two trailing carriages bearing the princesses, ladies-in-waiting and the black attendants were lined up in the Mall, the cheering had spread far down the broad-lined avenue. The bands' rendition of "God Save the King" was unheard in the vast throng.

Members of the royal family who were not included in the carriage processions assembled outside the abbey shortly after 11 o'clock.

Received by Dean of Abbey

The dean of Westminster received them and to the striding of Sir Herbert Percy's local march, they were conducted by gentleman ushers down the aisle and around the unknown warrior's grave, between rows of

SOME CAKE!

If any of Princess Mary's guests stepped down the abbey to the west door, preceded by the choir and clergy and followed by the bridesmaids.

The king and queen and other members of the royal family, moved to the west door and the new viscountess and her husband began their triumphant return to Buckingham palace through the tumultuous street throng.

The king and queen in the state coach and other royal personages quickly followed and the wedding breakfast was served there to a company of about 170 persons, including the royal family and relatives and closest friends. A feature of the was the cutting of a gigantic 500-pound wedding cake, made in five tiers, standing nearly seven feet high, the layers of which were served as a special treat to the various parts of the British empire.

Dazzles in Crowd Point

Just before the bride arrived at the abbey, the crowds became so dense in parliament square that the police had great difficulty in maintaining order, and had to be carried to safety, afterwards being removed from the scene in ambulances.

"Moneyman Special" Ready

LONDON, Feb. 28. (By the Associated Press).—Princess Mary's "honeymoon special" was prepared to leave London with the bride and bridegroom for Shiloh, Hampshire, at 10 o'clock this afternoon.

The railway officials have arranged a non-stop journey, the train only slowing down at important centers to let the crowds obtain a fleeting glimpse of the couple.

The little village of Shiloh is densely packed with visitors and automobiles from surrounding districts. Along the five-mile route from Shiloh station to Weston park, the residence of the Earl of Bradford, where the couple will spend the first part of their honeymoon, a guard of honor formed of ex-service men will be stationed.

A suite of rooms in Weston hall has been set aside especially for the couple's use.

Keep All Night Vigil

LONDON, Feb. 28. (By the Associated Press).—Special trains from the suburbs and the provinces as well as claret-bus and busses today brought to the already crowded city thousands of persons anxious to catch a glimpse of Princess Mary on her wedding morning. Many kept an all night vigil in the most sheltered spots along the route from Buckingham palace to Westminster abbey.

Long before the time for the royal processions, there was hardly standing room in Whitehall and on the Mall.

Men had fallen throughout the night, according to bear out the gloomy forecasts of the weather experts, but the morning broke brightly, the heavy rain clouds scattering across the sky.

The sun shone brilliantly as the various sections of the wedding procession started for the abbey.

MARRIED EIGHT MEN WITHOUT A DIVORCE

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28.—Girls who anticipate a happy wedded life, should marry for love and not for a home or money. Mrs. Jennie Seaman, who was taken to the Marysville reformatory to serve an indeterminate term for bigamy, declared here last night. She admitted she married eight men without obtaining a divorce from any. "I wouldn't advise any girl to marry unless she knows what she is doing," Mrs. Seaman said. "I married when I was 18, hoping to get a good home. My first husband was a teacher in a school in Nashville, Tenn. I got him through a matrimonial paper. I didn't love him, and in looking back I realize now that I never loved any man, but I wanted a good home, so I left my home in Pennsylvania and went with him to Nashville. We lived together about a year and I found out he was a crook. Even on our honeymoon he got a number of books in Cleveland he never paid for. I learned later he has been sent to Sing Sing prison for 15 years. My next husband was a butcher. We lived together about a year, but he got to drinking too much and was very abusive, so I left him in Meadville, Pa. My third was a waiter, whom I met in a restaurant where I worked in Buffalo. Then I married a ten-pin setter in a bowling alley. My fifth was a coffee-house proprietor in Buffalo. When I married him, I was not a lady, but a cheap, vulgar, and a fake detective, a Cleveland man, who was in the reformatory now. "Drinking and cigarettes were the cause of some of this. I was not a perfect housewife and I mean to be perfect hereafter. I advise every girl not to marry for a home or money. I see now that the happiness of married life must come through love alone. Mrs. Seaman, who is 42, said she never heard directly from any of her husbands after she left them. "They may all be living for all I know," she said.

Accidentally Shot and Killed Himself

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—Paul T. Magrath, 22, of 61 Woodlawn street, Forest Hills, accidentally shot and killed himself last evening in the office of the Bell Telephone Co., 1800 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, where he was employed. During a conversation with three friends, Walter B. Cleary, Allen J. Campbell and Herman R. Fiske, all of West Roxbury, Magrath drew an army revolver from his pocket and after removing the cartridge clip, displayed it to the others.

The friends warned him against being careless with the weapon, but he laughingly replied that the gun was not loaded and pulled the trigger. The only cartridge that remained in the revolver after the clip had been taken out was discharged and the bullet entered Magrath's head. He was taken to the City hospital, where he died at 10 p. m. about two hours after the accident.

IN FIVE YEARS

BROWNVILLE, Ky., Feb. 28.—Parents to 12 children in five years is the distinction that has just come to Mr. and Mrs. William Williams of Lexington. The union was first blessed with four pairs of twins. A heavily laden stork has just delivered a quartet, all of whom are living and healthy. The couple have been married less than six years.

LEGION HEAD OPPOSES DELAY

MacNider Wants to Present Views on Bonus to the President

House Members Discuss Situation With Harding on Rejection of Tax

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Representative Mondell of Wyoming, republican house leader, and Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee are understood to have discussed the soldiers' bonus situation with President Harding today at the White House. They were said to have informed him of the rejection of the special sub-committee of the sales tax proposal made in his letter last week to Representative Fordney.

Before seeing the president Mr. Fordney conferred with Hanford MacNider, national commander, and John Thomas Taylor, legislative agent of the American Legion. Mr. MacNider and Mr. Taylor called at the White House to see the president but were informed that his engagement list for the forenoon was filled. They said they would return later in the day.

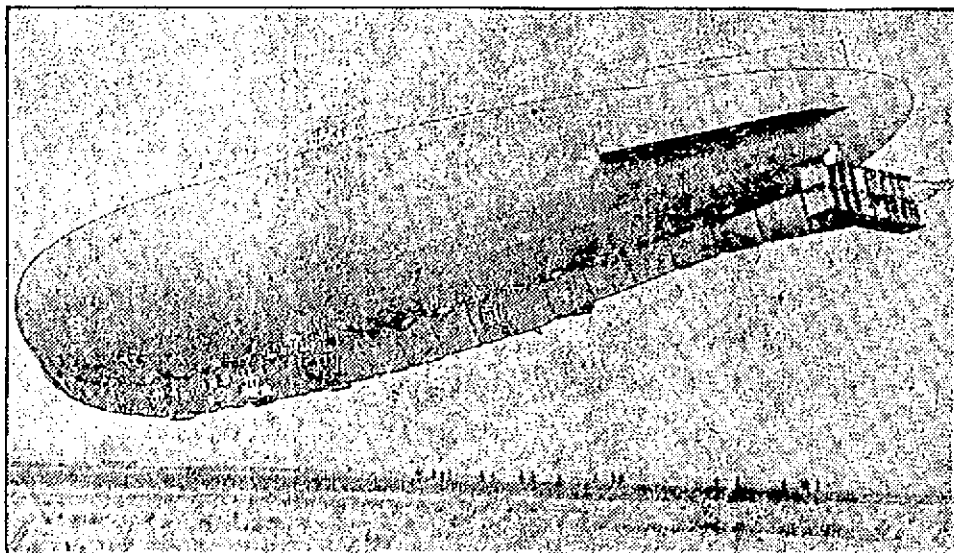

Mr. MacNider said the Legion was opposed to any further delay and indicated that it was his desire to present his views to the president. He reiterated that the legion would not be drawn into any discussion of ways and means for raising the necessary bonus, indicating that it was interested only in the speedy passage of the legislation.

On leaving the White House both Mr. Mondell and Mr. Fordney said the house would pass a bonus bill at this session. Mr. Mondell stated that he could not say whether a measure without means of raising the revenue could be put through the senate.

Asked as to ways of financing the adjusted compensation, the republican house leader referred again to expected savings in the next fiscal year, but he would not give an estimate as to what this amount would be. He indicated that the question of the refunded foreign debt as a means of financing the bonus had been brought up at the White House conference, but declined to say what views the president had expressed.

Springfield Cashier Pleads Not Guilty

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 27.—Roger Lane, former cashier of the National Biscuit Co., here, who was arrested recently in Edmonton, Alberta, charged with larceny of $5000 of the company's funds, pleaded not guilty today and was held for a hearing March 6, in bonds of $3000. Mrs. Lane, formerly Mrs. Elida B. Short of this city, to whom he was married Jan. 18, in New York and her two children, returned with him from Edmonton, Saturday.

G. A. R. Refuses to Honor General Lee

WORCESTER, Feb. 27.—The proposal from the American Legion that the G. A. R. in the future honor the memory of Gen. Robert E. Lee by celebrating his birthday, Jan. 19, has been turned down by George H. Ward Post, G. A. R. Post Commander Darling, speaking for the post, declared that because Lee resigned his commission in the United States army and then devoted four years of his life in trying to split the nation by fighting the federal government it was a poor example to the youth of the nation to lionize him.

Supreme Court Reverses Decision

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The decision of the United States district court for Massachusetts in a case brought by the John L. Whiting-J. J. Adams Co., against the state involving excise taxes assessed upon corporations under the Massachusetts law of 1909 when collected together with income taxes by the state under its act of 1913, was reversed today by the supreme court.

Allen Plea Must Be Heard By Court

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—Superior court Judge Fassenden ruled today that the plea in abatement filed by Attorney General J. Weston Allen as an amended answer to an indictment charging him with larceny of $150 from a client several years ago must be heard by the court rather than by a jury. The plea involved mixed questions of law and of fact, the judge explained. It alleged that the grand jury had been coerced by former District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, in returning the indictment against Allen. A jury trial was asked by prosecuting counsel.

Mill Girl, One Time Slave, Stabbed

LAWRENCE, Feb. 27.—Rose Garabedian, an Armenian, who is said to have been once offered for sale in a slave market in her country, was stabbed several times as she was leaving her work in the Arlington mills this noon by a man said to be her husband from whom she was estranged. Arbach Garabedian, 29, of Salem, N. H., said to be her husband, is under arrest, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. Her injuries are not considered serious. Friends say the stabbing resulted when the woman refused to give her husband money with which to go to Armenia.

Morse's Three Sons and Seven Others Named by Government

Said to Have Secured Money and Used it for Personal Interests

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Indictments against Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, his three sons, Benjamin, Harry and Ervin; Collin H. Livingstone of Washington, president of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, and seven others were returned today by the federal grand jury which has been investigating the war-time transactions of Morse and some of his associates with the shipping board.

Others named in the indictments as presented to the district of Columbia supreme court included R. O. White of New York, former president of the United States Transport Co.; George M. Burdette, of New York; R. M. Much of Augusta, Me.; W. W. Scott, Washington attorney; L. A. Christie, Alexandria, Va.; Nehemiah Campbell, New York and Philip Rhinert, Baltimore, former government auditor at the Virginia shipbuilding plant. Two indictments were returned, one charging conspiracy to defraud the government and the other charging conspiracy to commit offense against the government.

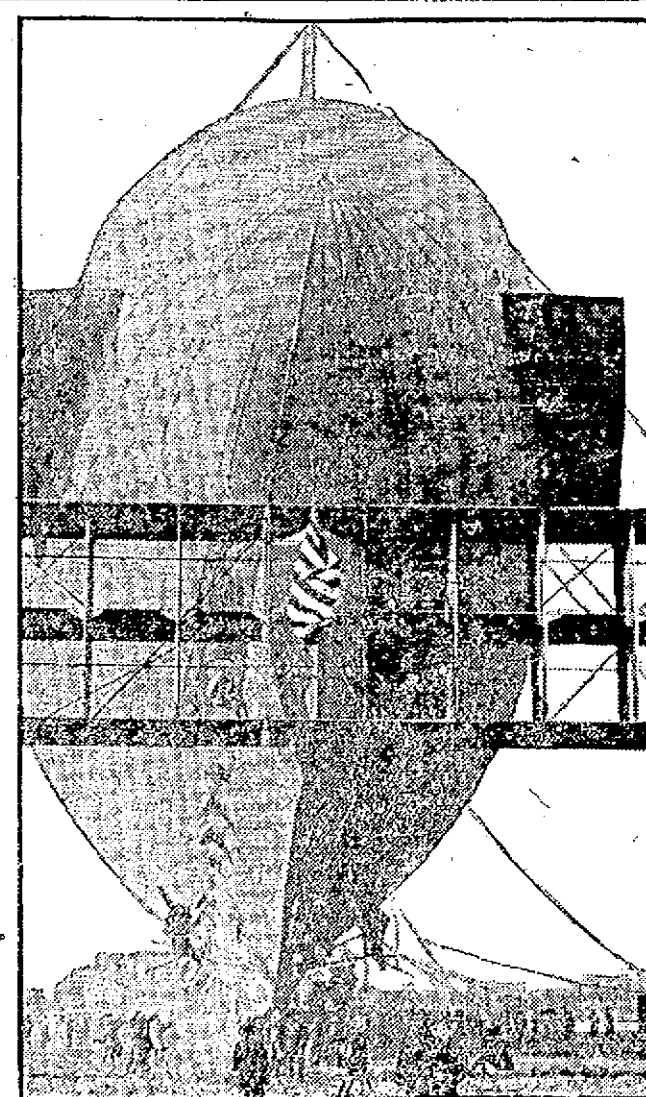

The conspiracy as charged by the government consisted of those named of making false statements as to the value of their plant and assets and thereby obtaining loans from the shipping board. They are also charged with having secured money for shipbuilding purposes and to have used the same for personal interests in the way of improving the plant. It is also alleged that large quantities of material for shipbuilding belonging to the Emergency Fleet Corporation were secured and then sold and the money converted to the use of the alleged conspirators.

Those indicted either were or still are connected with the Groton Iron Works, Groton, Conn., the Virginia Shipbuilding corporation, Alexandria, Va., or the United States Transport Co., Inc., which concerns are known as the Morse companies.

Morse in a statement issued through his attorney after the indictments had been returned, declared the proceedings against him were the result of "animus" on the part of Attorney General Daugherty.

Aged Man Obtains Renewed Vigor

Mr. Wm. H. Moore, of 23 Warner St., Oneida, N. Y. was failing fast.

Says 'Wincarnis' quickly restored strength

Mr. Moore's Statement

I take pleasure in testifying as to my experience with Wincarnis, both as a duty to those who may need such a remedy, and from a positive feeling of gratitude to the dispensers of it. Am a man quite advanced in years, (over 70) and for some time past had found myself failing faster, and in ways other than my age alone would seem to account for. Had tried various medicines which seemed to benefit me for a time, but inevitably caused a relapse. Happened to see an advertisement of Wincarnis, and thought I'd try one more. With the first dose I realized that I had found something entirely new to the common, something which "reached the spot" at once. Have now been using it over a month with very marked benefit in increased strength, better appetite, sounder sleep, and greater ability for my work, which is of a nature which taxes my endurance at my age somewhat severely.

Wincarnis is sold in Lowell by Burkinshaw Drug Co., 416-418 Middlesex St., and all First Class Druggists.

TALE OF A TRAIN

HE GAVE ONE YELL AND DROPPED THE FLAG

Nancy and Nick and Bunkus listened with interest to the tale of the smoking and how it has caused the rich man to help the poor one.

"Well, that's a sign of a black smoke pillar, and this fellow was large and black and then looking 'That I, too, have seen wonderful things. I'm out of engine No. 99 that pulls the United States Limited, the most wonderful train in America. 'One time we were carrying some valuable express packages, a million dollars in gold. I was told afterward, I had just come out of the big black smoke-stack of the engine and was looking around at the rough country, when I noticed something.

"The train made a deep curve around a hill, and just as the engine started around the curve, I saw some figures ahead of it with a red flag in their hands. Also I noticed that the figures were masks and carried guns, and beyond them in a little valley, some horses were standing, saddled and bridled and ready to go. I saw at once what was going to happen. My beloved train would be stopped and looted and lose its reputation for safety.

"There was only one thing to do," said the black smoke-pillar importantly. "I took a short cut across the hill and dropped one of my sharp black clinders into the eye of the man who had the flag. He gave one yell and dropped the flag, clapping his hand to his face. The others crowded around him to see what was the matter. They thought something dreadful had happened. Just then my train whizzed by. I had saved it."

"Fine!" cried all the other smoke pillars, and Nancy and Nick and Bunkus, who were listening, clapped their hands. "But didn't the men come back?" asked Nick.

"No," said the smoke-pillar, "for the gold was delivered that day. The next day was too late."

SAYS HE'S SOLVED CYCLOPS' FATE

Lyman Seeley, writer, who lives on an island in Puget Sound, says a Japanese diplomat came to him secretly and gave him the facts about the sinking of the United States collier Cyclops with more than 300 people in March, 1918, an unsolved mystery in naval circles. Seeley says the Cyclops was sunk by an Austrian armored yacht which itself was destroyed in the vortex created by the sinking of the huge collier. Seeley had told his information before the navy department. The Cyclops is shown above, Seeley below.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 28.—Striking textile operatives and mill owners in the Pawtucket and Blackstone valleys today faced what may be a turning point in the strike that has affected 17,000 workers. Both sides have until 4 o'clock this afternoon to reply to the proposal of the state board of mediation and conciliation that work be resumed immediately under a tentative wage scale and former working hours and that Judge J. Jerome Hahn be sole arbitrator. Meanwhile leaders of the textile unions represented in the strike were in executive session considering the reply to be made by the organized operatives. Picket lines were again in evidence.

JAMES DOW DEAD

Well Known Citizen Passed Away This Morning

James Dow, a well known building contractor of this city, who for five years held the position of building inspector at city hall, died this morning at his home, 130 E. Street, after an illness of only a week's duration, the cause of death being pneumonia. Mr. Dow was 72 years, 8 months and 18 days old. He was born in John, R. I., and came to this city in 1889. Shortly after his arrival he went into the building contracting business and made a success of it. In 1913, he was elected by the old

IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Fines Amounting to $400 Collected for Violations of the Dry Law

The collection of fines amounting to $400 for violations of the prohibitory law was the outstanding feature of this morning's session of district court. An additional sum of $150 was assessed but was not collected at the time court adjourned.

John Donahue was found guilty of illegal keeping of liquor in connection with a raid by the local and federal liquor officers about two weeks ago, in Suffolk street, and when Judge Bright ordered her to pay a fine of $150 she immediately produced the money.

Christina Kerneon, also charged with illegal keeping, paid $150 without murmur. She was alleged that a small still was found on her premises at the time of a recent raid.

Leo Leland, who was called into court to answer to a charge of illegal sale, pleaded guilty and contributed $100.

George Perry, charged with illegal keeping, exposing for sale and attempt to sell intoxicating liquor, was granted a continuance until March 11.

Arthur Valois, charged with illegal keeping in connection with the raid in Bennett's court yesterday afternoon, when a large quantity of liquor was smashed and moonshine was seized after the officers had extinguished a fire which had started from the ignition of the still, pleaded not guilty and was continued to March 11.

James J. Droney, accused of illegal keeping, was found to be too ill to appear in court this morning and the case was continued until Thursday.

William J. Leonard, facing the dual charges of assault and battery and illegal keeping, was continued until March 11, with bonds set at $100 for the assault and $200 for the illegal keeping charge.

Other Cases
Timothy Shea, charged with assault and battery on a child about five years of age, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction, after the medical examiner's report had been submitted.

Edward J. Phillips, charged with drunkenness and with being found in a more serious charge, was continued until Thursday, pending an investigation relative to his children.

Henry Leonard was charged with non-support of his wife and minor children, and was found not guilty on the former charge and guilty on the latter, receiving a sentence of four months in the house of correction.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty wedding took place this morning in the private chapel of St. Joseph's rectory, when Mr. Theodore Lavoie of Epping, N. H., and Miss Jeanette Chevalier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Chevalier of this city, were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 8 o'clock by Rev. Charles Denison, O.M.I. The bride was handsomely attired in white satin crepe with veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried American beauty roses. She was given away by her father, Mr. Edouard Chevalier, while the groom was attended by his father, Mr. Hercules Lavoie of Epping. At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, 33 Fifth avenue and this afternoon at 3.50 o'clock the happy couple left on a brief honeymoon trip to Manchester, N. H. They will make their home at Epping, N. H. The bride is well known in the Lowell community as much as she has been for the past few years she has taken an active part in a number of dramatic offerings given under the auspices of St. Joseph's parish. Her most recent appearance on the stage was last Sunday, when she took part in "The Captivity of Athalia" at the Opera House, where she scored a big success.

EXEMPTION UNDER INCOME TAX LAW

(Special to The Sun.)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Feb. 28.—A bill permitting an exemption under the state income tax law, of $250 for each child of the taxpayer was advocated before the committee on taxation yesterday by Rep. Henry Achin, Jr., of Lowell, on whose petition the matter was called to the attention of the legislature.

Rep. Achin, after explaining that under the present law the deduction is allowed for only two children, regardless of how many there are in the family, declared that the present provision is pernicious in practice and destructive of the best interests of American life. The national government, he said, has recognized the necessity of encouraging large families, and for that purpose has granted an exemption for every child, without limit as to the number in a family.

In other countries, he said, the government has been so anxious to encourage large families that a bonus has been offered for each child born, but here in Massachusetts the government announces to every newly married couple that they will be taxed $2.75 for every child they may have in excess of two.

There was no opposition to the bill, and there are indications that the committee may consider it favorably.

BANQUET AND PROGRAM LINDSAY ADMITS AT C. Y. M. L. HALL FAKE DEALS

A complimentary banquet to those who aided in making the recent carnival in aid of the C.Y.M.L. athletic department a success, was given in the organization's South Main street quarters last evening. The affair was attended by about 500 people.

During the evening, a drawing for several prizes offered at the carnival was held. The widely-advertised hope chest was won by Michael Kelley, 88 Willie street. Miss Gertrude Hunt, 173 Fletcher street, won the second prize, $10 in gold, and Miss Laura Hosen, 45 Shafter street, won the third, $5 in gold. Miss Lillian Roy, 29 Rose street, won a wrist watch, and McCarthy Ryan, 189 Westford street, was the winner of the "bride" doll.

The final feature of the drawing will take place in a drawing in the Spaulding house tonight. The "summer girl" doll, on exhibition during the carnival, will be awarded to the holder of the lucky number. The prize is a beautiful, new, excellent program was given consisting of only choral selections and readings by Mrs. J. W. Green. The organization's carnival committee was in charge of the evening's arrangements.

FEDERAL TAX RETURNS COME IN SLOWLY

With only 15 days left to file and less than 3000 returns received to date, the average of federal tax returns received yearly at the local office is in danger of dropping considerably, unless the last few days bring a rush of returns to the office. As a rule, nearly 15,000 returns are filed but the rate at which they are coming in at the present time, only half that number will be tabulated.

The officers in checking over their sheets this morning, report that the office has received in at a rate of about 200 per day. This means that there are a criterion, only about 5000 more blanks will come in before March 15 and this is allowing for quite a rush on the last few days.

It was expected the number to file individual returns would be less this year owing to the change in the revenue law, slack business condition, and the unemployment situation, but it was thought the number would drop off as much as anticipated by the small volume of business already done. The change in the law which makes necessary the filing of returns on $5000 gross business, at first indicated that these forms would more than make up for the loss in individuals, but this does not seem to be the case.

No Lines This Year
In former years long lines of people formed in the corridor of the post office building waiting for a chance to get into the revenue office. This year such a condition has existed only on a few occasions.

With the coming of the month of March tomorrow, the revenue officers expect the returns will come in much faster. They point out that there are always people who wait until the last minute before filing. This not only complicates matters for the officers but it works a hardship upon persons forced to stand in line.

The officers point out that it will be to everyone's advantage to get in one's returns within a week. Promptly to get a return filed on time because of congestion is not considered a good excuse for exemption.

LOWELL GIRL IN POPULAR RECITAL

In Symphony hall, Boston, last evening, Miss Grace Gladys Donohue, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Donohue of this city, participated in a popular recital along with other artists of prominence.

Miss Donohue, who is rapidly gaining recognition as a harpist and singer, rendered three vocal and two instrumental selections, which were enthusiastically received. Those who are cognizant of the young artist's skill prophesy a brilliant future for her in the concert field. Miss Donohue is a pupil at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, and is an accomplished pianist, in addition to her other talents.

Madam Richardson, dramatic soprano, formerly of the Grand Opera in Paris, who appeared before the League of Catholic Women some time ago, was also on last evening's program. Mr. Walter Mayo, violin accompanist; Edward Hildybrand, organist; and a chorus of 100 male voices were other features.

temporary limitation of armaments, the limitation by treaty of the use of certain weapons, and the beginning of the process of freeing China of the chamber of commerce presided at the after-dinner exercises. There was music by an orchestra and chorus singing led by a member. The hall was beautifully decorated for the event. The committee in charge of the banquet included Robert F. Mardon, John A. Hunsdell and Charles A. D. Grasse. Members of Troop 15, Boy Scouts, acted as ushers.

The seats at the head table were occupied by guests of honor, officers of the chamber of commerce and other invited guests, as follows: President Edward Fisher, United States Senator David L. Walsh, Mayor George H. Brown, Herbert Adams Gibbons, Rev. J. E. Kennedy, Percy J.

Japanese representatives. He related an interview he had with Secretary Hughes back in the year 1916 when the latter was preparing a speech on "International affairs." A story emanating from the far south followed to describe the results of the battle with Mr. Hughes. "Both parties in 1916," said Mr. Gibbons, "straddled on European affairs and preparedness."

"Germany decided later on for us, and then we began to rub our eyes and wonder why we had not come in and prepared before," said the speaker. "If the United States had not gone into the war, it would have been a drawn battle. We had certain responsibilities. Our allies were stone-broke, and will continue to be stone-broke for some time to come, with the exception of England. Wilson tried honestly to put across his ideals, but failed. We straddled the real issue at Paris. The Washington conference was the result of public opinion aroused among all our associates in the recent war—public opinion hammering on those statesmen at Washington."

The speaker believed that three things happened at the recent conference that are high above everything else that transpired there, namely, stopping competition in arms, limiting international aspirations by treaty and beginning the process of freeing China from the clutches of foreign power. He dwelt at length on each of these points representing all as but a beginning.

The speaker believed, he said, that the motive power behind the peace treaty was really fear, and the public opinion. All nations are beginning to fear war as they never did before, he continued. Taxes are steadily increasing. Out of every $1,000 income in England, the government takes $333. During the last war, when bombers from the air began to kill civilians behind the lines, the people woke up. And now they are determined to prevent war in the future—because of fear and only fear. Berlin was paralyzed with fear when the allies began to move toward the German border. That is why the war was ended, said the speaker. "That is why England is granting reforms to Ireland, Egypt and India."

The speaker declared that the old-time Anglo-Saxons were disappearing. Our policy, he said in closing, must be to stand unflinchingly for the development of our principles of self-government and stop the exploitation of Asia.

Senator Walsh's Address

Senator Walsh, the last speaker of the evening, received an ovation when he was introduced by President Fisher. The senator declared his sincere pleasure in being one of the guests of the chamber of commerce, acknowledging his genuine interest in the welfare and prosperity of the city of Lowell and its inhabitants and praising the local chamber of commerce for its meritorious work in "keeping ahead of the times."

"If I wanted to know what the actual spirit of a locality was, or the spirit of the people of a locality, I would judge it by its chamber of commerce. It is one organization that reflects the real spirit of progress and the spirit of commercial expansion."

"It is a pleasure, I assure you, to come back to my constituents tonight. The sessions of congress just now are long, for there is much important legislation pending. A senator in my position is unfortunate in that he has to be removed from his constituents."

The senator paid a high tribute to the late Sen. J. Morgan as a citizen and a public official.

He described the bankrupt condition of all the European nations. England alone is without a deficit so far and France with the largest army in the world. In view of such conditions he said:

"Every living American ought to get down on his knees and thank God that the last capitalist meat of this suffering of the nations of Europe."

He said the leaders at Washington are building up the highest tariff wall in history.

"I am not a free trader. Let us be sincere, and in helping Europe, let us help ourselves." He favored a tariff to cover the difference in the cost of production here and abroad. A high tariff will increase the cost of living while wages are being cut down.

"The best method is to adopt a tariff that will protect American labor and also protect the consuming public. To depart from the old policy, of free raw materials, means extortion and not protection. We must co-operate, we must advise, we must use our influence to help Europe to come back, to help restore prosperity."

"For 140 years the United States of America has been guided by the policy of George Washington, has minded its own business and kept out of the politics of Europe and the world."

"As for forming alliances with European countries and participating in their quarrels, that is not our work and cannot bring back prosperity and happiness."

"America has been asked to take a hand in affairs of Europe. We must decide. It is all right to loan money and do business, but to form alliances for the protection of other countries and to support their guarantees, is un-American and contrary to all the statecraft of this country since the time of Washington."

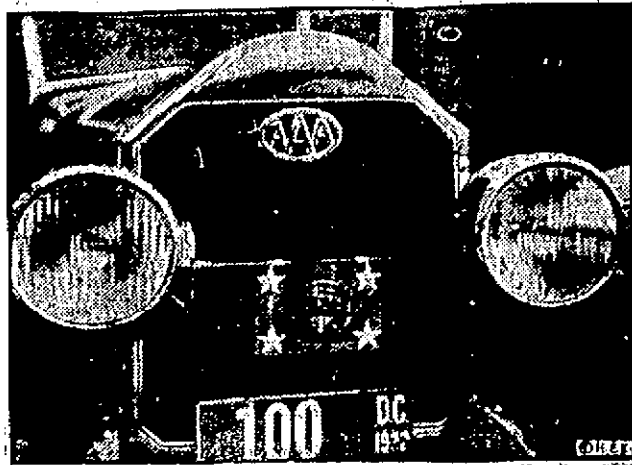

"The American method is to have criminals to lead out where justice lies. The European method is to force." The old doctrine of exploitation have gone and America will never align herself to preserve imperialism in any section of the world.

"The statement of the world must learn that the old order is past and a new day is risen that opens justice and just dealings to the nations of the world."

"World conference may be necessary, and I heartily submit to the fact and believe in co-operation where the peace of the world is to be preserved that way; but I shall never lend myself as a representative in congress to sign any compact which sends our youth and women to preserve imperialism, either to Great Britain, France, to Japan, to Germany or to Russia."

"Ninety-three per cent of all the money our government appropriates goes to pay for the costs of past wars and wars of the future. I would leave this thought with you. America must lead the world back to stability, restore the economic equilibrium and answer every call for resistance along those lines. We must have money for reconstruction and not destruction. Our co-operation stops there. Our purpose should be to preserve our own territory and it should not be our purpose to protect the territory of any other nation."

"America is anti-imperialism. Fellow citizens, it is time for us to be patient and humble. We must be charitable. We must be willing to give. We must not forget those soldiers of America in the last war. They

DAIL EIREANN MEETS SEES NO DANGER IN COAL STRIKE

Reassembled in Dublin Today for Session Expected to Last Several Days

DUBLIN, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—The Dail Eireann reassembled today for a session which was expected to continue several days. The main subject to be considered is understood to be that of financing the provisional government for the coming six months.

The session is expected also to see attempts by the republicans to overturn the small majority of the Free State advocates, and preparations have been made for interpellation of the government on various outstanding questions connected with the peace settlement.

A vote against the Collins-Griffith party, however, will not affect their tenure of office, as under the recent agreement in the Sinn Fein national convention they are to remain in power for at least three months.

SOCIAL AND DANCE IN LINCOLN HALL

About 800 young people spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening in Lincoln hall last night at the social and dance conducted by St. Columba's guild, and the event proved one of the most successful of the winter season. Not only was there an excellent dancing program, but a splendid entertainment was furnished at intermission by several children: Leiraide, Montmarquet, Mary Carrey, Helen Hall, Anna Carney and Richard Griffin; under the direction of Miss Cecilia Crowe.

General manager, Miss Ella Blasington; door director, Timothy Tully; and treasurer, John A. Walsh. Also, Misses Helen Blasington, Alice Blasington, Jennie Thomas, May Tilsall, Nellie O'Brien, Irene Mathews, Gertrude Mathews, Claire Molloy, Mary O'Connor, Bertha Riordan, Cecelia Crowe, Mary Sullivan, Margaret Carney, Gertrude Shan, Margaret Kelly, Anna Place, Sadie Lyons, Alice Mitchell, Grace Ebbelstein, Margaret Sullivan, Rose O'Brien, Mary O'Brien, Mary McEvoy, Ellen McEvoy, Albertine Byron, Marion McDonald and May Sexton, and Walter Shan, Richard Shea, Frank Shea, John Sweeney, Eugene Savage.

James Gorman, William F. Nowhall, James Brosnan, John Blasington, William Brosnan, Arthur Lawson, D. Murray, William Harahan, Patrick Tappley, Richard Dunne and Francis McDonald. Lunch and refreshments were served during the evening by the following committee:

Chairman Mrs. P. T. Brosnan; Mrs. John J. O'Connor, Mrs. John Blasington, Mrs. P. Sullivan, Mrs. Annie Regan, Mrs. Andrew Molloy, Mrs. Warren P. Riordan, Mrs. Goodwin, Mrs. Edward McCarthy, Miss Martha Dunne, Miss Nellie Halloran, Mrs. Cornelia F. Cronin, Mrs. J. J. Shan and Miss Helen Shea.

look well toward the future. All of us must think over carefully the problems before us, in order that we may keep this civic body functioning in the years to come. The department of commerce of the United States considers the chambers of commerce the mouthpiece of the department."

Mayor George H. Brown
His Honor Mayor George H. Brown was then introduced to extend the greetings of the city to the members and guests. After doing so, he said he would appeal to President Fisher for a favorable report on the development of the Merrimack river from Lowell to the sea.

Herbert Adams Gibbons
Mr. Gibbons was then presented and the members arose to greet him. Mr. Gibbons took for his subject: "The Washington Conference." He gave a lengthy address, covering a wide range of topics closely affiliated with the conference and European affairs, and touched upon many important points brought out by the Washington conference and some that were not prominently outlined in the conference proceedings and final reports.

The speaker showed intimate knowledge of foreign governmental affairs. He told the members and guests during the course of his speech that he had lived in Europe for the past 12 years, and had associated with many notable figures in the columns of the public prints. As a long-time newspaperman and magazine writer, he has met and talked with many noted men of almost every country on the globe, and many of his reminiscences last evening were worth listening to and very illuminating.

His description of some of the important characteristics of the arms conference was both interesting and instructive. He met many of the delegates to that conference, and enjoyed a particularly delightful chat with the Division Taken on the Ratification of Appointment of P. J. Hogan

Vote Taken as Indication That Griffith and Collins Have Majority of Six

DUBLIN, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Shortly after the Dail Eireann reassembled today a division was taken on the ratification of the appointment of Patrick J. Hogan as Dail minister of agriculture. The vote was 56 to 50 in his favor.

This was taken as an indication that the party led by Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins has a working majority of six.

Nothing New in Textile Strike

ance has this far been reported to any of the policemen stationed on regular and special duty at the May State Plant.

Sergeant Peter P. McManion and a squad of five officers, all in uniform, held down the street corners and front entrances to the May State plant this morning, but none of the peaceful marchers in the ranks of the strikers had to be spoken to, except when someone passed a jocular remark about the fine weather, the cool breeze and the prospect for spring planting or something of that sort.

The sergeant patrolled back and forth, but most of his men were stationed about 50 feet apart near the main plant that is being operated. No attempt was made to closely cover the plant that is locked tight.

Eight women, some of middle age and two rather young, were among the textile pickets this morning. Last night a valiant three, plainly dressed every one, and never smiling, patrolled the middle of Marginal street while spectators and strikers, pickets and even the eight policemen including a sergeant and a lieutenant and one motorcycle officer, admired the determined members of the feminine sex in their ambition to prove to the mill owners that they protest against so heavy a wage cut as was announced two weeks ago.

The police on duty last evening when a hurry call was sent for "extras" included Lieut. Connors, Sergt. Maguire, Patrolmen P. D. Clark, O'Sullivan, Sullivan, Kiwan and Murphy.

There were numerous spectators about the mills in addition to textile workers, but everyone was smiling most of the time, including the police. The majority of the pickets, however, wore no smiles. They appeared to be a very serious bunch of men, and maintained their patrole without a lot of fuss for more than an hour at a stretch.

It was a typical example of the grit of the local textile workers who are prepared, they say, to fight it out all summer, if necessary.

Universal Suffrage Bill Defeated

TOKIO, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—The universal suffrage bill, introduced in the diet by the opposition, was defeated today by a vote of 243 to 142. The final debate was not attended by the promised demonstration, a snow storm accompanied by a cold wave, interfering.

and Labor hall, Central street, for the striking textile operators, were attended by both men and women. The female members, of the strikers' ranks are apparently increasing day by day, for yesterday several women employed in the Hamilton mills boarded the company elevator, its doors, called upon President John Hanley of the Textile Council and conferred with him about the strike situation, also bringing reports of rumors about the mills opening shortly—reports which, however, the union officials could not verify.

Textile Council representatives announced that considerable work has been destroyed by strike-breakers at the May State mills, but this report could not be verified at the mill offices today. The names of 12 strike-breakers have been secured by the picketing committee. Some of them are now boarding at a Middlesex street hotel of small size, according to the pickets. They were escorted from the hotel to the May State mills this morning.

At textile meetings today, reports came in of further defections from the Day State list of operatives. The weaving department is reported to be badly handicapped still, with looms being repaired by second and third class hands, the union strikers assert.

Mrs. Conboy Coming
Mrs. Sarah A. Conboy, secretary-treasurer of the United Textile Workers of America, and noted for her labor organization work all through New England in the mill cities, will address a mass meeting of Lowell textile workers now on strike, either next week or the week immediately following.

President John Hanley, of the local textile council, received word this morning from a Rhode Island U.T.W. of a local organizer and former Lawrence mill operative, stating Mrs. Conboy's intention to visit Lowell as soon as possible to address several meetings in this vicinity.

The news of the secretary-treasurer's coming was received with great interest at another rally of the Loomfixers local this morning in the Park hotel building.

If possible, Crescent rink will be engaged again for a rally either on a week day night or a Sunday afternoon. It is believed, however, that the evening mass meeting will be held about the middle of the week, and that will mean an evening meeting.

At this noon's meeting of the strike picket organizers in Loomfixers' hall, committees were chosen to carry on the work in more uniform shape, morning, noon and night.

At the morning roll call, Secretary Hanley of the Loomfixers, selected, with the aid of other union officials, a list of names of active pickets, who in the future will be selected for the picketing of the May State mills on Marginal street. Five captains were also chosen this morning, and all reported this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Trades and Labor hall for instructions.

The strikers plan to "cover" the May State mills territory more extensively from now on, they say. The union officials are pleased with the big showing this morning, when more than 125 strikers and active pickets and sympathizers, including several well known feminine mill workers, par-trolled the sidewalks and highways in and about Marginal street and the May State mills.

Tomorrow morning's roll call will be held principally for completing all arrangements for the picketing campaign, which is to be increased by numerous forces of "actives," beginning tomorrow, the strike leaders informed The Sun.

National Organizer Thomas J. Heagan, who went to North Adams last week to address several mass meetings of textile workers, has returned to Lowell, but is suffering from a severe cold and some inflammation. He has been in bed for two days but President Hanley expects him to appear today and that he will be at headquarters this evening or tomorrow morning.

Pickets on duty at Marginal street in the future are to wear distinctive buttons and carry a message, which indicates the presence in the picket line of loyal union men and to eliminate, if they can be discovered, all outsiders who are on the picket lines but who do not sympathize with the strike movement and fight for better wages.

President Thomas McManion has notified the local textile workers through the local textile council, that he has been notified by the ribbon or button emblem arrangements for distinguishing strictly union men from outsiders and trouble-makers, and in his letter just received at headquarters this morning, he praises the local textile workers for their pluck, their steadfastness and their loyal spirit which, he assures them, will win the day.

Still maintains that if the mill owners care to arbitrate the wage disputes, he is ready to arbitrate.

HARDING URGES FEDERAL AID

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The administration plan for government aid for the American merchant marine was presented to congress today by President Harding with the declaration that the influence of the United States in world councils is "sure to be measured by that unflinching standard which is found in a nation's merchant marine."

The president detailed to the two houses assembled in joint session, the war time creation of America's great tonnage—an experimental venture as he described it—and then to add: "Having failed at such enormous cost, I bring you the proposal which contemplates the return to private initiative and private enterprise, added to a conservative success, wherein we are safeguarded against the promotion of private greed, and do not discourage the hope of profitable investment, which underlies all successful endeavor."

Salient Points of Proposal
The salient points of this proposal embodied in bills introduced in each house immediately after the president's address follow:

Aid estimated at $32,000,000 annually to be provided for principally by diversion of 10 per cent of the nation's customs receipts.

Requirements that not more than 50 per cent of the immigrants to the United States be transported in foreign ships.

Use of the tonnage now held by the Shipping board and use of the funds as a construction loan fund.

Authorization for induction of American merchant men officers and sailors into the naval reserve with the attendant allowance in pay.

The president then detailed a number of indirect aids, mentioning in this connection:

Amendment of the interstate commerce act to permit railway systems to own and operate steamship lines engaged in other coastwise trade.

Making effective this section of the merchant marine act providing for preferential rail and steamship rates on through shipments on American vessels.

Insurance available at no greater cost than is afforded ships under foreign flags.

Mr. Harding emphasized the importance of a national merchant marine in view of suspended naval construction, declaring that without it "our nation may hope to hold a high place in the world of commerce or be assured of adequate defense."

"The merchant marine is universal-

DEPUTY QUOTES THE STATE BOXING LAWS

Edmund A. Mores, deputy boxing commissioner in this state, and also connected with the state boiler inspection department with offices in Lowell, wishes it clearly understood by boxing promoters or fans that under no consideration will contestants under 18 years of age be allowed to take part in bouts nor will children under 16 years of age, whether or not accompanied by parents or guardians, be allowed to witness a boxing bout in this city.

In conversation with a Sun reporter today Mr. Mores said that so far no attempt has been made in this city by boxing promoters to have men under 18 years of age take part in bouts, but on one or two occasions he has seen boys under 18 attending matches, "if allowed" he said, "that these boys slipped in without the knowledge of the promoters, and also that parents or guardians who accompanied them were not aware of the law. This has to stop, however, for hereafter I will make it my duty to visit the hall any children under 18 years of age."

The law in this respect, which is contained in Section 30 of the laws, rules and regulations of the state boxing commission, reads as follows:

"No contest under 18 shall be permitted to engage in any boxing or sparring match or exhibition. No person under 16 shall be admitted to or witness at any boxing or sparring match or exhibition."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A ship subsidy estimated at approximately $32,000,000 annually, to be provided for principally by the diversion of 10 per cent of the nation's customs receipts, would be paid to the owners of American ships engaged in foreign trade under a bill introduced today in the senate and house.

The measure incorporates a subsidy plan proposed by the shipping board and endorsed by President Harding in a message read today to a joint session of the two houses.

Introduced in the senate by Chairman Jones of the commerce committee and in the house by Chairman Green of the merchant marine committee, the bill sets forth that the purpose of the direct subsidy provision is to "aid the development and maintenance of the American merchant marine, to promote the growth of the foreign commerce of the United States and to contribute to the national defense."

Other provisions of the bill would authorize the creation of a "construction loan fund," to be administered by the shipping board and derived from the sale of its vessels in addition to operating revenues; require that not more than 50 per cent of the number of immigrants to this country in any one year be transported in foreign bottoms, and authorize the payment of an additional month's pay annually to officers and men of the merchant marine who shall enlist in "the merchant marine naval reserve," which the bill would establish as a component part of any reserve force of the United States navy.

By amendment of Section Five of the merchant marine act of 1920, the shipping board would be "authorized and directed" to sell its ships "as soon as practicable, consistent with good business methods to citizens of the United States."

The bill provides that where not all vessels either sailing or of 1500 gross tons or more, regardless of speed, "is one-half of one per cent, per gross ship ton per hundred nautical miles traveled." All power-driven vessels between that tonnage and 5000 tons gross would receive the rate applying to the latter displacement. For vessels capable of a speed of 12 knots or more additional allowances would be provided, ranging from two-tenths of one cent to two and one-tenth cents for vessels with a speed of 27 knots or more.

The shipping board would be authorized to increase these rates up to double their amount whenever it shall determine that the base rate is insufficient to induce the operation of lines where the establishment and maintenance of service is considered necessary to "promote the nation's welfare." Similarly, it would be permitted to reduce the base rate under

Commander MacNider Talks After Conference With Pres. Harding

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Stanford MacNider, national commander of the American legion, conferred with President Harding on the bonus situation today urging immediate enactment of bonus legislation.

Mr. MacNider and John Thomas Taylor, legislative agent of the legion, who accompanied the commander, declared on leaving the White House that they were "perfectly satisfied" with the results of the conference. There will be no delay in the passage of the soldiers' bonus legislation, the legion representatives declared, adding that the president was "heart and soul with the American legion" and that he understood fully its position.

Mr. Taylor said they did not discuss with the president any plan for raising the bonus or the question of the tax features, which the president has emphasized must be included in any soldiers' bonus legislation.

M. T. I. ENTERTAINS MUSICAL TROUPE

The 1922 M.T.I. musical troupe was entertained in elaborate fashion by the Mathew Temperance institute in the quarters last evening. The affair taking the form of a banquet and testimonial. Besides the banquet and the short addresses which followed, the members and guests enjoyed dancing until a late hour.

At 7:30, the grand march formed and the large gathering assumed places about the four large tables placed in the main hall. Almost immediately everyone present became absorbed in the good things provided for the occasion by Caterer Martin Lydon, and for an hour ample justice was done to the elaborate spread.

Following the dinner, President Arthur M. Flaherty, acting in the capacity of toastmaster, expressed the thanks of the organization to those who had assisted in making the recent musical revue a success and introduced Paul J. Angelo as the person deserving of most credit as director of the production.

Mr. Angelo spoke briefly of the pleasant associations he has enjoyed since becoming accompanist to the Mathew musical troupe and as director and accompanist of the January musical revue. He asserted that he would always be at the service of the Mathews, as in the past. He paid tribute to some of the members who have been of particular assistance to him, particularly President Flaherty and Bernard H. Bourke.

When the floor had been cleared for dancing, the institute's own orchestra, known as Ted McCall's Music Masters, broke into a fox-trot and all present devoted the remainder of the evening to the topschoon pastime. Many novelty dances were run off, affording unlimited amusement.

The committee in charge of the affair was as follows: Thomas J. Tighe, chairman; Walter M. Quinn, secretary; John J. Boyers, George W. Bowers, John J. Callahan, James Campbell, Frank P. Carroll, Thomas Carly, Thomas F. J. McKelvey, Joseph Garry, Thomas F. J. McKelvey, P. Frank Reilly, Bernard H. Bourke, William F. Ryan, J. Frank Sullivan, John J. Townsend and Bernard A. Tully.

FOR THE WELLESLEY ENDOWMENT FUND

Pictura travels in Wellesley-Land and sunny California, also an old, old story in fiction, folklore and legend, and entitled "Huckleberry Finn," Mark Twain's popular tale for young and old, were enjoyed by hundreds of the local school girls this morning at a special meeting, picture performance and concert given at the Strand under the auspices of the Lowell Wellesley club.

The club members are raising an additional $2,000 for the Wellesley fund, not being content with that previous fund of $11,500. The entertainment this morning, one of varied interest and charm, brought out many school children who gladly bought tickets for the entertainment and helped to swell the Wellesley fund.

The program filled hundreds of seats in the lower part of the theatre and the gallery, but in the theatre boxes and reception rooms were numerous booths filled with candy, knick-knacks and practical articles for children's wear. The entertainers were swept of their contents early, the club realizing quite an imposing sum of money from the sale.

The committee members handling the sale and looking out for the seating of the children by aiding the regular theatre ushers, whose services were given by the theatre management, including a fine organ concert by Louis Parker, a Strand musician, included Mrs. L. E. Seekins, chairman; Miss E. Lawrence, Mrs. Lewis L. MacBryne, Miss Blaise Bart, Mrs. Hammond Baine, Miss Estelle Moore, Miss Alice Stickney, and the Lowell Wellesley club's president, Miss Ethel Everett.

The concert started at 9:30 a. m. and during intermission at 11 o'clock, Misses Helen Reed, Ellenor Trull, Pauline Foster, Alice Weinbeck and Eleanor MacBryne sold candy in the theatre aisles, disposing of large quantities to eager boys and girls.

The screen pictures were novel and some of them delightfully colored. The Prizma pictures, showing green fruit changing to natural colors in great baskets turned on little moving platforms of plate glass, were novel and greatly pleased the children and elders who accompanied them in many cases.

There was a fire drill picture at Wellesley college that won applause, as well as the pictures of college athletics and activities in and outside of the college classrooms. The campus scenes were very beautiful, numerous presents being pictured with much detail and clearness. The home in memorial of Mr. and Mrs. Durant was a beautiful picture for a screen offering in addition to other familiar Wellesley pictures. Interesting views were also shown of Lake Waban.

The Wellesley committee consider the morning's entertainment a success in every respect, the members being employed at the time a number of school children who responded to the notices issued for the morning concert and entertainment.

ABOUT BAKED APPLES

Sister Mary Tells How to Make Them for All Meals

Carefully baked and attractively served apple is quite as acceptable as dessert for luncheon or dinner as it is for breakfast.

There is no fruit with greater possibilities than the plain everyday apple, and while the woman who must depend on apples for her fresh fruit sometimes almost despairs of cooking them in a new way she finds them as essential as potatoes.

Try these baked apple recipes and see if the family doesn't like 'em and want more:

tablespoons sugar, 1 1/2 cups stewed prunes, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Pare apples and cut in half. Remove core. Arrange in a shallow pan. Put one-half teaspoon butter in each cavity and one teaspoon sugar. Add lemon juice to prunes and pour over apples. Cover and bake 45 minutes. Remove cover and finish baking.

Luncheon Apples
Four apples, 2 1/2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (optional), 8 large seeded raisins, 4 marshmallows.

Pare and core apples. Make a slirup of the sugar and water. Boil three minutes. Add lemon rind. If the apples are tasteless the lemon rind is an improvement. Pour slirup over apples in pan. Fill the cavity of each apple with the raisins, cover and put a marshmallow on top of each apple. Bake over for 40 minutes or until the apples are tender. The length of time depends largely on the cooking qualities of the fruit.

When the apples are tender, but not broken, remove cover and put a marshmallow and marshmallow with juice in the pan and put under the flame or in a very hot oven. When the marshmallow is puffy and beginning to brown remove from pan and cool slightly. Serve without sugar or cream.

Dinner Apples
Four apples, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 slices of lemon 1/2 inch thick, 2 tablespoons currant jelly, 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts, 1/2 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Pare and core apples. Make a slirup of sugar and water and boil three minutes. Add lemon juice and rind. Put apples in a pan with a close fitting cover and put one teaspoon of currant jelly in the cavity of each apple. Pour over the slirup, cover closely and bake in a slow oven for half an hour. Bake frequently with the juice in the pan. The apples should be transparent when done. If the juice does not jelly remove apples and cook the slirup a few minutes longer.

Try on a cold saucer to see if it jellies. Pour slirup over apples and when cool enough to handle coat each apple with the chopped nuts. Let cool. Serve on glass plates topped with the cream whipped and sweetened.

This is a delicious dessert that is both economical and nourishing.

"SUICIDE" TELLS HOW IT FEELS TO BE "DEAD"

(By NEA Service)

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—"I was dead, you see. I thought of death constantly, over and over. Finally the idea obsessed me. Sometimes I thought that I had really passed away. My identity at times was just a blur."

That is the way Mrs. E. S. Cheatham, wealthy New York broker's widow, for whom police of the entire country have been looking since last September, when her discarded clothes were found on a New York beach, tells of her phantom "suicide."

Mrs. Cheatham was recently found floating up in a tiny white-walled room here, with scarcely space enough to turn around. Owner of a fashionable ten-room apartment in New York, she looked decidedly out of place in her chosen hiding spot.

"I feared death for my daughters' sake. Her husband often said their affairs would run smoother if I would get out of the way."

"I wanted them to be happy so I feigned death by leaving one outfit of clothes in a bathroom locker and walking away in another outfit."

"At first it was funny to read about my own death. Not even my daughter knew I was alive. Then,

The "Roulette" is the newest thing in summer-time hosiery. It is the result of the "roll your own" habit that girls had last summer.

It does away with your having to worry about the possibility of a hand-rolled stocking rolling all the way down. Where the roll used to be there is now a suggestion of elasticity and a bit of fluff-ruffle that reaches to just below the knee—and stays there.

And here is another little tip. Your fancy pencil, or fountain pen, with the side clip will fit nicely into the "Roulette" stocking.

to sell lemonade and of farmers to sell elder.

Mr. Makepeace of Malden declared there was a demand for the bill, as the illegal sale of intoxicating drinks had increased under the guise of soft drinks. The police cannot at present regulate these places and such power is desirable, he declared.

Mr. Doyle of New Bedford said he had heard no demand in his city for such legislation. He declared its "real purpose is to keep the Boston licensing board in soft jobs."

Mr. Green of Cambridge said the bill is needed and is the only method of meeting the present situation. Its terms, he said, do not apply to landlords, common victuallers or druggists, because they are licensed under the present law.

Mr. Richards of Malden, Mr. Rier of Boston and Mr. Threll of Weymouth favored the bill.

Mr. Lane moved that it be referred to the next general court. His motion was lost, however, by a rollcall vote of 168 to 12, when the bill was ordered to a third reading.

TO LICENSE SALE OF SOFT DRINKS

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—By a rollcall vote of 115 to 65 the Massachusetts house of representatives, after an extended debate yesterday, ordered to a third reading the bill to authorize cities and towns to license the sale of nonintoxicating beverages. Under the measure's provisions the fee is to be fixed by the local authorities, but must not exceed $5. The bill is based on the recommendation of the Boston Licensing board.

When the discussion opened Mr. Kelley of Worcester declared the bill to be an infringement of the rights of the people.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Woman Relied Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago when I was a girl. For several years I had severe pains at menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies without obtaining relief. I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion to do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. TEL. CO. PLANS TO SPEND $6,000,000

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—Agents of five public service corporations in conference with Mayor Curley yesterday afternoon committed their companies to full cooperation with him in carrying on the task of putting underground this year more than the required four-mile quota of wires until strung overhead.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph, the Edison, Postal, Western Union and Boston Elevated companies were represented. The law requires that four miles of wires be buried yearly until all are submerged, as a measure of public safety. Shortage of necessary conduits and high prices are responsible for the fact that less than a mile of wires has been buried in the last five years.

Mr. Curley argued for a resumption of this work beginning April 15, or as quickly thereafter as each company can begin it. Some offered objection to starting them. Thus many new jobs should be opened.

The mayor said the telephone company's plan informed him it plans an outlay of $6,000,000 this season for general conduit and cable work.

Captain Collings sailed the seas for many years; then he sustained a bad double rupture that soon forced him to quit his sea life. He tried him bedridden for years. He tried doctor after doctor and, truss after truss, but to no avail. Finally, he was assured that he must either submit to a dangerous and abortive operation or die. He did neither. He cured himself.

Captain Collings made a study of himself, of his condition—and at last he was rewarded by the finding of the method that cured his rupture. He is well, strong, vigorous and happy man.

Anyone can use the same method; it's simple, easy, safe and inexpensive. Every ruptured person in the world should have the Captain Collings book, telling all about how he cured himself, and how anyone may follow the same treatment in their own home without any trouble. Blankets still as soft and fleecy as the day you first tucked them in

YOU had had one pair ruined. Cake soap—rubbing—and your handsome blankets returned to you matted and shrunken—their softness and fleeciness gone.

They could not stand the old stern methods. Wool is more sensitive than any other fabric, and requires more careful laundering. Even the suds from a harsh soap or harsh soap flake will make its delicate scale-like fibres tangle and shrink.

With Lux you need not hesitate to wash your soft, fleecy blankets at the first sign of dinginess.

The creamy, satiny Lux flakes whisk into a thick lather. There is no rubbing to shrink and mat the tiny fibres—not one bit of solid soap to stick to the soft wool and yellow it. Your blankets come from their Lux bath as big and soft as when you put them in.

DINNER IN HONOR OF "HARRY" DOHERTY

Friends of Harry P. Doherty, superintendent of streets, gave a dinner in his honor last night at Cole's Inn. The dinner was marked by unusually happy incidents and a number of brilliant post prandial speeches by men who have been closely identified with him in public and private life.

The dinner, also, served to mark the informal opening of the new restaurant and throughout the evening everything possible was done for the pleasure of the guests. There was music by the Honey Boy quartet and songs by Francis A. Connor, James F. Kane, John Y. Myers and Walter Andrews.

A roast turkey dinner was served after which Joseph H. Gurney presented Hon. James E. O'Donnell as the toastmaster. He reviewed the public life of Supt. Doherty and introduced Senator Gardner W. Pearson, City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney, Frank L. McElilly, Fred G. Leary and Councilor James J. Gallagher as speakers. Later Mr. Doherty responded to all the complimentary things said about him and expressed the hope that full cooperation would be his in his present work.

The dinner arrangements were made by Joseph H. Gurney, Daniel O'Dea and James F. Kane.

Gen. Adelbert Ames Camp

Deputy Commander G. H. Williams was the principal speaker at last evening's meeting of the Adolbert Ames camp, 12 U.S.W.V., which was held in Memorial Hall. The meeting was presided over by Commander Connel and routine business was transacted. Two recruits were mustered into the camp, and at the close of the business session a social hour was held, the affair being brought to a close with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

VETERANS ARE HONORED

Oldest G. A. R. Commander and Youngest World War Hero Call at State House

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—Capt. Edwin P. Wyer of Woburn, 86 years old, the oldest G. A. R. post commander in Massachusetts, and Terry McCloskey of Dorchester, the youngest World War veteran in the state, called upon Gov. Cox yesterday afternoon at the state house. Capt. Wyer later addressed the members of both branches of the legislature, by whom he was loudly cheered.

Capt. Wyer, who was the guest of Senator Parkhurst of Winchester and of Representatives Walter S. Parker of Roxbury and Samuel W. Mendum of Woburn, was himself a member of the state senate in 1881 and 1882. When presented to the governor by Representative Mendum, Capt. Wyer said he had been introduced to every governor since 1855, when Gov. Henry J. Gardner was in office.

Capt. Wyer was born in 1835 and enlisted in Co. F, 5th Massachusetts Infantry, on June 13, 1861, participating in the battle of Bull Run and being mustered out on July 21 of that year. He was again mustered in September, 1862, as first sergeant in Co. G, 5th Infantry, and mustered out again on Nov. 16 after serving 100 days in Maryland. He is commander of Post 161, G. A. R., Dorchester.

Young Terry McCloskey, Dorchester boy, enlisted at the age of 14, by representing himself as four years older and went overseas with the 26th Division.

Wilson Predicts Party Comeback

PORT WYNE, Ind., Feb. 28.—Confidence that the "time is at hand when the democrats will have an opportunity to serve the country," was expressed by ex-President Wilson in a letter to Claude G. Bowers, answering a message Mr. Bowers sent to the ex-president on behalf of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association. Mr. Wilson's letter read in part:

"It is very delightful to be associated with such a fighting and forward-looking force as the democrats of Indiana. I wish I had the opportunity to assure them of my confidence that the time is just at hand when the party

RENT COURT APPAREL FOR PRINCESS' WEDDING

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—London's pawn brokers are competing keenly for the letting of court apparel to poor but proud nobles invited to Princess Mary's wedding.

The personal columns of London newspapers arriving here yesterday were filled with advertisements offering for rent everything from rhinestone slipper buckles to swords and cocked hats.

One broker advertised: "I know that there are ladies and gentlemen of noble birth who because of financial reverses have long been without court apparel and they can rent from me in confidence. Early solicitation is requested so as to give time for any necessary alterations."

Another advertised a "velvet court suit, hat, sword and stockings; complete in the case. At many feet of slight built, perfect condition. My wife will advise any lady in doubt as to how to dress for wedding."

LONDON STRING QUARTET COMING

The London String quartet, which is to play in Boston during the week beginning March 13 with the exception of Saturday evening, March 18, has been engaged by the Middlesex Women's club to appear in Colonial hall on the open date, according to an announcement made by the president of the club, Mrs. Otis L. Humphrey, at yesterday afternoon's meeting.

Since the engagement of this quartet for March 13 entails an unusually great expense, it cannot be put on the regular club program, and tickets are to be sold. The members will be given first choice and the remainder will be open to the general public. Whatever surplus may appear will be turned into the club's program fund.

A fine given the club by a former member, Mrs. Manrique now of Los Angeles, Cal., showing the country surrounding Los Angeles, was put on exhibition at the Strand theatre this morning as an addition to the program for the Wellesley college endowment fund.

WAGE CUT FOR CARMEN

10 Cents an Hour Reduction on Springfield, Worcester and Other Lines

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—The award of the board of arbitration between the Springfield Street Railway, the Worcester Consolidated, the Milford, Attleboro and Woonsocket, the Interstate Consolidated, the Attleboro Branch, and the unions affiliated with the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, members of which work on those roads, made public last night, reduces the wages of the blue uniform men 10 cents per hour beginning March 1.

The Springfield and the Worcester wages will be 58 cents per hour. The Milford, Attleboro and Woonsocket employees are given 63 cents per hour, and the Interstate Consolidated and the Attleboro Branch, both, are given 66 cents per hour. All figures are maximums for two-man cars. Special rates of 5 cents increase are given to one-man car operators.

James J. Storow was the neutral member of the board, and the findings are his. This is apparent, because though concurred in by Bentley W. Warren, counsel for the companies, both he and James H. Vahey, counsel for the employees, express their dissatisfaction over the award. Both are of course dissatisfied from opposite angles of vision.

That there is little likelihood of any serious trouble arising out of the dissatisfaction over the award is apparent from the statement by Mr. Storow that both counsel have agreed that all disagreements shall be referred to him for settlement.

Too High, Says Warren

The award reviews the increases that the employees received during the past 10 years and publishes a chart showing these figures as compared with the rise in the cost of living. It is of interest that the incomes of the men caught up to the rate of living cost only twice since 1910, and then for only a short time. This chart is issued by the Massachusetts commission on the necessities of life.

The award goes into working conditions in great detail, covering 50 pages of printed matter. It finds that the hours of labor shall not be changed.

Mr. Warren has this to say about the award:

"I have joined in the foregoing award as the submission of this controversy to arbitration makes it requisite that any decision, to be effective, must be that of a majority of the board, but I wish, however, to record my disappointment at the high rate of compensation fixed for the blue uniform men. The award, not being made retroactive, has continued for two months the rates which these employees were receiving prior to Jan. 1, 1922.

"Taking this 68 cents an hour for two months and the reduced rate of

Vahey Regrets Decision

"The reduction in blue uniform wages made in this award represents only about one-half of the reduction in the cost of living during the period since the wages of these employees were last fixed by agreement as of June 1, 1920. This means that the new rates are, under existing conditions, relatively higher than were the rates which have been reduced when put into effect."

After reviewing the wages and conditions of the employees in great detail, Mr. Vahey concludes in his dissenting report:

"I am very sure that I express the views of my clients when I say that we are all indebted to the chairman of this board for undertaking this work."

"I regret more than I can say my utter inability to agree with his reasoning or findings. In the present state of industrial unrest it is difficult to expect a workman and his family to be satisfied with an award which reduces wages in so many ways as this award has done."

"The great trouble about this award is that the patient (who is the employee) has been given so much medicine that he is very likely not to recover at all. The doctor's prescription has not accomplished what I think the doctor really wants to do, and I have

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, with turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautiful, dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Ad.

hoped almost against hope that he would finally change his mind.

"What I have said is without any intention of being in any degree disrespectful or top criticism of the chairman's attitude, because I have too much admiration and respect for him to do that. I very much fear that arbitration has been dealt a quite serious blow by this award. I have tried to think otherwise, but am not able to. I would not record any dissent unless the reasons seemed to me to be imperative."

TOY BALLOON

MAKES 750-MILES

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Feb. 28.—A toy balloon released Feb. 11 by Ned Yeoman, a Waukegan, Ill., business man, was found at Altoona, Penn., 11 days later by John Helms Bethe, as it descended into the street, making what is believed a record long-distance flight of 750 miles. Yeoman received the information from Bethe yesterday.

TAKES NERVE TO MARRY, SAYS PASTOR

OMAHA, Feb. 28.—Rev. Edgar Merrill Brown, pastor of the Dietz Memorial Methodist church, who is being sued for divorce, told his congregation in his sermon that "it takes a man of nerve and a woman who is brave to face the marriage ceremony today."

"Each time I unite a couple in the holy bonds of matrimony," he said, "I say to myself: 'Sir, you are a sportsman, tried and true.'"

"There is need for these men and women who will take a chance on making a home in the midst of other homes that are crumbling because they are honeycombed with the evil influence of the unseen forces of the spirit of the times. Without such men and women, Christianity would fail."

Rev. Mr. Brown, whose wife in a equally charge alleges he treated her as a servant, asserted there would not be wrecked homes if there was teamwork.

one of the chief causes of constipation?

DID it ever occur to you that the cathartic you take to relieve constipation, is the cause of your trouble?

Yet when a number of doctors were discussing this almost universal complaint one of them said: "Probably one of the most frequent causes of constipation is the indiscriminate use of cathartics." For years physicians have tried to persuade people to give up laxatives and to eat corrective foods instead.

It is now known that Fleischmann's Yeast is a food which makes the use of cathartics unnecessary. Because of its freshness it helps the intestines eliminate waste matter.

People who are adding Fleischmann's Yeast to their daily diet find that their body functions are kept normal and regular. Eat 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast before or between meals every day. Place a standing order with your grocer. He will deliver Fleischmann's Yeast fresh daily.

KNIGHTS TAKE ACTION ON DEATH OF MEMBER

At a special meeting of Lowell council, 72, Knights of Columbus, last evening, suitable action was taken on the death of Hon. John J. Hogan, long a valued member of the council. Deputy Grand Knight Roger J. Lang presided, and there was a large attendance. The following committee on resolutions was appointed: Lecturer John V. Donoghue, District Deputy Charles J. Landers and Frank A. Groves, treasurer of the Washington Savings Institution. The council will be represented at the funeral by the following delegates: Robert J. Thomas, P.O.W., Hugh C. Mosher, Chief Edward P. Saunders, John V. Donoghue, Patrick Cogger and Albert E. O'Leary.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS HOLD ANNUAL BALL

The girl officers' battalion of the Lowell high school held their 25th annual ball last night in Colonial hall. The affair was well attended by the members and their friends. A grand march led by Maj. Mary Washburn and Norman Long was one of the many features contributing towards the success of the party. The matrons included Mrs. Harris and the Misses Webster, Allen, Severance, Leggat and Rooney.

The officers of the battalion acted as a committee in charge of the floor and arrangements. The officers of the first battalion are: Major Mary Washburn, Adj. Dorothy Corbett, Capt. Josephine Parks, Gladys Bugdale, Charlotte McKean and Edith Doushua and Lieutenants Barbara McAdams, Beatrice Trudeau, Margery Chapman and Ethel McCarthy.

The officers of the second battalion are: Major Dorothy Fleming, Adjutant Pauline Foster, Captains Alice Hollingsworth, Alice Carey, Ethel Armstrong and Agnes Lybrand and Lieutenants Margaret Kelly, Marion Curran, Eleanor Carlsdahl and Quintin Rowland.

The officers of the third battalion are: Dorothy Fleming, Adjutant

TALKED ON THE BOOK OF ECCLESIASTES

The Book of Ecclesiastes, preceded by a short discourse relative to the Hebrew wisdom literature, was the subject yesterday afternoon of the third and last of a series of talks on the history of the Bible, given before the Middlesex Women's club, by Miss Laura A. Knott, a former teacher at the State Normal school and now connected with the department of religious education of Boston university. Although her two previous talks were given in Colonial hall, before large audiences, the inclement weather yesterday permitted the wish voiced by Miss Knott at the beginning of her series, that she might speak in Middlesex hall, to be realized. The series has been conducted under the auspices of the club's educational department, Miss Martina A. Gage, chairman.

Miss Knott was introduced by Mrs. O.H. Humphrey, and began by expressing her appreciation at the response of the members to her course of talks. She said she had spoken before the club many times in the last 20 years, and that she was a member 20 years ago. At that time she thought the club was the finest organization in the world, and after many years of experience still believes that it is one of the finest in the country. It is a credit to the city of Lowell, said Miss Knott, that such a club could be formed many years ago and the standard kept up until today.

The speaker stated that she has observed a great interest in religion among the club members. "The thing for them to do is to continue the study of the subject and thus find out what will help us in our problems today."

Speaking of the periodic changes in the Bible, Miss Knott dwelt upon the books of the sages, after the exile. These were written while the great Greek philosophers were at their best. A comparison of the writings of the two races shows that they are altogether different, and that the Hebrew writings are far more religious. Judaism faced the skepticism of the entire world. Thus came the wisdom literature, and Job, the greatest book in the old testament, is the high watermark of this class. The prophets were more difficult, but expressed a broad, tolerant spirit combined with wisdom.

The Book of Ecclesiastes, said Miss Knott, was no different from other Biblical books in the matter of survival; they all came down through the ages. It is, however, the most modern book in the Bible, and has aroused more controversies than any other book in or outside of the Bible. It seemed to contradict all the tenets and ideals previously expressed. For this reason, an attempt to discard it along with the book of Songs, was made at one time, but both were admitted because they were attributed to Solomon. The book has been called pessimistic, but many have found it most heartening.

No age has ever ignored its problems, and none ever will, according to the speaker. "Is life worth living?" and "What makes life worth whiling?"

are two of these problems which account for the fascination of the book at all periods of history.

This book has been called the only really charming book ever published by a Jew. Many common sayings of the present day may be traced to the Book of Ecclesiastes. It is easy to conclude that it is pessimistic, said the speaker, but she would dare to say it is not pessimistic, and its author was not a cynic. Its main origin for its courage, contentment and tranquility of mind. It appeals mostly to thinkers who refuse to let any religious sect or association do their thinking for them. The author was, observing—did not see things as pessimists did; he admitted that some lamentable facts were true and wondered about them, but he was not a cynic. It is a book of courage, contentment and tranquility of mind.

The sturdy honesty of the book is the first thing that commends it. Some people enjoy the apparent note of discord and think it non-conformist, opposing the scientific spirit in the book, and objecting to popular science in the schools. The book, however, is not irrelevant.

By many, according to the speaker, the book is thought to be the work of an unknown author, written about 200 B. C., at the time of the Greek opus, at the time of the words in the books are of too late a date to have been the work of Solomon, but some people contend that it is not written by Solomon there is no authentic history of Israel. The viewpoint of the author, however, is not that of a ruler, but of an oppressed man. It does not sound like Solomon, the greatest oppressor in Bible history.

There are so many extraordinary contradictions in the book, said Miss Knott, that the question has been asked whether or not it is the work of one, two or more men. Could one mind conceive it? Miss Knott said that this is a puzzling question, but the judgment of herself and her audience is as good as any. If one man wrote it he jotted down various viewpoints at many times, thus giving occasion for the contention that the book is inconsistent. "Inconsistency is the hallmark of a great mind," was one of Emerson's utterances, said Miss Knott. Ecclesiastes is not the only book of which this is true. Moreover, she does not believe that every hopeful thought and word in the book is the work of an interpolator.

The author, she said, was a literary device, much as authors of today use one of the characters in their novels.

The Old Testament is the best that could be done at the time. If one can imagine the Christless world of 2000 years ago, one can realize that it is more blessed to give than to receive or of the happy home that awaited them after death. If they were living now they would believe that the world is moving toward a goal. No old testament writer spoke of hope of future life. There has been a great change since the book of Ecclesiastes was written. The author seems to hold some little ground, however; he had developed a theory of existence. Some like the book because of the evidence it gives of the need of the world for the Christ.

In closing, Miss Knott spoke of the 12th chapter of Ecclesiastes, which, she said, she had learned somehow when a child, and which has had a great influence in molding and shaping her character. She had little idea of its meaning when she first learned it, but revered it because of its beautiful phrasing. If it is too bad, she said, that young people cannot learn it, because we think they cannot understand. She closed by reading the 12th chapter of the book.

WINTER COLDS THAT BREAK DOWN HEALTH

Winter colds thin the blood and cause a general debility that can only be corrected by a tonic that will make the blood rich and red and restore the undernourished nerves. This is shown by the experience of Mrs. Walter Burk, of No. 361 Meridian street, East Boston, Mass. Mrs. Burk says:

"In the fall I caught a cold that broke down my health. I kept losing strength all winter. I had no more lung wind and could not do my work. My head felt dull and at times I had severe headaches. My stomach was not right and I had dizzy spells that caused me to collapse."

"One of my neighbors had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and she recommended them to build me up. After a week's treatment with the pills I felt brighter and could do my work easier. As I continued to take them my appetite grew better and I regained strength so that I was not all tired out. And I have never had any more of the dizzy spells. I know that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a good remedy and I will gladly tell others what they have done for me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills quickly make the blood rich and red, drive out the lingering germs from the system and transform despondent, grip-ridden, weak and unhealthy men and women. Try the pills for any form of debility caused by thin blood.

Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggist's today or write to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. enclosing sixty cents. A box will be sent you, postpaid. A little book, "Building Up to Blood," which explains the treatment, will be sent free on request.—Adv.

DOES NOT HAVE TO TAKE PHYSIC

"Fruit-a-lives" Brought Complete Relief

ASHFORD, New York. I tried several kinds of physic for over three years and, of course, while I took it every night my bowels would move; but as soon as I stopped taking physic, I would be Constipated and would have Piles terribly. I bought one box of "Fruit-a-lives" and took them. Now I am not troubled any more with Constipation or Piles. "Fruit-a-lives" or "Fruit Laxo Tablets" left no after-effects and now I do not have to use physic.

BOY SCOUTS FIND SAFE IN RIVER

To find a safe in a river is not a common occurrence, but that is what happened a few days ago when Gordon Barrington, Arthur Angel, Wilbur Hill have arisen and commanded the attention of the people, and thus the name and the fame of Ulysses S. Grant have not faded so prominently with the people as they did forty or fifty years ago.

But during the more than half a century those veterans who served under him and who loved him, have never wavered in their devotion to his memory. The veterans of the Civil war are fast disappearing. In a few years there will be none left. But old and feeble though they be, the mention of the name of their leader still stirs their martial spirit and awakens fond memories.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION MEETING

Boys' Secretary H. D. Gibson, of the Y.M.C.A. of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the principal speaker last evening at the February meeting of the Lowell Christian Endeavor union in the First Baptist church, gave a somewhat unusual but highly interesting address on the three "G's"—"Getting, Giving, Gratitude."

He made a strong appeal for more and better religious work in the home and in the church, also appealing for more gratitude for the work done today for young people in both places.

The address of welcome was given in the church auditorium, where all assembled after supper, by Miss Ruth Logan, president of the senior society. Edgar Dougherty, chairman of the good citizenship committee, gave the response and devotions were led by Edgar Dougherty, chairman of the quiet hour committee. Secretary Miss Alice Dorey read the roll call. Osmond B. Coburn presided as moderator of the business meeting.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $7, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every ailment, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Ulysses S. Grant will be observed throughout the country on April 27.

President Harding has promised to speak at the unveiling of a tablet at the great union general's birthplace, Point Pleasant, Ohio, and on the same day the Grant Memorial which has been so many years in course of construction at the base of our capital in Washington will be dedicated with suitable ceremonies.

The movement for the hundredth birthday anniversary celebration was set in motion at the fifty-fifth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Indianapolis last September. An executive committee headed by Colonel Thomas S. Hopkins of Washington was appointed by Lewis S. Pilcher, commander-in-chief and a national committee of arrangements was created. It is headed by President Harding as honorary chairman. Among the honorary vice chairmen are Vice President Coolidge, Speaker Gillette, Chief Justice Taft, Secretaries Weeks and Donahy, General Pershing, Senators Nelson and Warren, Representatives Osborne and Yates, Governors Davis of Ohio and Miller of New York, and the head of women's organizations related to the Grand Army as well as General Allen, commander-in-chief of the Loyal Legion, and Harford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion.

The nature and scope of the celebration is indicated in the following from the resolution adopted at the Grand Army encampment in Indianapolis, which recommended:

"That the national government be requested to take appropriate action for the observance of the anniversary and the congress of the United States take such measures as may be necessary to assure the dedication of the Grant Memorial at Washington on the 27th of April next. This action on the part of congress we deem of first importance.

"That the state legislatures, governors of the several states and municipal officers be urged to take suitable action to bring to the attention of the people, the great lessons taught by General Grant's steadfast adherence to his country's cause in the time of severest trials and that all institutions of learning throughout the land be invited to celebrate the notable event, so that the deep embodiment of General Grant's life, service and character in the thought and conscience of his contemporaries may be fastened with transforming power upon the minds of the youth of the present generation.

"That special commemorative services be held at Point Pleasant, Ohio, the place of his birth, and at Riverside, New York, the place of his burial.

"That patriotic exercises be held on that day in the schools and churches of the land, that the memorable occasion may not pass without leaving deep and abiding impressions upon the hearts of the young and strengthening the faith of those who believe in the God of our fathers and in the priceless boon of civil and religious liberty. Your committee further recommends that the incoming commander-in-chief be authorized to formulate a program or order of exercises for the use of posts on that occasion, and that all members of the Grand Army of the Republic, insofar as they may be able, shall participate in some simple yet direct way in honoring the memory of Ulysses S. Grant.

"That all patriotic societies and organizations representing the several wars in which the United States has at any time participated, be requested to unite in the celebration of the anniversary, and that the Woman's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, and all orders allied to the Grand Army of the Republic, be invited to join with us in honoring the memory of General Grant."

The memorial in the botanical garden at the foot of the capitol, which will be dedicated simultaneously with the exercises of Gen. Grant's birthplace at Point Pleasant, Ohio, was conceived by and erected with funds gathered by the surviving veterans of the army of Tennessee. Many vexatious delays occurred after the sculptor began his work but the handsome bronze groups were completed at last. The dedication will be under the auspices of a committee including Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, Secretary Weeks, Bishop Fallows of Chicago and Colonel Clarence O. Sherrill of the army engineer corps.

Grant's birthday anniversary comes almost on the fifty-seventh anniversary of General Lee's surrender at Appomattox which took place on April 9, 1865. At the close of the Civil war, Grant's name was more frequently on the lips of the people than that of any other American, unless it was Lincoln. In 1869 he became president and was re-elected to a second term. So his name continued to be before the people. After retiring from the presidency in 1877 he was for a time less in the public eye, but he still was a favorite. His unfortunate business venture some years later excited the sympathy and concern of his friends. It was known that he was reduced almost to poverty. Then followed his illness from the dread disease of which so little is known even now.

When Grant began the preparation of his memoirs, he was ill. It became known he was hoping that, when published, the two volumes would yield a competence for his family. His suffering increased as the work went on, and at last, it became a race between him and death, while mankind watched and waited in anxiety for the result. Grant conquered, for he lived to complete the work. That accomplished, he welcomed the relief from his sufferings that soon came.

That was nearly thirty-seven years ago. Other wars have intervened, great national and international problems have arisen and commanded the attention of the people, and thus the name and the fame of Ulysses S. Grant have not faded so prominently with the people as they did forty or fifty years ago.

But during the more than half a century those veterans who served under him and who loved him, have never wavered in their devotion to his memory. The veterans of the Civil war are fast disappearing. THE IMMIGRATION PROBLEM
The immigration problem is coming up again before congress either in a demand for an extension of the present law for another year or else the passage of a new measure.

As the law stands at present it allows only 3 per cent of the foreign born nationalities already here to enter each year and the violation of this provision by the steamship companies, has caused endless trouble at Ellis Island and great cruelty and injustice to the immigrants brought here in violation of the law, as many of them were sent back to the countries whence they came.

If the law is to be extended, provision should be made for preventing the abuses resulting from the eagerness of steamship companies to secure passengers. They should be compelled to keep within the limits allowed by law in the numbers of each nationality brought here and United States inspectors should do the sifting at the point of embarkation instead of at Ellis Island.

In view of the present business depression in this country and the eagerness of millions of people to get away from the misery that prevails in Europe, it would be well to keep up the bars against an influx of immigrants for another year at least. By that time this nation, we expect, will have fully recovered from the business stagnation and will be in a condition to assimilate a considerable number of immigrants and employ them in the various industries. Under present conditions it would be almost criminal to allow immigrants to come here expecting to find employment, unless they have relatives ready to provide for them and see that they do not become public charges after their arrival here.

Inasmuch as the easiest solution of this problem will be found in extending the life of the present law, we presume that congress will readily adopt that course. The republicans have extended the emergency tariff measure and they may also adopt the line of least resistance on the immigration problem.

The present law will lapse on June 30 of the present year. The possible immigration for the current financial year under the law now in force is $55,825, of whom 201,821 are allotted to northwestern Europe and 154,001 to other countries.

The countries included in northwestern Europe in this classification are: Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Great Britain and Ireland.

The Sterling bill introduced in the United States senate last April, provides for the establishment of an immigration board with power to control the volume of immigration from any or all countries and to give preference to the immigrants most easily assimilated by English speaking communities. Under this provision the board could discriminate against immigration from other than English speaking nations. It also provides that the total immigration for any one year shall not exceed the three-quarters of one per cent of the total population of the United States, which would be about $25,000.

This bill is backed by a so-called national committee of 1500 leading Americans, most of them prominent in official and professional life. It has features that cannot be adopted by the United States without giving serious offense to countries discriminated against in the number of their immigrants to be admitted.

BUCKET SHOPS
"Bitten again" is the wall from New York small investors, who intrusted money to the fly-by-night bucket shops that have recently gone to the wall of financial disaster. Recent numerous failures in and about Wall Street have started an extensive judicial investigation, followed by indictments and several arrests on the part of bucketshop proprietors, who are unwilling to face court mule.

A steady stream of failures of alleged brokers in and through the New York financial district during the past month, with resultant heavy loss to "customers" throughout the United States and Canada, recently led the New York district attorney to start an investigation of practices by these "brokers," the most common being the bucketing of orders.

The list from New York's financial gambling district, which seems to harbor the good and bad about equally, as usual, shows 31 firms that have gone into bankruptcy since the first of the year. Twelve of these have been found by grand juries to have operated in a manner to warrant indictment of some of their members. Nineteen persons involved are under indictment, and some of them have disappeared from the city.

More stringent methods must be taken to prevent the constant appearance of these so-called "bucket shops" on the financial maps of large cities and other places. Financial sharks about whom very little is known and who "work on shavings," are apt to get money easily from the victims they are constantly playing for. The sorrowful part of the game is that there are so many names of ill-advised and almost helpless people of small funds, who are placed on the "sucker lists" and appear to be such easy victims of old-time confidence games of this kind.

If New York makes a thorough clean-up of these dishonorable habits of its financial district, the men of finance who are legitimate and "above board," will be better off and the people who invest savings, protected. The latest attempt on the part of the officers of the law to ferret out and dispose of the illicit stock swindlers and financial sharks of uncertain origin and calling, is one of the best

After all, the first ten commandments are the hardest.

A little more juice for those sleepy time clocks, gent!

Wonder if George W. originated that saying after cutting down a cherry tree, "When a Fellow Needs a Friend?"

The Japs are willing to acknowledge their equality so long as we don't forget their superiority.

Funny how the other fellow's ideas are always propaganda because you didn't think of 'em first.

If half of Chicago's police force are bootleggers, as claimed, perhaps that explains why the other half are so contented with their jobs.

Our idea of a real chamber of horrors would be a bout with some of that new Mexican plague that is creeping across the Rio Grande and giving the Texas police a lot of trouble.

A Thought For Today
No man ever sank under the burden of the day. It is when tomorrow's burden is added to the burden of today that the weight is more than a man can bear. Never load yourself so.—George MacDonald.

Awful Thing!
Little Milford had just had her first dip in the "bath."

"How did you like it, dearie?" asked her mother. As she turned the little 6-year-old's frock, Milford glared at the sparkling sea with much annoyance.

"I didn't like it at all, mother," she replied coldly. "I sat on a wave and went through!"—Edinburgh Scotsman.

A Word a Day
Today's word is Abominable. It is pronounced a-bah-m-i-nay, with the accent on the second syllable. It means to hate very much, to abhor, to loathe. It comes from Latin, "abominare," to curse. Companion words—abominable, abomination. It is used like this—"The honest man abominates the rich-folks' plunger who robs widows and poor men."

Weights and Measures
"Johnny," said the teacher, "can you tell me what are weights and measures?" There was a long silence. Teacher got rather impatient. "Come, come," she said, "surely you can answer a simple question like that."

"Please, teacher," replied Johnny suddenly, "walls are people who come howling outside the house Christmas eve, and measures are what dukes take to stop 'em."

Sort of Useless
The man who had just made some money and had endeavored to drive his own automobile phoned the police station that his car had been stolen.

"Yes, sir. We just found one."

"Are the mud guards bent as if they had scraped through a doorway?"

"Yes."

"Is the front axle twisted as if it had tried to climb a telegraph pole?"

"Yes."

"Is the tank empty of gasoline?"

"Yes."

"Is the radiator smashed as if it had gone through a stone wall?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's my car. You can keep it."—Fellcan.

Narrowest Streets
It has been said that Bonares, the sacred city of Hindus, is like a splendid mask over a plumb line. It lies behind a long line of palaces and temples, these following the Ganges are wonderful and glorious, but they cannot compensate for the squalor that they are meant to conceal. One feature alone would make the city unbearable to any stranger used to air spaces and light: the streets are like cracks between two rows of houses.

By the wealthy, it narrows more and more, until the breadth is so slight that a man might almost step from the windows of one house into those of another across the way. Ordinary speech in a front room on one side of the lane is plainly audible by the neighbors opposite. One enters this lane by a side alley, and, led to a stone doorway. The first houses run 150 to 200 feet, and then the long turn, at right angles, and accommodations for one or two houses. Then, there is another turn, and two more houses, and so the alley runs, until it ends in a distant street.—Washington Star.

Anti-Bolshevik Leader on Way to U. S.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—General Gregorio Semonoff, anti-Bolshevik leader, is reported to be on the steamship Empress of Russia, bound for the United States. He is said to be travelling incognito.

The American department of state early in January, granted permission to Gen. Semonoff to spend six months in the United States, and the consular officials in China were ordered to vise his passport.

Germany Agrees to Annual Payments

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—A provisional agreement reached between the allied reparations commission and the German government provides for the annual payment by Germany of 720,000,000 gold marks in cash and 1,450,000,000 gold marks in kind, it was announced today.

Should the deliveries in kind not reach the total fixed, the cash payments will not be increased, under this agreement. Thus, it is pointed out, the entente should have considerable interest in seeing that the stipulated deliveries of products were duly made.

Says Washington's Hair Was Hazel Brown

Prof. Bailey to Sail For Peru

CAMBRIDGE, Feb. 28.—Prof. Solon I. Bailey, of the Harvard college observatory will sail tomorrow from New York for Peru to take charge of the Harvard astronomical station at Arequipa. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Bailey and Miss Annie J. Cannon of the observatory staff.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
From beginning to end the bill presented at B. F. Keith's theatre this week is one of the best offerings of the winter season. In fact there were many comments made after the performance to the effect that it was the "best ever." Headed by Bert Baker & Company, in an act entitled "Everlasting," which in itself was a dandy act, the rest of the bill led up to the main act. Munning Baker & Co. a race for first honors were the acts offered by Frank Gaby, Furman & Nash, Dan O'Grady, and Homer Romaline. Some of Harry Johnson's stuff was also well received. An act by La Dora & Beckman completed the bill.

Bert Baker proved to be one of the best fibbers ever to appear on the local boards. He was supposed to lie, his act called for it, but even his audience was amazed at the ease and fluency with which he dealt in untruths. It was another case of a busy business man attempting to pull the wool over the poor wife's eyes and Bert almost succeeded, in fact he got away with many a very fat lot of it.

When friend wife came into her own, Mr. Baker was well supported by a cast of three others, one of whom was a bit of a hit, but who could not touch the artistic work of the master mind. Mr. Baker also did a bit of soft shoes dancing that won the approbation of the well pleased audience.

Homer Romaline broke open the bill and during the time he was before, behind and on top of the foot-lights, gave the people more thrills of music than he had ever given in a half dozen acts of this type. Mr. Romaline was a dare-devil aerial artist. In fact he became so daring at times that he was noticed many a time in the crowd once he got to watch his act. He had a line of chatter that took a bit of the seriousness of the act, holding steady. He was given the biggest hand a first act has received in a long time.

William Dunham and Grace O'Malley kept things up tight where Romaline left off, and then they introduced several songs, their "stuff" went over big, especially the patter chorus and "uke" number.

Frank Gaby is one of those fellows who makes one laugh even with the bluest case of blues. He does a glitzy act, but he has a big line of ventriloquism of the latest kind. He does not pretend to be a top-notch act, a ventriloquist, but he does it better than many, posing as experts in that art.

Ed. Furman and William Nash score a bulls-eye with their shining number. This act is a humorist, a big hit, and a pity they do not offer more of the close variety.

Harry Johnson is billed as a brother of the famous Al and does his best to make the audience think the talent was evenly divided among the Johnson family. He has a fellow and girl with him and will lead to the Opera house towards its close.

La Dora and Beckman in aerial dancing furnish an unusual nightcap. The act is the woman is especially difficult and she is rewarded many times with outbursts of applause.

OPERA HOUSE

Just for a little change the players at the Opera House are this week treating the many patrons to a musical comedy and if one is to judge by the reception the performers were given last evening it is fair to assume that all roads will lead to the Opera house this week.

"Pitter Patter" is a brilliant offering with plenty of music, which includes no end of laughter. Unlike a number of musical selections, "Pitter Patter" discloses an interesting story, which keeps the interest of the audience from beginning to end. It deals with the fortune of Howard Mason, a harassed mine owner, and the deluge of a dishonest competitor who endeavors to ruin him by giving him a deed to a strip of land that, unknown to Mr. Mason, is rich in copper. Of course there is a little love story, which proves that true love never runs smooth.

This opera is full of pep and abounds in song and dance specialties and it may be said that there is not a dull moment from the time the curtain rises to the time it drops.

Assisting the regular players in producing "Pitter Patter" are Adrian Perrin and a lively chorus. Miss Margaret, who plays the part of "Meridian," a real vamp, in a most satisfactory manner. Adrian Perrin appears to advantage in the parts of "Harry Forester." As "Dick Crawford," Louis Albion could not be better. Anna Layne plays two parts, that of the proprietor of a small refreshment place in Colorado Springs and that of a servant in the Mason home. Her part is cleverly sustained. William Vorsewick is also clever as the mine superintendent.

The musical program is varied, consisting of solos, quartets and choruses that are very pleasing. The play will be repeated twice daily for this remainder of the week.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Feature attractions are the offerings in the film presentation program at the popular Merrimack Square theatre all this week. For the first three days there is a dramatic trilogy of excellent pictures in each show.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
Let's Play

Come, let's be frivolous; Fate shall not shroud us,
We're not afraid of her glare;
Down all our fretfulness deep in forgetfulness,
Let us make faces at Care!
What has it signified when you've been dignified?
It was a bluff that you threw;
You needn't bluff with us, out out that stuff with us,
Come on, be frivolous, do!

Chuck all the serious problems that weary us,
Give all your troubles the razz,
Laugh unabatedly, dance syncretically,
Here's to the spirit of jazz!
It is a beautiful thing to be dutiful
But—let's break loose now and then,
Life will be breezier, kinder and easier
When we start working again.

Come on, be gay with us, join in and play with us,
Though Mrs. Grundy protests,
Let bedlam rule awhile, be just a fool awhile,
Full of nonsensical jests;
Join us in rollicking, singing and frolicking,
Give us no "maybes" or "buts,"
Healthy frivolity's tonic in quality—
Come on, be one of the nuts!

OPPOSES FEDERAL AID TO THE SCHOOLS

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Retrenchment in expenditures for public schools is seriously threatening the educational progress of the United States, John J. Tigert, federal commissioner of education, told delegates to the convention of the National Education Association here yesterday.

"It is obvious," he said, "that the present efficiency of the schools cannot be maintained if teachers' salaries are reduced and it is probable that they will have to be increased still further even in the face of decreases in the cost of living." The average teacher's salary at present, he added, is not over $200 a year.

A difference of opinion developed over the need for a centralized direction of the nation's educational activities in charge of a member of the presidential cabinet. The need for such a national department was urged by George D. Strayer of Columbia university.

Alexander Inglis of Harvard university opposed federal support and direction of public schools, as "fundamentally un-American policy of government."

Long distance, governmental interference in schools administration, he denounced as "vicious."

"The proper function of the federal government in education is that guidance and stimulation through investigation, through the scientific study of educational practice and educational conditions on a nation-wide and comprehensive scale, through the collection and dissemination of information and otherwise, when called upon by states and communities for expert service," he said.

Prof. Inglis was the only speaker to oppose the Sterling-Towner bill, which would place a secretary of education in the president's cabinet and permit the appropriation of upwards of $100,000,000 annually for educational purposes. "Let us not be deceived," he asserted. "All acts providing for federal subsidies in aid of education carry with them the dynamic of federal participation in the control of education and the determination of educational policies. When that bomb explodes it will be of little service to have their advocates protest that they did not know their measures were loaded. The fifty-fifty policy is one of the most subtly dangerous inventions of modern politicians at least as far as education is concerned."

Augustus O. Thomas, commissioner of education of Maine, said:

"If we make the country school as good as the city school, we must have a new type of building, we must have gymnasiums, libraries, agricultural museums, art rooms, music rooms, shops, laboratories and diversified courses of study. In the consolidated school the welfare of the children must be conserved by adequate facilities for transportation."

34 STUDENTS DROPPED

ORONO, Me., Feb. 28.—Thirty-four students were dropped from the University of Maine at the end of the first semester because of failure to meet college requirements. It was announced today. Of this number 26 were freshmen, six sophomores and two juniors.

Do You Long for Days of Youth? "Penrod" Will Bring 'Em Back

"YOU BETTER NOT LET THAT PUP GET IN A SCRAP WITH MINE," WESLEY BARRY SAYS TO THE ROUGHNECK. "MY DOG IS FIERCE AND HE'D EAT HIM UP." THIS IN "PENROD."

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—This country faces a predicament. No sister's beam will be safe from being forced to pay tribute to young brothers.

Empty lots will be undermined for outlaw caves.

Millions of church and school entertainments will be turned into riots.

Our entire social system faces upheaval.

Marshall Neilan will be to blame for it all. He has brought to life on the screen all the devilish antics of boys that coach Tarkington painted in words in "Penrod."

It used to be that mother could keep such a book from her darling boy and if it did fall into his hands she could tell him that those things only happened in books.

But now it's different. Effulgent youth comes into its own on the screen.

Mother's darling can protest that a regular guy like Wesley Barry might want to act in no "Penrod" of the Tarkington sort, but that he didn't want to go to no dancing school and that he read lurid fiction in bed when his dad thought he was reading his lessons.

And in the end everybody—in the picture—had to admit that they knew just as much as grown-up folks.

That's what stult to be presenting to the youth of America. The censors ought to be doing something about it.

The first thing you know, ground pants are worn in presumptions about things of which they know nothing.

Although "Penrod" on the screen may add years to young shoulders it strips them from old shoulders. One lives again in that dim and subterranean boyhood as he watches the reel unroll.

And though the reel seems rather long and meandering a bit in its story, one only wishes that it would run on forever with its breath of youth incarnate.

Again, Advertising

A film that prouder to be a work of art is often spoiled by a slight flaw. These flaws appear more frequently in subtleties than in any other phase of a film. Some subtleties are not needed, some are too verbose, some too illogical and some are too indirect.

Any subtlety that casts the taint of commercialism upon a feature film is indiscreet. Such a subtlety is contained in "Penrod," a picture that possesses great sincerity in direction.

The subtitle reads: "Have you heard Paul Whiteman's latest?" That, as a remark to the leader of an orchestra.

Irving Berlin, Ted Lewis or some other creator of jazz music probably could have been mentioned. The result could have been mentioned. The result could have been mentioned. The result could have been mentioned.

June Elvidge is to play Phyllis Barry's old role in the new version of "A Fool There Was." Lewis Stone will play Edward Jess's old part and Irene Rich will also be in the cast.

Charlie Chaplin has completed the filming of his latest comedy. It is now being edited.

The young and handsome daughter of a big officer, who through her popularity among the men, becomes the target of a jealous neighbor. The young woman, through her love for antiquities, is led into a position, which through the action of her neighbor, makes her become an outcast among her set. The shock is fatal to the father of the young woman and after his death the daughter sets out for one of the South Sea islands, where she maintains a gambling joint. By chance, some time later, the neighbor makes a brief stop on the island and the two women meet. What happens after that can be seen thoroughly appreciated on the screen.

In "Dr. Jim" Frank Maya impersonates a young doctor, whose aim is to be with children and give them his professional care. Through the interest he displays in the hospital of which he is at the head, he is enabled to give up the many social engagements prepared by his wife and this leads to a misunderstanding between the husband and wife. Through excessive jealousy the wife becomes a nervous wreck so he is ordered by his physician to go on a long sail and the boat he chartered is manned by a crew of ruffians. While at sea trouble develops and the doctor, who has almost fully recovered from his illness, takes an active part in bringing about the safety of the crew, particularly the skipper, the biggest ruffian of them all, to their normal senses by hard knocks.

exceptional interest. "Saturday Night," one of Cecil B. de Mille's latest offerings. It proved a big drawing card yesterday afternoon and last night, delighting large audiences and creating intense interest, particularly when the hair-raising scene, showing a crowd of men and an exciting tenement house fire were pictured with wonderful detail and startling reality.

The action of the picture for the first three days is Lewis Stone in "The Northern Trail." The production is one of the most expensive ever taken on the screen and tells a story of great interest, capturing the attention of patrons from the outset. The melodrama is never overdone and the action being paid closely to all the details necessary for the presentation of a play of this kind with "Frozen North" is a masterpiece.

The de Mille production is a story familiar in some respects, yet containing new and attractive scenes and situations sure to grip the attention of theatre-goers, preventing many who watched the picture closely from knowing just how it would come out in the end. The story is one about four persons, very young, who try their utmost to mix oil and water—in the form of the little wealthy and the lowly servant—but they fail of success.

In the end, however, each seeks his own kind to the exclusion of the other. The story is told with a lot of intimate detail, many odd happenings and comic situations, together with scenes of heart-tugging that keep the lineal in interest.

The story runs from a girl's tumble down stairs with a basket of clothes and the overturning of a chair containing gold cash to a case of love at first sight, a thrilling scene on a high railroad trestle and later the elopement of a girl with her lowly chauffeur. There are two marriages, and then unhappiness. Money is scarce where it used to be plenty, and vice versa. It is a mighty picture, told in a way that solved it by Mr. de Mille and his players, and it is worth seeing from beginning to end. The picture is sure to win a wide of intense delight, warmth and color, and, of course, all ends happily.

The excellent work of the principals, Edith Roberts and Jack Mower, is to be well commended and the parts taken by Leonice Joy and Conrad Naezel are also well done. Theodore Roberts, ever popular with movie fans, takes the part of van Sydeman. Pers in excellent style.

In addition to the two leading presentations for the first three days of the week, there is a comedy, new pictures and another attractive offering well worth seeing.

THE STRAND THEATRE

The term "excellent" fits the program that is being shown at the Strand theatre for the first three days of the week. "Penrod" is the feature.

Frank Maya, two noted screen stars are both being featured. The former appears in a most delightful and thrilling picture, "The Northern Trail."

There is a first class comedy as well as pictures of current events. The latter are particularly interesting to women, for among the slides shown are those which give a good view of the numerous queens of Europe, who today are attending the royal wedding in London. While a series of slides showing styles to be worn at the festivities are also very pleasing to the members of the fair sex.

"The Lure of Jade," is a little story that has its beginning at a night house in this country, and which climaxes in a South Sea Island. It deals with

AT TEXTILE SYMPOSIUM

Textile Manufacture and Economies Discussed by Bankers and Manufacturers

PHILADELPHIA, Textile manufacture and economies were discussed today by bankers, manufacturers and engineers at the Textile Symposium called for exchange of views between New England, the middle states and the south.

Sixteen associations, including textile, engineering and scientific bodies were represented at the meeting, which was arranged through the co-operation of the textile professional division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the direction of Charles T. Plunkett of Adams, Mass., chairman, and G. S. Perkins of Boston, secretary.

The program included inspection trips to some of the more important plants in Philadelphia, two open sessions devoted chiefly to technical questions and a dinner at which addresses were to be delivered by a number of prominent speakers. At the open sessions the topics were "European Textile Conditions and the World Cotton Conference at Manchester" and "Contrasts in Textile and American Textile Manufacturing Practices."

Dexter S. Kimball, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and dean of the Cornell college of engineers, led the discussion at the opening session, and William D. Harshbarger, Lawrence, Mass., former president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, delivered the principal address at the other meeting.

COOPER WALL PAPER STORE

Tomorrow everyone is invited to visit the Cooper Wall Paper store in the Hildreth building, when this company, which is already operating 23 stores throughout the eastern states, will present its wares to the Lowell public. Mr. O. D. Dillman, the owner, has spared no expense and has leased a large part of the second floor of the Hildreth building. The color scheme of the decorations is grey and white, with panel effect. The exterior of the shop is done in orange and blue.

The Misfortunes of a Famous Strong Man

ROY J. McDONALD is one of the handsomest of the strong men in professional life. He is not only a magnificent specimen of physical manhood, with his wonderful muscular development, but he has a fine head and handsome features. He is well known throughout the show world. During the season of 1921 he was with the Ringling Brothers Circus. When the season opened, he was rather worried about his condition. He says:—

"I had been losing strength, and when the season opened I was completely run down. People who saw me perform probably did not appreciate it but I had lost flesh, and was having a hard time to get through the performance. I was in constant fear that I would have to leave the show. My complexion got bad, my stomach was completely out of condition, and when just about ready to give up a friend recommended Snail and I commenced to take it. Before I was through the first bottle my appetite returned and I had gained seven pounds. After taking a few bottles I was completely restored, and have been perfectly well since then. Snail is certainly a very great medicine for any one who feels that he is generally out of condition."

"Mark had long, golden curls hanging over his shoulders. He used to carry my books to school every morning and carry them home in the afternoon."

"And he'd treat me to apples and oranges and divide his candy with me. In the winter Mark spent most of his time on the ice. I couldn't skate, but he always arranged for me to go along."

"The first time I ever saw Mark was on a hot summer day. He came out of his house and started showing off, turning hand springs and cutting capers."

"His heel hit me and I was thrown to the ground and knocked unconscious. I recall hearing the children talking about how scared Mark was."

One of Mrs. Frazier's most treasured possessions is an invitation to Twain's wedding in the humorist's own handwriting.

named party 20 years ago. Pardon the suggestive figure."

In October, 1908, Mrs. Frazier visited Mark Twain's home at Stornfield, Conn., and spent a week there as his guest.

NEWSPAPER NOT A PUBLIC SERVICE UNIT

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Holding a newspaper is not a public service corporation and may sell its product to whomsoever it chooses and may refuse to sell it to others, Federal Judge Landis yesterday dismissed for want of equity a suit brought by the Chicago Journal of Commerce against the Chicago Tribune.

The plaintiff, charging conspiracy against the Tribune and some of its officials and employees, sought an injunction and $250,000 in damages. The basis of the action was a notice served by the Tribune upon various branches of its distribution and delivery service that they were free to handle the Journal of Commerce if they choose, but that if they did so they could not also handle the Tribune.

BOXING

Newport Johnny Brown who meets Mike Castle in the main bout of the Moody club on next Thursday evening is a veteran of the recent war, serving in the British Coast Artillery unit seeing more than 17 months service in France.

While in the army Johnny learned his first lessons in the boxing game. Fighting came to the Newport lad naturally and before he left France he had cleaned up every boxer in the featherweight class, winning the championship of his division.

Johnny is only 22 years old and looks to have a rosy future ahead of him in the boxing business. He has never been beaten by a man of his own weight. Last year he boxed lightweights and even welterweights to secure matches, but since the veteran Chick Hayes took him in charge he sticks to his own division and is going great guns.

The Newport battler feels confident that he will repeat again over Castle and he says that he will go after the Lawrence with the purpose of stopping Mike. But Mike will be ready to give him a battle and contends that he knows Brown's style and will have no difficulty in solving it.

Word comes from Lawrence that a large delegation will follow their favorite up river and will wager that Mike wins the verdict. Mike is training like a trooper and will enter the ring in prime fettle.

Bender in New Role

What becomes of the famous stars of the diamond?

In his day Chief Bender was one of the greatest pitchers in the history of the game.

Bender still dabbles in baseball, but in a minor league way. He is to manage the International League club this year.

While it isn't generally known, Bender is as famous with the shotgun as he ever was with a baseball.

Bender is a crack shot, and is a great devotee of the trap.

COACH WILCE SAYS RULES ARE RIGHT

By J. W. WILCE

Football Coach, Ohio State University

Summer baseball is really the only problem that confronts the "Big Ten" in the west.

Whether it would be wise to permit pay during the summer is a matter to be determined. Football is essentially a college sport. Educational ideas and professional ideas in sport are not the same.

Wholesale non-professional football for as many as possible will continue to be encouraged.

There will always be a commercial temptation for the college athlete from unscrupulous promoters.

Commercialization will prevent absolute perfection of ideal in individual cases from time to time.

External vigilance by coaches, faculty and alumni is the only effective way of combating the present conditions that exist in college athletics.

Faculty-controlled athletics in college will maintain comparative ideals in spite of difficulty. Conference are the practical solution of most difficulties. Colleges will form conferences and seek their own best in the matter of enforcing standards.

Secret breaking of rules of a game in the cannot be entirely eradicated. Individual cases will be punished from time to time, proving to the athletes the need of observance of rules.

There is no need of hysteria. The free and cooperative spirit of American football cannot be professionalized.

The standards at most western colleges are fairly well agreed on. The enforcement of these standards and not continued agitation is the real test.

Kilt, in its modern form, can be traced back to 1226.

Modern kilts were first worn in England about 1540.

Walter McCredie, Manager of Seattle This Year, Sent Nearly Twoscore Star Players to Big Show

Who is the greatest developer of major league talent in the minor leagues? Out on the Pacific coast they will tell the world that it is Walter McCredie.

For years McCredie has directed the destinies of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League.

It was while in that city that he developed most of the players who have made the grade in the big show.

This season McCredie will manage the Seattle club of the Coast League. He says he will be disappointed unless he sends at least three men to the majors for trial.

About three dozen players have been discovered, developed and sent to the majors by McCredie. It would be impossible to offer more convincing proof that he is the Connie Mack of the minors.

"Get them young, Pick 'em right. You can make a rough diamond shine by proper polishing. You can't make a money piece of brass look good, no matter how much you fuss with it," says McCredie.

1911—Ivan Olson, infielder, to Cleveland.

1914—Harry Heilmann, outfielder, to Detroit.

1915—Dave Bancroft, shortstop, to Philadelphia Nationals; Art Kores, third base, in New York Giants.

1917—Pitcher Stanley Coveleskie, Pitcher Allen Sutherland and First Baseman Gusto to Cleveland.

1918—Dutch Reuther, pitcher, to Chicago Cubs; Lew Blue, infielder, to Detroit.

1919—Charles Hollocher, shortstop, to Chicago Cubs.

1920—Gus Sutherland, pitcher, to Detroit; Walter Mills, pitcher, to Cleveland.

1921—Pitcher Stanley Coveleskie, Pitcher Allen Sutherland and First Baseman Gusto to Cleveland.

1922—Gus Sutherland, pitcher, to Detroit; Walter Mills, pitcher, to Cleveland.

Stars Sent to Majors

1907—Catcher Larry McLean and Outfielder Mike Mitchell to Cincinnati; Catcher Pat Donohue to the Athletics.

1908—Pitcher Bill Easlick to Cincinnati; Bill Sweeney, infielder, to Chicago; Pete Lister, first baseman, to Detroit.

1909—Outfielders "Buddy" Ryan and Glantz and Yankees the pitchers were the big thing.

A staff consisting of Mays, Hoyt, Jones, Shawkey and Bush certainly looks formidable. No outfit in the American league is any better. Those five pitchers should keep the Yankees in the running with only ordinary help on the offense.

All of which brings us up to the fact that the Yankees are going to be a tough aggregation to beat if they continue to hit, plus good pitching.

Which is the greater asset in baseball, a smashing offensive or a strong defense?

This thought is occasioned by the present plight of the New York team of the American league.

In 1921 the Yankees battered their way to an American league pennant. Unquestionably through the medium of slugging the New York Americans triumphed over Cleveland.

Throughout the greater part of the season the club was handicapped by a lack of pitching. Until late in the year, when Warner turned in several good games, the club was without a left-hander.

The usually dependable Shawkey was out and bad. He started in the year with a bad arm. It finally rounded into form and he did some great work. Then in the fall he reverted back to his form of the early spring.

Mays and Hoyt were really the only pitchers who worked consistently during the year. The New York Yankees of 1921 won a pennant with a very erratic staff, only two men being dependable. The club really blundered its way to a pennant.

The Yankees will be without much of their punch for the first few weeks of the 1922 campaign. Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, who broke up many a game, will be among them, leaving at the request of Judge Landis.

However, since the close of last year the Yankee owners have added some points on the defensive side. Two of the best pitchers in the game, Joe Bush and Sam Jones, are now on the Yankee roster.

The question that now arises, will Jones and Bush through their defensive tactics be able to carry the burden which will be imposed upon them through the loss of Ruth and Meusel?

In 1926 the Chicago White Sox were known as the "Hitless Wonders." The club was a weak hitting aggregation. It over there was said it didn't seem to waste a base hit, however, and on the defense it was all-right, backed up by superb pitching.

With three first string pitchers, Ed Walsh, Doc White and Nick Altrock, the White Sox in 1926 breezed through to a pennant and a world's championship. It was in that year Connie Mack's team came through with the big upset by defeating the supposedly invincible Cubs.

I am inclined to think that Jones and Bush will be able to carry the burden during the absence of the two Yankee sluggers. In the series between the

SWIMS CANAL IN CHAINS

Alma Mann, 12-year-old daughter of an American employee in the Canal Zone, has won for herself the title of "Houdini girl" by her unusual swimming stunts. One of her performances is to swim the canal, chained hand and foot. She has done it dozens of times. "Houdini" she says "swimming always did come natural for me."

Race horses are often insured for amounts as high as $100,000.

Classics of the Diamond

Nick Altrock can do other things besides clowning on the ball field. At that particular stunt he is a star. His act goes big with the fans. In his day Nick was a great pitcher. He never had the stuff of Rube Waddell, but he had a head and used it.

Likewise Nick had a great half back motion that made it suicide for a base runner to take much of a lead off first base. To use the words of Nick, he pitched to first base as well as the batter.

Today Nick is still of much value to the Washington club in coaching the young pitchers. As a coacher at third base he has one of the toughest jobs on the ball field.

However, the present-day fans do not take Nick in a serious light. To them he is merely the clown or comedian of the ball field.

Nick has always contended that he was born about 15 or 20 years too soon. When he was a star he received in the neighborhood of $3000. Ordinary ball players get that much today.

Evidently Nick was thinking of the old days, as the idol of the Chicago fans, when he pulled the following bit of repartee, which is a bit of a classic in its way:

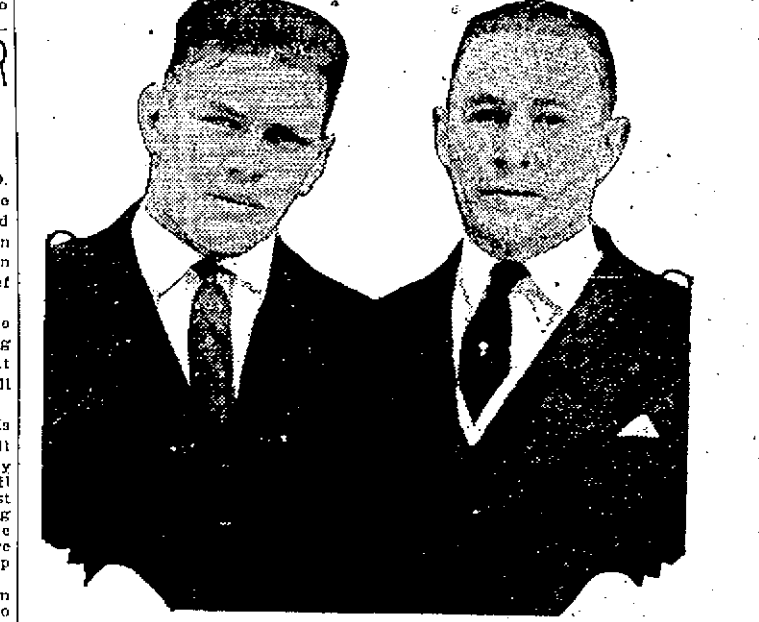

While waiting for the train in the Washington station a couple of gypsy fortune tellers tried to induce some of the athletes to let them drape out their future by reading their palm.

Naturally the players had the gypsy queens concentrate on Nick. One of the bush-league players yelled:

"Come on, Nick, loosen up with a quarter, and let the lady tell you your future."

"Young man," replied Nick, "my future is behind me, and with it a lot of loose quarters."

Title Necessary Asset

In order to get big purses it is necessary for a fighter to boast a championship title.

Champion Johnny Wilson without the middleweight title would be working for "ham and eggs" purses.

So when Gene Tunney asked Doc Bagley to handle his affairs Bagley conceived the idea of winning a title so that he could command good sized purses.

Bagley recalled that Battling Levinsky was still light heavyweight champion of the United States. Levinsky had been knocked out by Carpenter, but he still held the American title.

Bagley propped Tunney carefully for this bout. When the spot arrived where he believed Tunney was ready he closed the match. Tunney received the decision over Levinsky, also the title of light heavyweight champion of the United States.

Now that Tunney has a title Bagley is exploiting it and getting the money. Unquestionably he hopes that in two or three years Tunney will be ready for a shot at the heavyweight title.

Basketball Notes

Buckey Levy continues negotiations with some of the leading out of town basketball teams with a view of bringing them to Lowell to play his all star outfit.

The C.Y.M.I. and Y.M.C.I. teams are training daily for the opening of their series on Friday night.

All details for the opening of the big amateur championship series between St. Anne's and St. Patrick's teams on Monday night are about completed. The rival teams have agreed upon Billy Wilson as referee for the series.

The Green school is now the undisputed grammar school basketball league champion as the result of its victory over the Varnum school yesterday in the high school annex by a score of 8 to 6.

At the close of the regular season it was found that Varnum, Green and Lincoln had won the titles in their respective divisions. A triangular elimination series was decided upon. Green vanquished Lincoln last Saturday and

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 28.—Training "in the clouds" is the early season workout wrinkle that Dick Rudolph introduced here for eight battery men of the Boston Braves. The coach led McQuillan, Tyler, Marquand, Watson, Ellington, Gandy and Holke over a steep trail to a level plane on the summit of Hot Springs mountain 1000 feet above sea level. There the players pitched and tossed for a while and then scrambled down the rocky trail to the hot water baths. Rudolph had the same program mapped out for today.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Signed contracts of Wally Pipp, first baseman, and of Bob Meusel, the slugging outfielder, who after being with Babe Ruth, drew a suspension from Commissioner Landis for barnstorming last fall, have been received at Yankee headquarters.

Legal Notices
Commonwealth of Massachusetts—Middlesex ss. Probate Court.
To all persons who are or may become interested in the estate hereinafter mentioned, held in trust under the will of Harriet P. Brock, late of Lowell, in the County of Middlesex, and to all persons who have or may hereinafter become so interested:
Whereas, George E. King, trustee under said will, has presented to said Court his petition praying that he may be authorized to sell, either at public or private sale, certain real estate held by him as such trustee, situated in Lowell, in the County of Middlesex, and particularly described in said petition, for the reasons therein set forth.
You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the second day of March, A. D. 1922, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.
And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested in the estate fourteen days, at least, before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.
Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this tenth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.
P. M. ESTY, Register.
